1.3 Flipped Classroom

The flipped classroom model implemented at SGGSJ Government College, Paonta Sahib, represents a progressive shift from traditional teaching methods toward a more student-centered approach to learning. In this model, students are introduced to new concepts outside the classroom through pre-assigned readings, instructional videos, and digital resources. Classroom time is then utilized for in-depth discussions, collaborative problem-solving, and hands-on activities that reinforce and extend understanding.

This approach transforms the classroom into an interactive learning environment where students actively engage with the subject matter rather than passively receive information. Faculty members act as facilitators, guiding learners through practical exercises, case studies, and group projects that enhance comprehension and application of theoretical concepts.

At SGGSJ Government College, the flipped classroom method has been particularly effective in subjects that require analytical reasoning and application-based learning. By allowing students to explore topics independently before class, this method cultivates self-discipline, accountability, and critical thinking. Furthermore, the interactive classroom sessions promote peer learning, communication skills, and deeper conceptual clarity.

Through the adoption of the flipped classroom model, the college continues to strengthen its commitment to experiential and participatory learning, preparing students to adapt to diverse academic and professional contexts with confidence and competence.

1.3 (a) Field Visit by Department of Zoology

Educational Tour Report: Fish Farming Exposure for B.Sc Zoology Students

The Department of Zoology at SGGSI Govt. College Paonta Sahib organized an enriching educational tour for B.Sc. 3rd-year students to enhance their practical understanding of fish farming. The tour was conducted in two phases: a physical visit and a virtual session.

In the first phase, 15 students accompanied by Dr. Ritu Pant and Ms. Sulakshana Sharma visited the Fish Farm at Badripurr, Paonta Sahib on 6th September 2024. This farm, spread across 24 acres, is managed by the Department of Fish and Fisheries and cultivates species such as Common Carp, Silver Carp, Grass Carp, Rohu, and Mrigal. Students observed breeding techniques using specialized hapas and learned about farm management practices.

The second phase involved a virtual tour of the Trout Fish Farm at Nohardhar. This farm, located in a cold-water region, specializes in trout fish culture, offering insights into temperature-specific aquaculture.

The tour provided students with hands-on exposure to fish breeding, species diversity, and aquaculture techniques. It successfully bridged theoretical learning with field experience, fostering entrepreneurial interest and deeper understanding of fish culture. Overall, the initiative proved highly informative and beneficial for aspiring zoologists.

1.2(iv) Internal Assessment Mechanism

As per the guidelines of the affiliating Himachal Pradesh University Shimla, internal assessment is based on student's attendance, writing skills (assignments), presentation skills (seminar) and knowledge levels (internal/Mid Term Examination). The major component in Continuous Comprehensive Assessment system at the institutional level is mid-term examination. In order to ensure transparency in internal examinations, the date sheet is notified at the college level and in accordance with the date sheet, internal examinations are conducted. The question papers are prepared by teachers in charge by giving careful consideration of syllabus prescribed and questions papers are set keeping in view the 75 percent syllabus coverage. The evaluated answer sheets are shared with the students for peer discussion and classroom analysis. Thus, a proper analysis of each internal exam helps them to become better learners. The college observes complete transparency in the award of internal assessment based on the performance of the students by displaying it on the notice board and website. Each student is required to validate its acceptance by signing the award list within the notified time after which his acceptance is deemed understood. The students can also address their grievances concerning CCA marks if any through Grievance Redressal Application Form available. The students who fail to earn the minimum passing awards in internal assessment are given a chance to resubmit their assignments.

The teachers also conduct seminars and presentations in the class as part of Continuous Comprehensive Assessment (CCA) which provide the students a explicatory platform to the students.

2(v). Prompt Communication of Assessment/ Results to Students (e.g. displayed on college website/notice board/class groups/ submitted to COE).

Effective communication of assessment results is an essential aspect of the academic experience. Ensuring timely, accessible, and transparent communication of results to students fosters a positive academic environment, encourages accountability, and supports student success. The College is promoting the communication of assessment results to students, including the use of digital platforms, notice boards, class groups, and submissions to the Controller of Examinations (COE).

The primary objectives of promoting effective communication of assessment results are:-

- To provide students with easy and timely access to their assessment results.
- To enhance transparency and trust in the assessment process.
- To encourage student engagement and self-evaluation based on their performance.

Methods of Communicating Assessment Results:

1. College Website:

Publishing assessment on the college website allows students to access their scores securely from any location. Students are benefited in following ways by publishing the following results in following ways:

Students can check results at their convenience.

All assessment results are available in one centralized location.

2. Notice Boards:

Traditional notice boards are used to display assessment results in common areas accessible to students. Notice boards provide immediate visibility and quick access to results. Posting results in public spaces promotes a sense of community and encourages students to engage with their peers.

3. Class Groups (Digital Platforms):

Class groups on platforms such as WhatsApp allow faculty to communicate results directly to students.

Students receive updates on their personal devices. Results are shared directly with students reduces the chances of missed information. Students can easily communicate with faculty for any clarifications or discussions related to their results.

4. Submission to the Controller of Examinations (COE):

Official submission of assessment results to the COE ensures that all results are recorded in the official college records and can be verified when required. It ensures a verified and permanent record of assessment results.

Faculty submits CCA to the COE through HPU website https://nexams.hpushimla.in, and then publishes them on the official college website or provides them to departments for further communication.

By utilizing a combination of digital platforms, notice boards, and COE submissions, colleges can ensure the timely and efficient communication of assessment results to students. These methods not only enhance the student experience but also contribute to a transparent and supportive academic environment. Regular reviews and updates to these communication methods can further improve their effectiveness and align them with evolving student needs and technological advancements.

Percentage of Student satisfaction: The 82.31 % positive response rate from the student satisfaction survey reflects a strong overall experience among students. The feedback highlights the effectiveness of the college's academic programs and faculty support while identifying key areas for improvement. By addressing the concerns raised and implementing the recommended strategies, the college can continue to enhance the student experience and foster a positive learning environment. Regular assessments of student satisfaction will ensure ongoing improvement and alignment with students' needs and expectations. The online curriculum feedback from all stakeholders was collected through online Google forms. The feedback was analysed, and recommendations were made by the IQAC. Collecting student feedback is essential for understanding their learning experiences, identifying areas for improvement, and ensuring continuous enhancement of academic and support services. Utilizing online Google Forms for gathering feedback offers a convenient and efficient way to collect, analyse, and act on student opinions. The primary objectives of collecting student feedback are 1) to assess the quality of teaching and learning experiences. 2) to gauge student satisfaction with the course content, delivery, and support services. 3) to identify areas for improvement and potential adjustments to the curriculum or teaching methods. Google Forms was chosen for its accessibility, ease of use, and capability to compile data automatically for analysis. A link to the Google Form was shared with students via email and WhatsApp groups. The form included a mix of multiple-choice, rating scale, and open-ended questions covering aspects such as course content, teaching effectiveness, learning resources, and overall satisfaction. To encourage honest and candid responses, the feedback form was designed to be anonymous, ensuring student privacy. Key Areas of Feedback are course content, teaching effectiveness, learning resources and support and overall satisfactions and recommendations. The majority of respondents were satisfied with their academic experience, though there were requests for more opportunities for group discussions and collaborative projects. Google Forms is user-friendly and requires minimal technical skills, both for creators and respondents. Responses are collected in real-time and automatically compiled into a Google Sheet, making it easy to organize and analyse feedback. Students can complete the form on any device with internet access, increasing response rates and accessibility. Google Forms is a free tool, making it a cost-effective option for collecting feedback. Collecting student feedback through Google Forms has proven to be an efficient and effective method for understanding student experiences and identifying areas for improvement. By analysing the feedback, the institution can make data-driven decisions to enhance the quality of education and ensure a positive and supportive learning environment. Regular feedback collection, combined with timely implementation of improvements, will continue to foster a culture of continuous improvement and student satisfaction.

(iii) Students Suggestions and Doable Actions Taken

1. Artificial Intelligence

Industry 4.0 technologies have been sent to higher authority and industry collaborations. One day workshop on "A.I. and Full Stack Development" was organised by Department BCA, PGDCA and MBA in collaboration with IQAC and ALPHA TECHNOLOGIES Mohali on 24th July 2025.

2. Games and Physical Education

Students' trails are conducted by the different committees of the college for selection of teams in the various H.P.U. inter-college tournaments. At the college level, the students are encouraged to participate in the various college level sports events such as Intra-Mural Tournaments and Annual Sports Meet. In addition to that Physical Education Department provides sports articles for students' practices round the year.

3. Mental health and stress management

Mentor-Mentee Sessions: College is conducting the mentor-mentee sessions to guide younger students through problem-solving techniques and emotional regulation strategies.

4. Practical Life Skills

College is improving the practical solving skills of students in the following ways:

Classroom Challenges: Dividing the students into groups and presenting them with real-world problems that require innovative solutions.

Hackathons: Organize a hackathon where students work in teams to come up with creative technological solutions to social or environmental issues.

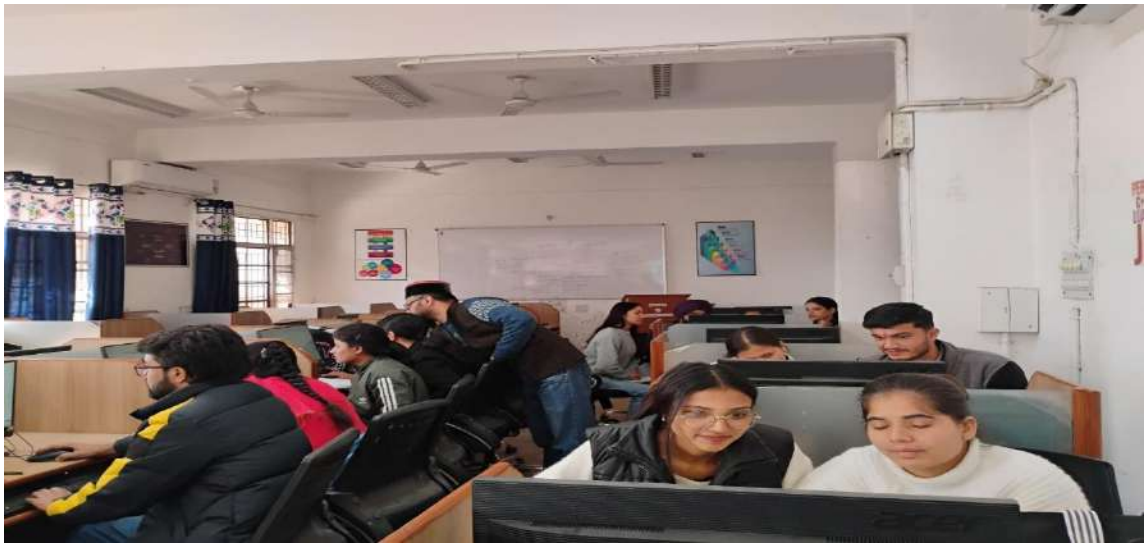

Experiments and Labs: For subjects like science and engineering, hands-on experiments allow students to test hypotheses, face challenges, and find solutions through trial and error.

Inquiry-Based Learning: Encourage students to ask questions, investigate, and develop solutions on their own or in groups. Instead of providing answers, guide them toward resources or approaches that will help them figure things out.

Project-Based Learning: Assigning projects where students must research, plan, and solve a problem over time. This allows them to delve deeply into a subject and develop independent problem-solving skills.

Organization of Workshop: In order to provide skills to the students, a Two Days college level Workshop on "Applications of GIS" was organised by the Department of Geography in collaboration with IQAC from 17th to 18-12-2024 Workshop cum hands-on training By Dr. Ajay Chanjta

Pre-Admission Counselling Data (Session 2024-25)

As part of the pre-admission counselling process, Government College Paonta Sahib has successfully enrolled a substantial number of students across various programmes for the academic session 2024-25. The following table summarizes the pre-admission data for first-year students:

First Year Admissions

Sr. No.	Programme Name (1st Year)	No. of Students Registered for Admission	No. of Students Admitted
1	BA-1	478	478
2	B. Com-1	122	122

The college has witnessed a high conversion rate, with most programmes achieving full or near-full capacity. The undergraduate courses in Arts, Commerce, and Science, along with BCA and PGDCA, have particularly seen substantial interest from students. However, there is a slight disparity in the admissions for certain postgraduate programmes, especially in subjects like MA Economics and MA Hindi.

Second Year Roll-On Admissions

The second-year roll-on admissions have maintained the momentum from the first-year admissions, with all programmes achieving 100% enrolment of registered students. The data is as follows:

The roll-on admissions for the second-year programs have seen full retention, indicating a high level of student satisfaction and continuation in the academic courses.

Third Year Roll-On Admissions

The third-year programs also reflect a strong retention rate, with all registered students successfully continuing in their respective programs.

1	BA-3	357	357
2	B. Com-3	84	84
3	B.Sc.-3	65	65
4	BCA-5th Sem	46	46

Government College Paonta Sahib has demonstrated an effective pre-admission counselling process, resulting in a high rate of admissions across its undergraduate and postgraduate programs. The strong retention rate for second and third-year students further reflects the institution's ability to maintain student engagement and satisfaction. However, attention to postgraduate courses with lower admission rates may be needed to enhance overall program enrolment in future sessions

2.2 Student Support, Services and Progression

2.2 Scholarships:

(i) Awareness about different scholarships schemes and 100% coverage of all eligible students: Scholarships are essential for reducing the financial burden on students and their families. They provide the means to cover tuition fees, educational materials, and other associated costs. However, the challenge often lies in awareness and understanding of these opportunities. Many students may be unaware of the scholarships they qualify for, or they may not know how to apply. Our campaign is designed to bridge this information gap and empower students to take control of their financial futures. For the academic year 2024-25, the information was disseminated through multiple channels to guarantee 100% coverage:

Multi-Channel Approach

1. WhatsApp Groups:

Each class has its official WhatsApp group, where we regularly share important updates regarding available scholarship schemes. These groups not only serve as a platform for information dissemination but also facilitate discussions among students about the application processes, eligibility criteria, and tips for successful applications. By using WhatsApp, we tap into a medium that is familiar and accessible to most students, ensuring that they receive timely updates and can easily ask questions.

2. College Notice Boards:

In addition to digital communication, we recognize that not all students engage with online platforms. To ensure inclusivity, we prominently display informational flyers on college notice boards throughout the campus. These flyers include key details about various scholarships, such as eligibility requirements, application deadlines, and contact information for further inquiries. This traditional method of communication is vital for reaching those who may prefer or require physical copies of information.

3. College Website:

Our college website serves as a central hub for scholarship information. We have created a dedicated section where students can find detailed notices about available scholarships, including descriptions of each scheme, eligibility criteria, application procedures, and deadlines. This online resource is regularly updated and is accessible to all students, enabling them to gather comprehensive information at their convenience. Moreover, we have included contact details for the scholarship committee, allowing students to reach out with any questions or concerns.

4. Collaborating with Faculty and Staff:

Collaboration with faculty and staff is another critical component of our awareness campaign. Faculty members often have valuable insights into the types of scholarships that align with specific academic programs. By working together, we can ensure that students receive targeted information relevant to their fields of study. Faculty can also play an influential role by encouraging students to apply for scholarships during class discussions and advising sessions.

In conclusion, our comprehensive scholarship awareness campaign for the 2024-25 academic year is designed to ensure that all eligible students are informed about the financial assistance available to them. Through a combination of digital and traditional communication methods, and collaborative efforts with faculty, we aim to create an inclusive environment where every student feels empowered to pursue scholarship opportunities. By actively participating in this initiative, we hope to enable students to secure the support they need for their academic pursuits, ultimately contributing to their success and the broader educational mission of our college.

At SGGSJ Government College, Paonta Sahib, student participation in sports has witnessed a remarkable rise in recent years, reflecting the institution's growing emphasis on physical fitness and holistic development. Presently, nearly 20% of the total student population is actively involved in various sporting activities conducted by the college. These include popular outdoor games such as cricket, kabaddi, kho-kho, and volleyball, as well as indoor options like chess, badminton, and table tennis.

A major factor behind this positive trend is the college's dedication to nurturing all-round growth among its students. The Department of Physical Education plays a vital role by organizing regular inter-college and intra-college competitions, which help students build sportsmanship and a sense of healthy competition. The annual sports meet, one of the most awaited events on campus, witnesses enthusiastic participation from both male and female students across all streams.

The college's NSS and NCC units also play a significant role in promoting fitness and active living. Through initiatives like fitness drives, marathons, and sports awareness programs, these units encourage students to maintain a healthy lifestyle and understand the importance of physical well-being.

In addition, the administration has taken several steps to strengthen the sports infrastructure by developing well-equipped playgrounds and providing modern sports gear. The continuous support and motivation from faculty members have further inspired students to take part in diverse sporting activities.

Beyond physical fitness, sports at SGGSJ College serve as a medium for character building—teaching discipline, teamwork, perseverance, and leadership. With its inclusive approach and expanding opportunities, the college aims to further increase student participation in sports in the coming years, ensuring that physical education remains an integral part of campus life.

Report on Mehndi Competition organised on 6th August 2024

The Shri Guru Gobind Singh Ji Government College, Paonta Sahib, held a vibrant Mehndi Competition on Tuesday, 6th August 2024, as part of the Hariyali Teej celebrations. This colorful event was organized by the National Service Scheme (NSS) unit in collaboration with the Ranger and Rovers unit of the college. The objective was to honor the traditional festival of Hariyali Teej while fostering a spirit of cultural appreciation and artistic expression among students. Hariyali Teej, celebrated with great joy and enthusiasm, is known for its deep-rooted cultural significance and is traditionally associated with the monsoon season and the worship of Goddess Parvati.

The event saw enthusiastic participation from students across various departments, who were excited to display their Mehndi artistry. Participants were given a one-hour window to create intricate Mehndi designs, which reflected their creativity, precision, and alignment with the festival's theme.The students drew inspiration from traditional patterns, nature, and the vibrant spirit of Hariyali Teej. The competition provided a unique platform for students to showcase their talents and connect with their cultural heritage. A panel of esteemed judges, including Dr. Ritu Pant, Prof. Sulaxna, and Prof. Vimmi Rani, carefully evaluated the designs. They assessed each entry based on creativity, intricacy of design, and adherence to the theme of the festival. With so many exceptional entries, selecting the winners was a challenging task for the judges.

The event concluded with an award ceremony, where Principal Dr. Vibhaw Kumar Shukla honored the winners with cash prizes. Ankita from B.Sc. 1st year, Rubika from B.Sc. 2nd year, and Mehak from B.A. 3rd year were declared the winners for their outstanding Mehndi designs. The Principal of the college also addressed the students, congratulating them on their participation and encouraging them to continue engaging in such artistic and cultural events. He emphasized the importance of such activities in preserving and celebrating the rich cultural traditions of India. The Mehndi Competition not only provided students with an opportunity to display their artistic skills but also promoted a sense of community and cultural pride. Events like these play a crucial role in keeping the traditional arts alive in educational settings,

5. Felicitation Ceremony of NCC Cadet Kritika/Celebration of Woman Day

FAREWELL CEREMONY REPORT
"Wishing Kritika Wings of Success"
8th March, 2025 | SGGSJ Government College, Paonta Sahib

To mark the celebration of International Women's Day, 2025 and to honour the exemplary accomplishment of Cadet Kritika, the NCC Senior Wing (Girls) of Shri Guru Gobind Singh Ji Government College, Paonta Sahib organized a heartfelt and inspirational farewell ceremony titled "Wishing Kritika Wings of Success" on 8th March, 2025. The programme was specially arranged to convey blessings and best wishes to Kritika, who would be departing the next day, 9th March, 2025, for the final ascent of the Mount Everest Expedition, scheduled to take place in the months of April–May, 2025.

The event commenced with an invocation of patriotic zeal, as the NCC cadets presented a beautifully coordinated and emotionally stirring group song, "Saare Jahan Se Nyaari Mere Bharat Ki Beti," symbolizing the pride of the nation in its courageous daughters who dare to conquer the greatest heights. The atmosphere was filled with applause and motivation as everyone acknowledged the remarkable milestone in Kritika's journey.

SUO Suhani Panwar eloquently delivered a detailed report highlighting Cadet Kritika's achievements, her rigorous training, and the determination that paved her path to selection for the prestigious national-level expedition. She further expressed, on behalf of the entire NCC unit, heartfelt wishes for Kritika's successful summit and safe return, appreciating her as a role model for all aspiring youth, especially young girls of the region.

Associate NCC Officer, Lt. Dr. Pooja Bhati, then addressed the gathering and conveyed her personal message of encouragement. She appreciated Kritika's unwavering discipline, resilience, and passion—qualities that define the true ethos of the National Cadet Corps. She encouraged her to stay strong, focused, and motivated throughout the challenging expedition.

The college Principal, Dr. Vibhav Shukla, in his motivational address, lauded Kritika for bringing honor not only to the institution but to the entire state and nation by being selected among the finest young mountaineers of India. He emphasized that her achievement stands as a shining testimony of women's empowerment and the limitless potential they possess. He conveyed his best wishes and urged her to remain confident as she undertakes one of the toughest adventures in the world.

To make the occasion memorable, the cadets prepared a large handmade best-wishes card, artistically designed, on which the Principal and faculty members inscribed their blessings, inspiring quotes, and motivational messages. Kritika was lovingly advised to carry the card along, so that during moments of exhaustion or difficulty, these words of encouragement may become a source of renewed energy and emotional strength. The cadets also presented her with a handcrafted bouquet as a token of affection, admiration, and pride.

The ceremony witnessed the enthusiastic participation of 30 NCC cadets, who contributed wholeheartedly to the smooth organization of the event. Their collective efforts reflected the unity, discipline, and commitment that NCC instills in young citizens.

The programme culminated with the rendition of the National Anthem, resonating with patriotic fervour and the belief that Cadet Kritika's journey will bring glory to the nation from the highest peak of the world.

This farewell was not merely a ceremonial gesture, but a celebration of courage, womanhood, and the unyielding spirit of India's daughters. It served as a powerful reminder that when ambition meets determination, even the tallest mountains bow before human will.

Diverse Clubs for Holistic Development

Chemigreen Club (60 members)

The Chemigreen Club, established by the Department of Chemistry, during session 2024-25 is a platform that focuses on integrating environmental sustainability with the field of chemistry. Its primary goal is to promote awareness about eco-friendly chemical practices, particularly in laboratory settings. With 68 active members, the club conducts various activities aimed at minimizing chemical waste, encouraging the use of greener alternatives, and educating students on the environmental impact of chemical processes.

One of the club's flagship initiatives includes chemical waste management drives. These drives involve safe disposal methods for harmful chemical substances, ensuring that the waste generated in laboratories does not pose a threat to the environment. In addition, members regularly organize green chemistry awareness campaigns, where they introduce alternative chemical practices that reduce the use of hazardous substances in experiments.

Workshops and seminars hosted by the Chemigreen Club educate students on sustainable laboratory techniques, such as the use of renewable materials and energy-efficient procedures. The club also collaborates with other departments and organizations to host interdisciplinary events focused on environmental sustainability. Through these initiatives, the club not only fosters a sense of responsibility toward the environment but also equips students with practical knowledge about how chemistry can contribute to a sustainable future.

By integrating scientific knowledge with environmental awareness, the Chemigreen Club prepares its members to become responsible chemists who prioritize eco-friendly methods in both academic and professional settings. The club's commitment to promoting greener practices in the field of chemistry makes it a valuable asset to the college community. The list of members of the club is enclosed.

REPORT

The enrolment process of NCC (SW) in SGGSJ Government College Paonta Sahib was conducted on 6th August 2024 under the supervision of two Permanent Instructors from 1 HP (G) Battalion, Solan. The enrollment process was well-structured, with a focus on evaluating candidates based on general awareness, physical fitness, stamina, and other relevant criteria. About 28 candidates applied for the test out of which only 14 were selected.

Written Test on General Awareness

The day began with a written test designed to assess the general awareness of the candidates. The test comprised a variety of questions, ranging from current events, general knowledge, and basic military-related information, to ensure that candidates possessed the necessary cognitive skills for NCC training.

The candidates were given 30 minutes to complete the test, and their performance was meticulously evaluated. The results of this written test played a crucial role in determining the overall merit of the candidates.

Ground Trials: Stamina and Physical Fitness

After the written test, the focus shifted to ground trials where candidates were tested on their stamina and physical fitness. These trials were conducted by the two Permanent Instructors from the 1 HP (G) Battalion, Solan. The trials included running exercises, push-ups, sit-ups, and other endurance-based tasks to ensure that candidates met the physical standards required for NCC training.

The instructors provided guidance throughout the trials, motivating the candidates to give their best performance. Each candidate's time and performance in the stamina trials were carefully recorded and assessed.

Height and Weight Measurement

Alongside the ground trials, the height and weight of each candidate were measured. These measurements were essential for ensuring that the candidates met the physical criteria for the NCC enrollment. The instructors cross-checked the measurements with the standard NCC requirements to ensure eligibility.

Merit-Based Selection

Once all assessments were completed, a merit list was compiled. This merit list was based on the combined scores of the written test, ground trials, and physical measurements. Candidates who excelled in both mental and physical evaluations were shortlisted for final enrollment into the NCC program at the college.

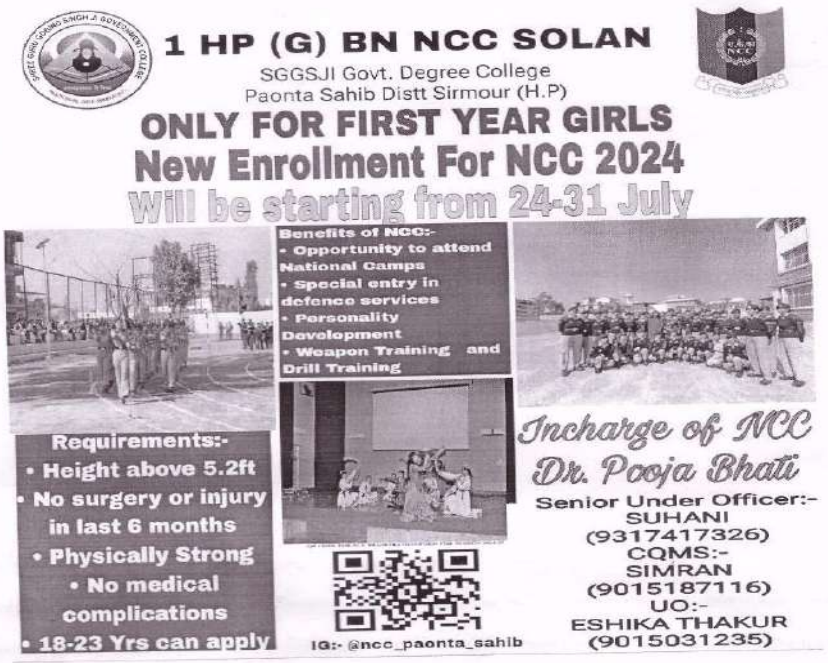

The event concluded successfully, with the Permanent Instructors praising the candidates for their effort and dedication throughout the process. The selected candidates were congratulated and briefed on the next steps for their NCC training.

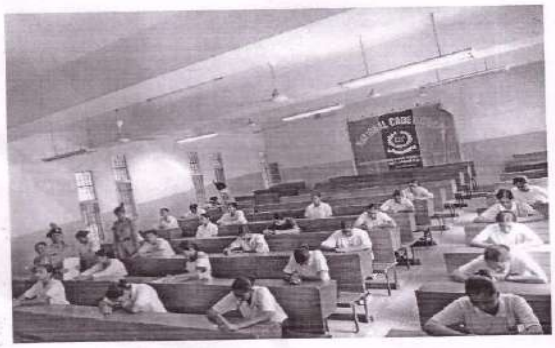

Conclusion

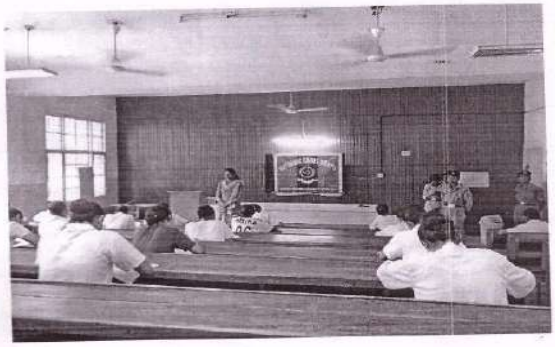

The NCC enrollment drive on 6th August 2024 was a well-coordinated event that ensured a rigorous selection process. The involvement of the Permanent Instructors from 1 HP (G) Battalion, Solan, added credibility and professionalism to the proceedings. The candidates' performance in general awareness and physical fitness trials was commendable, and the selection process ensured that only the best-suited individuals were chosen for the NCC training.

This successful event not only provided the selected candidates with an opportunity to be a part of the prestigious NCC but also reinforced the college's commitment to fostering discipline, leadership, and national service among its students.

NCC (Boys): 21 members

The National Cadet Corps (NCC) at the college is one of the most dynamic and popular organizations, boasting 21 male cadets. The NCC's primary mission is to instill values such as discipline, leadership, patriotism, and social responsibility in students. Through their participation in the NCC, cadets gain valuable life skills that prepare them for both civil and military careers.

The NCC offers a diverse range of activities, including adventure sports, drills, parades, and social service initiatives. Cadets undergo rigorous physical training, learning essential survival skills, discipline, and teamwork. Regular drills and parades not only enhance their physical fitness but also cultivate a sense of pride in national unity and cultural diversity.

One of the highlights of NCC participation is the opportunity to attend national and state-level camps. These camps, such as the Republic Day Camp (RDC), Pre-RDC camps, and adventure camps, offer cadets the chance to engage with peers from different parts of the country, broadening their horizons and promoting national integration. At these camps, cadets receive specialized training in areas like first aid, navigation, and defence tactics, all while building leadership and camaraderie.

Social service is another key component of the NCC. Cadets actively participate in community outreach programs, such as blood donation drives, environmental conservation activities. By engaging in these initiatives, cadets develop a strong sense of civic responsibility and contribute positively to society.

The National Service Scheme (NSS) of the college for the session 2024–25 is a dynamic organization committed to community service and the holistic development of its volunteers. With 154 volunteers enrolled across two units, the NSS works tirelessly to promote empathy, leadership, and social responsibility among students. Guided by its motto, "Not Me, But You," the NSS emphasizes selfless service and aims to uplift local communities through meaningful initiatives.

During the session 2024–25, the NSS conducted several cleanliness drives to improve hygiene and sanitation on the campus and in nearby areas. Volunteers actively participated in blood donation camps, health awareness drives, and workshops on important social issues, including hygiene, nutrition, and reproductive health. These activities helped spread awareness and encouraged healthier living practices among the public.

The NSS also maintained a strong presence in district, state, and national-level camps, including Pre-RDC and state mega camps. These programs provided volunteers with exposure to leadership training, cultural exchange, and community welfare activities, fostering a strong sense of unity and national pride.

As part of its community outreach efforts, the NSS adopted the slum area of Kunja Matralio village, where volunteers regularly organized awareness campaigns on health, education, and environmental conservation, bringing a positive impact to the lives of the residents.

Through these efforts, the NSS for the session 2024–25 played a crucial role in shaping responsible, empathetic, and socially conscious young individuals. The list of members of the club is enclosed.

Road Safety Club (49members)

The Road Safety Club for the session 2024–25 is committed to educating students about the importance of traffic regulations and promoting safe road practices. With 49 active members, the club continues to play a pivotal role in shaping responsible and aware road users within the campus as well as the surrounding community. Its primary objective is to reduce road-related incidents and foster a culture of safety, discipline, and awareness among students.

During the 2024–25 session, one of the club's major initiatives has been the organization of road safety awareness rallies, where members actively raise public awareness about the importance of obeying traffic rules, wearing helmets, and using seatbelts. Conducted in collaboration with the local traffic police, these rallies engage both students and community members, encouraging them to adopt safe and responsible driving habits.

The club has also hosted several workshops and seminars focusing on traffic regulations, safe driving practices, and first aid measures for accident victims. These sessions equip students with practical knowledge and empower them to contribute to road safety as pedestrians, cyclists, and drivers. Furthermore, the club organized competitions and interactive activities to assess and enhance students' understanding of traffic rules and safety measures.

The impact of the Road Safety Club in 2024–25 extends beyond the campus premises, with members participating in community outreach programs conducted in nearby schools and residential areas. These initiatives help instill a sense of social responsibility among students and inspire them to advocate for safer road behaviour.

Through continuous awareness drives and educational activities, the Road Safety Club during the session 2024–25 has significantly contributed to promoting safe road habits and creating a more disciplined and secure road environment for all.

3. NSS and Rangers/Rovers Participation

The NSS (National Service Scheme) and Rangers and Rovers unit of SGGSJ Govt. College, Paonta Sahib, play a pivotal role in organizing and conducting drug awareness programs. These student-led units actively contribute to creating a drug-free society by engaging in various initiatives aimed at educating the community, especially the youth, about the dangers of drug abuse.

Role of NSS in Drug Awareness:

The NSS unit frequently organizes awareness rallies, workshops, and seminars focused on the harmful effects of drugs. By conducting street plays, distributing informative pamphlets, and holding interactive sessions, NSS volunteers reach out to a broader audience, including students and the local community. They collaborate with local health departments, NGOs, and law enforcement agencies to raise awareness about the consequences of drug abuse, both physically and mentally. NSS camps often include special sessions on drug prevention, where experts are invited to speak and inspire students to remain drug-free and help others do the same.

Role of Rangers and Rovers Unit:

The Rangers and Rovers unit, the youth wing of scouting and guiding, complements these efforts by promoting leadership, discipline, and social responsibility. Through their activities, they encourage young people to adopt healthy lifestyles and become role models for others. The unit organizes talks and campaigns in schools and colleges, emphasizing the importance of saying "No" to drugs. Their community service projects often include educating people in rural areas about the ill effects of substance abuse and how to seek help. Both units work collaboratively to instill a sense of responsibility among students, empowering them to lead the fight against drug abuse and contribute to building a healthier, drug-free society.

2.7. Gender Equity

At Shree Guru Gobind Singh Ji Govt College, Paonta Sahib, we recognize our essential role as an educational institution in fostering positive social change. Our mission extends beyond providing academic education to actively promoting gender equity and ensuring a safe, inclusive environment where all individuals can freely explore and embrace their gender identities. This commitment is evident in our various initiatives to create a secure and supportive campus atmosphere. As a result of these efforts, the percentage of female students has steadily increased each year, reflecting the growing impact of our work.

Commitment to Gender Equity

We recognize gender as a spectrum rather than a binary concept and acknowledge the deep-rooted marginalization of women in socio-economic and political spheres, as well as societal reluctance to accept identities beyond traditional binaries. Addressing these issues is central to our mission. We strive to create an environment where all members of our community feel safe, supported, and empowered to explore, question, and embrace their identities.

Our commitment is demonstrated through the following initiatives:

1. 24/7 Security Services: Our campus is monitored around the clock with CCTV cameras installed at strategic locations, including key entry points, to ensure safety and security.

2. On-Site Security Personnel: A security guard from a reputable agency is stationed at the college gate during operational hours to manage entry and maintain order.
3. Mandatory Identity Cards: All students are issued mandatory identity cards that are required for entry into the campus, ensuring controlled access and enhancing security.
4. Discipline Committee: A dedicated committee is responsible for overseeing campus security and ensuring that safety protocols are strictly followed.
5. First-Aid Facilities: A first-aid box is readily available on campus to provide immediate medical attention in case of emergencies.
6. Separate Washrooms: Separate washrooms for male and female students, as well as teaching and non-teaching staff, are provided to ensure privacy and comfort.
7. Sanitary Pad Vending Machine and Incinerator: The college has installed a sanitary pad vending machine and incinerator for the convenience and use of female students, promoting hygiene and health on campus.

Institutional Mechanisms and Holistic Development

To promote gender equity, we have strengthened our institutional mechanisms and structures. Every member of the GC Paonta Sahib community is encouraged to practice and promote gender equity and work towards reducing gender disparity. Our approach includes the following measures:

1. Improving Women's Access to Education:
    - Age Relaxation for Admissions: Female students benefit from age relaxation for admissions to undergraduate and postgraduate programs, in line with government regulations.
    - Tuition Fee Exemption: Bona fide Himachal female students are exempted from tuition fees, helping to alleviate financial barriers to higher education.
2. Women Development Cell: A dedicated cell addresses the concerns and grievances of female students and explores ways to safeguard their interests on campus. It organizes programs throughout the year to promote gender equality and empowerment.
3. Clubs and Outreach Programs: Various clubs, such as the NSS and Red Ribbon Club, organize theme-based activities, including Nukkad-Nataks, rallies, lectures, and art competitions, to promote gender equality.
4. Internal Complaints Committee (ICC): Adhering to POSH 2013- The Sexual Harassments of Women at Workplace (Prevention, Prohibition and Redressal) Act 2013 and UGC (Prevention, Prohibition and Redressal of Sexual Harassment of Women Employees and Students in Higher Educational Institutions) Regulations 2015, The formation of the committee is as per the guidelines and the mandate. A suggestion and complaint box is also installed at the college entrance to allow students to confidentially share their ideas and report concerns.
5. Computer Literacy Program for Female Students: All female students are offered free hands-on training in MS Word in the BCA Lab to learn the basics of computer operation, enhancing their digital literacy and skills.

In a significant step towards promoting awareness of women's health and hygiene, Shree Guru Gobind Singh Ji Government College, Paonta Sahib, hosted a special program on "Women's Hygiene". The Women Development Cell of the college organized this informative and impactful event, which witnessed active participation from female students and staff members.

The event aimed to shed light on the importance of menstrual hygiene and educate women about adopting healthy practices during menstruation to ensure physical well-being and emotional confidence.

The program began with a welcome address by Professor Dhanmanti, the Convener of the Women Development Cell. In her opening remarks, she emphasized the critical role of hygiene in women's health and how maintaining proper hygiene practices can lead to a healthier society. She also highlighted the necessity of breaking the stigma surrounding menstrual health and encouraged open dialogue on this crucial topic.

Joining her on the dais were the Women Development Cell members, Professor Tanu Chandel and Professor Sheetal Sharma, who expressed their commitment to raising awareness about women's issues through such programs.

The keynote address was delivered by Mrs. Geeta Devi, a renowned health educator from Solan, who has dedicated her career to promoting women's health awareness. She spoke in-depth about the physical and psychological challenges faced by women during menstruation and how a lack of hygiene can lead to severe health risks, including infections and reproductive complications. Mrs. Devi emphasized the importance of destigmatizing menstruation and treating it as a natural process that demands proper care and attention. Her lecture was insightful, empowering, and relatable, making the audience feel comfortable discussing a topic often considered taboo.

One of the highlights of the program was a practical demonstration by Mrs. Devi on using medicated biodegradable sanitary pads. She explained their advantages, including enhanced protection against infections and better hygiene maintenance compared to traditional methods.During the demonstration, she provided tips on the proper disposal of sanitary products to ensure environmental hygiene. This session was particularly appreciated by students, as it offered them practical knowledge that they could apply in their daily lives.

The program concluded with an interactive session where participants raised questions and shared their personal experiences regarding menstrual health. Mrs. Devi and the Women Development Cell members patiently addressed their queries, providing thoughtful and informative answers.

Many students expressed gratitude for the platform, mentioning that it made them feel more confident in managing their health. Some participants also shared their resolve to educate their families and peers about menstrual hygiene.

In his closing remarks, the Principal of the college, Dr. Vibhaw Kumar Shukla, appreciated the efforts of the Women Development Cell in organizing such a vital and well-executed program. He highlighted the need for more such initiatives to ensure that students are well-informed about their health and well-being. Dr. Shukla emphasized that awareness about menstrual hygiene is not only essential for women's health but also for the overall progress of society.

The program left a lasting impression on all participants, encouraging them to adopt hygienic practices and share their knowledge with others. The Women Development Cell plans to organize similar workshops and health awareness programs in the future to continue addressing critical issues faced by women.

2.7.iv Grievance Redressal as per timelines

The Women Development Cell (WDC) of SGGSJ Government College, Paonta Sahib has identified an important requirement regarding the availability of sanitary hygiene facilities for girl students. It has been observed that the sanitary vending machine and incinerator, previously installed in the old Girls Common Room.

As per the communication submitted by the Convener of the Women Development Cell, the sanitary vending machine and incinerator need to be re-installed or shifted to the first-floor girls' washroom, due to demolition of old building where they are most required. The absence of these facilities is causing inconvenience to students during menstruation, affecting their comfort, hygiene, and regularity in attending classes.

The WDC has requested the administrative authorities to make the necessary arrangements for electrical fittings and installation requirements to ensure that the vending machine and incinerator become fully operational at the earliest. The restoration of these facilities will significantly enhance menstrual hygiene management and support the welfare of the girl students on campus.

This matter is submitted for necessary action and early resolution.

After the written test, the focus shifted to ground trials where candidates were tested on their stamina and physical fitness. These trials were conducted by the two Permanent Instructors from the 1 HP (G) Battalion, Solan. The trials included running exercises, push-ups, sit-ups, and other endurance-based tasks to ensure that candidates met the physical standards required for NCC training.

The instructors provided guidance throughout the trials, motivating the candidates to give their best performance. Each candidate's time and performance in the stamina trials were carefully recorded and assessed.

Height and Weight Measurement

Alongside the ground trials, the height and weight of each candidate were measured. These measurements were essential for ensuring that the candidates met the physical criteria for the NCC enrollment. The instructors cross-checked the measurements with the standard NCC requirements to ensure eligibility.

Merit-Based Selection

Once all assessments were completed, a merit list was compiled. This merit list was based on the combined scores of the written test, ground trials, and physical measurements. Candidates who excelled in both mental and physical evaluations were shortlisted for final enrollment into the NCC program at the college.

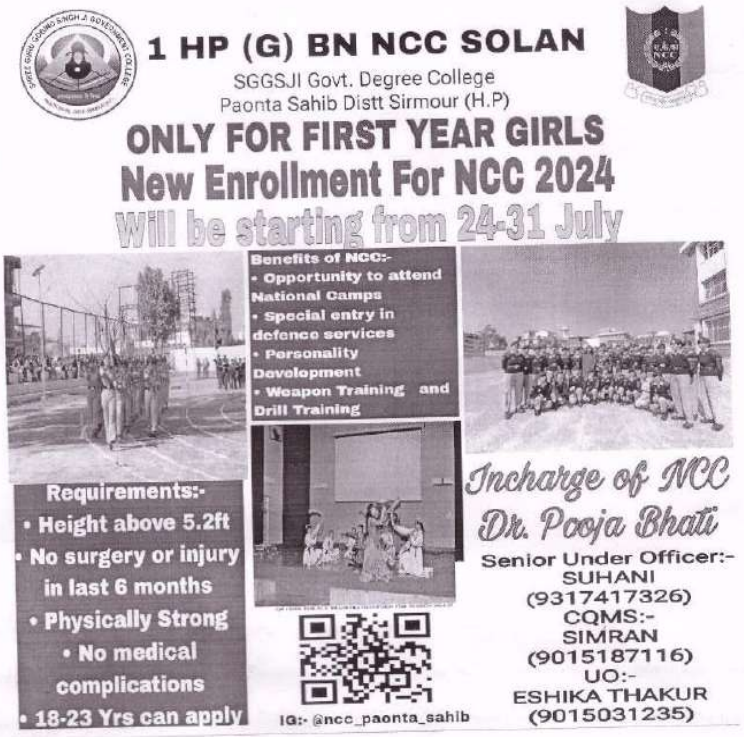

The event concluded successfully, with the Permanent Instructors praising the candidates for their effort and dedication throughout the process. The selected candidates were congratulated and briefed on the next steps for their NCC training.

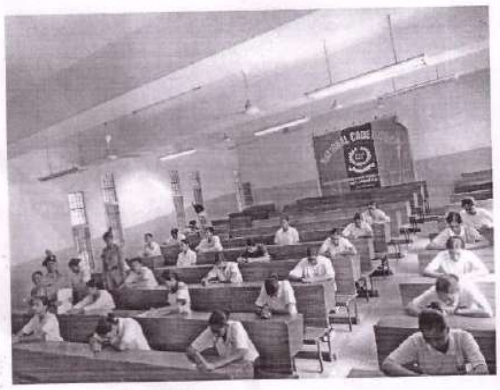

Conclusion

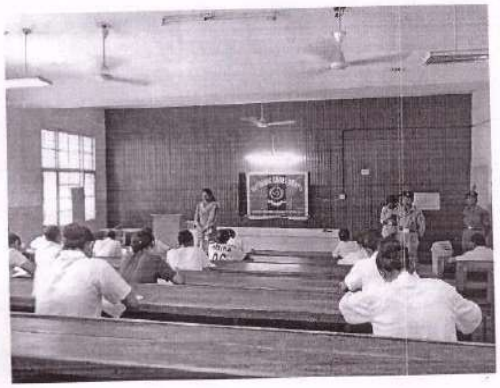

The NCC enrollment drive on 6th August 2024 was a well-coordinated event that ensured a rigorous selection process. The involvement of the Permanent Instructors from 1 HP (G) Battalion, Solan, added credibility and professionalism to the proceedings. The candidates' performance in general awareness and physical fitness trials was commendable, and the selection process ensured that only the best-suited individuals were chosen for the NCC training.

This successful event not only provided the selected candidates with an opportunity to be a part of the prestigious NCC but also reinforced the college's commitment to fostering discipline, leadership, and national service among its students.

    - Late announcement of internal assessment results, which caused uncertainty among students.
    - Lack of timely communication regarding result declaration dates.
    - Adverse impact on students' ability to apply for higher studies, scholarships, or employment owing to delayed evaluations.

These concerns reflected the students' need for greater transparency, consistency, and accountability in the evaluation process.

Grievance Redressal Process

The Grievance Redressal Cell followed a structured, multi-tiered approach to address the concerns raised by students and ensure proper resolution within specified timeframes.

1. College-Level Intervention
    - Reception of Complaints: The GRC accepted complaints through designated channels, including in-person submissions, written applications, and official emails.
    - Investigation and Consultation: The cell conducted a detailed review of each complaint in coordination with faculty coordinators and student representatives to identify the root cause of the issue.
    - Resolution Process: Wherever possible, issues were resolved at the college level through dialogue between students, teachers, and administrative staff. The GRC emphasized clarifying the criteria for internal assessments, standardizing evaluation timelines, and ensuring prompt entry and communication of marks.

2. University-Level Intervention

    - Escalation: Cases that required university-level decision-making, such as system-generated result delays or errors, were forwarded to the university's grievance section.
    - Coordination and Follow-up: The GRC maintained consistent communication with university officials to expedite pending results and reviewed procedural bottlenecks causing delays. Collaboration helped streamline cross-verification of marks and timely uploading of results on the university portal.

3. University-Wide Resolution Measures

    - Policy Review: The university authorities reviewed the policies and procedures governing internal assessments and result processing, identifying gaps that contributed to repetition of such grievances.
    - Implementation of Corrective Steps: Based on these reviews, standardized grading rubrics were introduced across departments, along with improved mechanisms for notifying students about result schedules and grievance redressal updates.

Outcomes

The coordinated efforts of the Grievance Redressal Cell brought measurable improvements in grievance handling and overall academic satisfaction. The major outcomes included:

1. Enhanced Student Satisfaction:

    - Noticeable reduction in the number of complaints regarding assessment delays and result discrepancies.
    - Positive feedback from students highlighting transparency, timely updates, and fair evaluation as key improvements.

2. Improved Communication and Transparency:

    - Establishment of a clearer line of communication between students, faculty, and the administration.
    - Regular progress updates from the GRC to affected students, ensuring they remained informed about the status of their concerns.

3. Stronger Institutional Mechanisms:

    - Strengthened collaboration between college and university departments to streamline assessment and result compilation processes.
    - Continuous monitoring and periodic review of assessment practices to ensure adherence to academic regulations and timelines.

Conclusion

The proactive approach adopted by the Grievance Redressal Cell of Shree Guru Govind Singh Ji Government College reflects the institution's commitment to maintaining fairness, accountability, and academic excellence. By addressing issues related to internal assessments and result delays effectively, the GRC has reinforced student trust and contributed to a more transparent and responsive academic environment. Moving forward, the cell aims to sustain these improvements by fostering open communication, adopting technology-driven grievance tracking systems, and organizing awareness sessions to educate students about grievance mechanisms.

4.5 Green and Clean Campus:

(i) Green initiatives of the institution (at least three): The institution is committed to promoting sustainability and environmental stewardship through various green initiatives. Here are three key efforts that demonstrate our dedication to creating a greener campus:

1. Tree Plantation Activities by NSS: The National Service Scheme (NSS) actively participates in tree plantation drives aimed at enhancing the green cover of our campus and surrounding areas. These initiatives not only involve planting trees but also include awareness programs about the importance of biodiversity and environmental conservation. Students engage in hands-on activities that instill a sense of responsibility towards nature and the community.

"Ek Ped Maa ke Naam" Campaign

Paonta Sahib, August 2, 2024

The NSS Unit of Shri Guru Gobind Singh Ji Govt. College Paonta Sahib organized a tree plantation drive as part of the "Ek Ped Maa ke Naam" campaign, a green initiative dedicated to honoring mothers by planting trees in their names. This campaign highlights the importance of environmental conservation while fostering a sense of gratitude and respect for mothers. It aims to contribute to the fight against climate change and promote a culture of environmental responsibility.

The tree plantation drive took place on August 2, 2024, at 11 AM in the college campus, where 50 saplings were planted. The campaign was inaugurated by the honorable Principal, Dr. Vibhav Kumar Shukla, who planted the first sapling in the college premises. The event was organized under the guidance and leadership of NSS Programme officers, Dr. Arun Kumar Dafraik and Prof. Sheetal Sharma.

The event witnessed enthusiastic participation from NSS volunteers, with 60 volunteers actively involved in the drive. Dr. Vibhav Kumar Shukla appreciated the efforts of the volunteers and emphasized the importance of proper care and protection of the planted saplings.

"Ek Ped Maa ke Naam" is not just an initiative to plant trees; it is a movement to inculcate a sense of responsibility towards the environment among the youth and to pay tribute to the invaluable contributions of mothers. The NSS Unit's successful organization of this event marks a significant step towards a greener and more sustainable future.

2. Waste Management Programs: Our institution has implemented comprehensive waste management initiatives that promote recycling and reduce waste. Segregation bins are placed throughout the campus for paper, plastics, and organic waste, encouraging students and staff to participate actively. Regular workshops and campaigns are conducted to educate the community about the importance of reducing waste and adopting sustainable practices.

The Green Audit carried out in the college also comprised of waste management analysis wherein it was found that the college generates a significant amount of waste annually, with a proportionate and appropriate disposal and recycling rate to Municipal Council (solid waste) and Shivalik Solid Waste Management Limited (e-waste). The audit suggests implementing a more comprehensive recycling and composting program across the campus. By educating the college community on proper waste segregation and establishing easily accessible recycling bins, the college could aim for a significant increase in its recycling rate over the coming years.

8. SOLID WASTE MANAGEMENT

As defined in the Solid Waste Management Rules, 2016

"means and includes solid or semi solid domestic waste, sanitary waste, commercial waste, institutional waste, catering and market waste and other non residential wastes, street sweeping or silt removed from the surface drain, horticultural waste, agricultural and dairy waste, treated biomedical waste excluding industrial waste, biomedical waste and e-waste, battery waste, radio-active waste generated in the area of local authorities and other entities mentioned in rule 2"

a. Objective of waste management

The main objective of the waste management system in the campus is to promote the Environment Management and Conservation in the College Campus. The purpose of the current available system is

- To identify, quantify, describe and prioritize framework of Environment Sustainability in compliance with the applicable regulations, policies and standards.
- To introduce and aware students to real concerns of environment and its sustainability
- To secure the environment and cut down the threats posed to human health by analyzing the pattern and extent of resource use on the campus,

Source: Centre for Science and Environment

8.1. Context

- To reduce waste at institute, students and staff are educated on proper waste management practices through lectures, advertisement on notice boards, displaying slogan boards in the campus.
- Waste is collected on a daily basis from various sources and is separated as dry and wet waste.
- Waste is given to Municipal Council. Two types of Waste bins are provided at campus for biodegradable and non-biodegradable waste. Horticulture waste is also given to Municipal Corporation

- Dry waste which includes plastic bottles is used to make poly-bricks, which may be used for constructing benches etc.

- Recyclable dry waste which includes plastic, glass, metal, paper etc. are either handed over to Municipal Corporation or scrap dealer for recycling.
- Single side used papers are reused for writing and printing in all departments.
- Reports/ papers/newspapers etc. are sold out to scrap vendor after completion of their preservation period.

9. LIQUID WASTE MANAGEMENT:

- The waste water from laboratory passes through concealed pipe line into soak pit & recycled water is used for the watering trees or non-potable usage.
- Chemistry labs produce chemical wastes and all the waste is collected in a treatment plant before disposing off in the soak pit.

10. BIOMEDICAL WASTE MANAGEMENT:

- Incinerator for disposal of menstrual waste, sanitary napkins is set up in girl's toilet.

11. E-WASTE MANAGEMENT

- E-wastes are generated from computer laboratories, Physics Labs, Chemistry Lab, Academic and Administrative Offices.
- The E-waste collected and at stored BCA department and disposed accordingly.
- The college has made agreement with Shivalik Solid Waste Management limited, Nalagarh (H.P.) for lifting e waste generated in the college with payment to college. College also send the information as annual return of e waste to pollution control board (Annexure I).

e-waste stored at BCA department

3. Green Audit:

In a bid to enhance its sustainability practices, SGGSJ GC Paonta Sahib conducted a comprehensive green audit in session 2024-25 aiming at evaluating the institution's environmental performance. This audit, carried out by a dedicated team of faculty and student volunteers, focused on key areas such as energy consumption, waste management, water usage, and biodiversity on campus. The findings of the audit serve as a critical baseline for identifying opportunities for improvement and fostering a culture of environmental responsibility within the college community.

The audit revealed that the college's energy consumption is higher than average when compared to similar institutions. Specifically, SGGSJ GC Paonta Sahib relies significantly on conventional energy sources, with renewable energy constituting only about [01]% of the total energy used. While the college has made strides in adopting solar energy—evidenced by the installation of solar panels—there remains considerable potential for expanding renewable energy initiatives. The audit team recommends that the college invest in additional solar infrastructure and explore other renewable options, such as wind energy, to bolster its sustainability efforts.

Water usage was another critical area examined during the audit. It was noted that the college's water consumption has risen by [10]% over the past year, primarily due to landscaping needs and facility maintenance. The audit identified a lack of water-saving technologies, such as low-flow fixtures, which could help mitigate this increase. Therefore, the team recommends the installation of water-efficient fixtures throughout campus facilities and the development of a water conservation policy that promotes responsible water use among students and staff.

Additionally, the audit assessed the biodiversity and green spaces on campus. SGGSJ GC Paonta Sahib features several green areas that support local flora and fauna; however, there are opportunities to optimize these spaces. The audit team highlighted the potential for introducing more native plants and reducing the use of pesticides, which can harm local ecosystems. Furthermore, implementing educational programs focused on sustainable landscaping practices could foster greater awareness and engagement among students.

Green Audit Report

Shree Guru Gobind Singh Ji Government College

Paonta Sahib (H.P) 173025

1. Concept

A Green Audit Report for a college is a comprehensive assessment of the institution's environmental performance. This report evaluates how effectively the college is managing its environmental impact across various domains, including waste management, water conservation, and overall sustainability practices. The primary objective is to identify areas of improvement, ensure compliance with environmental regulations, and promote sustainable practices within the college community.

2. Context of a Green Audit

i. Environmental Responsibility: Colleges and universities are increasingly recognizing the importance of environmental sustainability. A green audit helps institutions align with their sustainability goals and demonstrate their commitment to environmental responsibility.

ii. Regulatory and Policy Compliance: Many regions have regulations and policies that require educational institutions to adhere to certain environmental standards. A green audit ensures that the college complies with these regulations and helps in preparing for any regulatory reviews.

iii. Cost Savings: By identifying inefficiencies and areas for improvement, a green audit can help the college reduce operational costs through better energy management, waste reduction, and resource conservation.

iv. Educational Role: Colleges serve as learning hubs, and a green audit can enhance the institution's role in educating students about sustainability and environmental stewardship.

v. Reputation and Accreditation: Institutions that actively engage in green audits and sustainability efforts often enjoy a better reputation and may qualify for green certifications or accreditations, which can attract students, faculty, and funding.

3. INTRODUCTION

Biodiversity has been one of the most important basis of human life. We have been using the varied natural resources in different ways to satisfy our needs. Conservation of biodiversity is paramount for sustaining life on the earth. Regular inventorization and monitoring of biodiversity is essential for conservation and sustainable use of its components. Green audit serve as a means to identify opportunities to sustainable development practices, enhance environmental quality, improve health, hygiene and safety. The activities pursued by colleges' can sensitize youths, the practice of various environmental manners viz. plantation; energy conservation; waste disposal and water management etc. shall improve the environmental conditions

7. BIODIVERSITY AUDIT

Field visits to different parts of college campus were conducted by the committee members along with students of eco club. The key focus of the visit was on assessing the status of the green cover, floral and faunal diversity of the college and its documentation.

7.1. Floral Diversity in Campus

Due to the construction of the new academic block, both the herbal garden and the botanical garden on College Green have been removed. These cherished spaces, once teeming with diverse plant life and offering a tranquil retreat for students and faculty alike, have been demolished to make way for the college expansion. The decision reflects a significant shift in campus priorities as we adapt to evolving educational needs.

(ii) Cleanliness in washroom, buildings/ campus: Maintaining cleanliness and hygiene across the college campus is a top priority, and the dedicated efforts of the janitorial staff play a crucial role in this initiative. Managed effectively by the office, the janitorial team ensures that all areas of the campus, including washrooms, buildings, and outdoor spaces, are kept clean and well-maintained. Moreover, a toilet cleanliness committee and campus cleanliness committee are constituted in the college to ensure the effective cleanliness in the college campus.

1. Regular Cleaning Schedules: The janitorial staff follows a stringent cleaning schedule to ensure that washrooms and common areas are cleaned multiple times a day. This routine includes sanitizing surfaces, replenishing supplies, and ensuring that facilities are hygienic and welcoming for students and staff.
2. Support from the Municipal Council: The cleaning staff ensures the proper disposal of waste into the municipality garbage van deputed in the area by the Municipal Council.
3. Support from the College Community: The college encourages all students and staff to maintain cleanliness by promoting responsible use of facilities and reporting any maintenance issues which are promptly resolved by the concerned committees.

Rainwater Harvesting

12. RAIN WATER HARVESTING

12.1 Overview of the Rain Harvesting System

i. The rain harvesting system in the college was installed to capture and utilize rainwater for various campus needs. The system consists of the following key components:

ii. Collection Mechanism: Gutters and downspouts strategically placed around buildings to channel rainwater into collection tanks.

iii. Storage Tanks: High-capacity tanks that store harvested rainwater for later use.

iv. Filtration System: A filtration unit that ensures the harvested water is clean and suitable for its intended purposes.

v. Distribution Network: Pipelines that deliver filtered water to designated areas for use.

vi. Water Usage: The harvested water is distributed through a network of pipes to areas where it is needed, including gardens and playgrounds.

The rainwater harvesting system of the college has proven to be a valuable asset in college sustainability efforts. By enhancing and expanding the system, we can further increase its impact, contributing to a more resilient and eco-friendly campus.

13. Conclusion and Recommendations

Green Audit is the most efficient way to identify the strength and weakness of environmental sustainable practices and to find a way to solve problem. Even though the college does perform fairly well, the recommendations in this report highlight many ways in which the college can work to improve its actions and become a more sustainable institution.

- Re-establishment of herbal garden and botanical garden.
- Re-establishment of vermin-composting unit.
- Develop a butterfly garden that arouses appreciation towards flora and fauna diversity.
- Name all the trees and plants with its common name and scientific name to generate enthusiasm for learners.
- Organize earn while learn eco-friendly programmes.
- Ensure participation of students and teachers in local environmental issues and conduct seminars, workshops and exhibitions on environmental education.
- Display various slogans and pictures to protect environment.
- All labs should follow the safety points for storage, use and disposal of hazardous substances.

4.6 Facilities for Students

Our Institution boasts a spacious playground spanning approximately 9,877 square meters, located conveniently adjacent to the main building. This versatile facility plays a vital role in supporting the physical development and overall well-being of students, while fostering a vibrant culture of sports and extracurricular engagement.

At the heart of the playground is a well-maintained basketball court that serves as a center for daily practice sessions and inter-collegiate tournaments. The open grounds also accommodate other popular sports—most notably cricket—which draws enthusiastic participation from students as well as players from outside the institution.

Beyond hosting in-house sports activities and competitions, the playground is frequently chosen as a venue by external organizations for regional and state-level events. This not only enriches the sporting ecosystem of the college but also strengthens its reputation within the wider athletic community.

The active utilization of these facilities reflects the institution's commitment to offering students ample opportunities to engage in physical activity, develop teamwork, leadership, and sportsmanship, and grow beyond the academic sphere. The presence of such an extensive and dynamic playground underscores the college's dedication to creating a balanced environment where academic excellence and holistic development go hand in hand.

CERTIFICATE

This is to certify that the college ground is regularly utilized by our students for various sporting activities. The following facilities are available:

- Basketball Court
- Grounds for multiple games, including Football, Cricket and Athletics

Students actively prepare for various Inter-College and Intra-Mural competitions, demonstrating their commitment to sports. Additionally, the college ground hosts several external matches, promoting engagement with the wider sports community.

4.6.2 Adequate toilets as per students' strength

GC Paonta Sahib ensures the availability of well-maintained toilet facilities on every floor of each building, providing students with convenient access throughout the day. Separate toilets for male and female students are thoughtfully designated to maintain privacy, comfort, and dignity for all.

By strategically placing these facilities across the campus, the college effectively prevents overcrowding—particularly during peak academic hours—and minimizes any inconvenience to students. Regular cleaning and strict adherence to hygiene standards further reflect the institution's commitment to maintaining a safe and sanitary environment.

These efforts highlight the college's dedication to fostering an inclusive, supportive, and student-friendly campus where comfort and well-being are prioritized alongside academic growth.

4.6.3 Sanitary napkins vending machine/incinerator regularly put in use

The Institution places strong emphasis on menstrual hygiene by installing sanitary napkin vending machines in key locations, including restrooms and common areas. These machines ensure that female students have convenient, discreet, and timely access to essential sanitary products, enabling them to remain focused on their studies without discomfort or interruption.

To complement this facility, the college has also installed incinerators for the safe and eco-friendly disposal of used sanitary napkins. These systems support sustainable waste management by preventing pollution and ensuring responsible disposal. Regular maintenance and proper utilization of the incinerators further reflect the institution's commitment to upholding high standards of hygiene and environmental care.

By offering these thoughtful and essential facilities, the institution prioritizes the health, dignity, and comfort of its female students, fostering a supportive, hygienic, and inclusive campus environment.

We are pleased to report that girl students are actively utilizing this facility, benefiting from improved access to sanitary products and responsible disposal solution. The Parent-Teacher Association (PTA) is a formal organization designed to foster collaboration between parents and educators, aimed at enhancing student academic experiences and reforming educational systems. The primary focus of the PTA is to support the overall development and well-being of college-going students. By providing a platform for parents and teachers to engage, the PTA addresses issues affecting both academic and personal growth.

The inaugural PTA of Shree Guru Gobind Singh Ji Government College, Paonta Sahib, was established on July 27, 2003. The necessity of conducting PTA meetings in colleges is underscored by the valuable insights parents bring, which can lead to necessary improvements within the institution. Additionally, the PTA plays a crucial role in fundraising, which enables the provision of additional resources and facilities for students.

Moreover, the PTA fosters stronger relationships between parents and teachers, allowing educators to gain a better understanding of students' home lives. The PTA at Shree Guru Gobind Singh Ji Government College serves this essential purpose, ensuring the comprehensive development of students while addressing the needs of teachers and parents

The Parent-Teacher Association (PTA) at Shree Guru Gobind Singh Ji Government College plays a pivotal role in managing various college-related matters that significantly impact the campus environment and student well-being. The Parent-Teacher Association (PTA) is very supportive of institutional needs, actively addressing various aspects of college management. One of its key contributions is to health and hygiene initiatives, which are vital for creating a safe and conducive learning atmosphere. By ensuring that the college adheres to appropriate health standards, the PTA helps promote the overall well-being of students and staff.

The PTA funds are strategically allocated to cover essential operational expenses, such as the salaries of sweepers who maintain cleanliness throughout the campus. This commitment to hygiene not only fosters a pleasant environment for students but also instills a sense of responsibility toward maintaining the college premises.

In addition to operational support, the PTA also facilitates the hiring of guest faculty. This initiative enriches the educational experience by bringing in specialized knowledge and diverse teaching methodologies, thereby enhancing the quality of instruction available to students.

The PTA further contributes to the aesthetic enhancement of the campus, investing in beautification projects that improve the overall atmosphere

Moreover, the association plays a crucial role in maintaining college property, ensuring that facilities are kept in good condition and that any necessary repairs or upgrades are addressed promptly. This proactive approach helps create a positive and well-maintained learning environment.

Security is another critical area where the PTA makes significant contributions. By funding the salary of a guard stationed at the college entrance, the PTA helps ensure the safety of students. This measure not only provides a secure environment for learning but also restricts unauthorized access to the campus, safeguarding the community and maintaining a sense of order.

Overall, the PTA's multifaceted contributions enhance the academic experience and overall environment of Shree Guru Gobind Singh Ji Government College, reflecting its commitment to the welfare and development of students, teachers, and the entire college community.

4.17 Feedback from Stakeholders other than Students and action taken thereon

RESULT OF ANALYSIS OF DATA COLLECTED FROM ALUMNI, PARENTS, FACULTY AND EMPLOYERS

The systematic analysis of feedback collected from key stakeholders—namely alumni, parents, faculty members, and employers—provides a comprehensive and multidimensional understanding of the effectiveness, relevance, and impact of the academic programmes offered by Shree Guru Gobind Singh Ji Government College, Paonta Sahib. Stakeholder feedback serves as a vital quality assurance mechanism, enabling the institution to evaluate its curriculum design, delivery processes, learning environment, and student outcomes in alignment with contemporary academic and professional expectations.

The insights derived from this feedback facilitate evidence-based decision-making for curriculum enrichment, pedagogical improvements, and enhancement of student support services. By proactively addressing the expectations and suggestions of all stakeholders, the college reinforces its commitment to continuous quality improvement, academic excellence, and the holistic development of students. This inclusive feedback mechanism ensures that graduates are academically competent, professionally skilled, socially responsible, and well-prepared to meet the demands of higher education, employment, and society at large.

METHODOLOGY OF ANALYSIS

Curriculum-related feedback was systematically collected using a structured and standardized questionnaire designed to assess multiple dimensions of the curriculum, including relevance, adequacy, flexibility, employability orientation, and overall satisfaction. The questionnaire was administered separately to alumni, parents, faculty members, and employers to capture stakeholder-specific perspectives.

A Five-Point Likert Scale was employed for data collection, with numerical weights assigned to qualitative responses to facilitate quantitative analysis:

- 1 – Strongly Disagree / Highly Dissatisfied / Lack
- 2 – Disagree / Dissatisfied / Inadequate
- 3 – Neutral / No Opinion / Average
- 4 – Agree / Satisfied / Adequate
- 5 – Strongly Agree / Highly Satisfied / Abundance

The collected data were systematically compiled, tabulated, and analyzed using frequency distribution, percentage analysis, cumulative interpretation, and visual representation through bar charts and pie charts. The analysis has been organized into four distinct sections for clarity and comparability:

A. Curriculum feedback from Alumni
B. Curriculum feedback from Parents
C. Curriculum feedback from Faculty
D. Curriculum feedback from Employers

ABSTRACT

The comprehensive analysis of feedback obtained from alumni, parents, faculty members, and employers offers a holistic evaluation of the academic ecosystem at Shree Guru Gobind Singh Ji Government College, Paonta Sahib. Alumni feedback reflects a strong sense of pride and attachment to the institution, with high levels of satisfaction regarding the overall learning environment, academic rigor, and career-oriented components of the curriculum. Alumni also acknowledge the positive role of the college in shaping their professional competencies. However, responses suggest scope for enhancement in areas such as academic flexibility, interdisciplinary exposure, and sustained engagement of alumni with institutional activities after graduation.

Parents' feedback underscores the college's significant contribution to the holistic development of students, encompassing academic growth, value education, discipline, and personality development. While parents largely express confidence in the academic environment and institutional ethos, some responses indicate the need for minor refinements in curriculum load, learning resources, and individualized academic support to better cater to diverse student needs.

Faculty members exhibit a high degree of satisfaction with the curriculum's relevance, clarity of objectives, and balance between theoretical knowledge and practical application. They acknowledge the curriculum's alignment with program outcomes and institutional vision. Nonetheless, faculty feedback also highlights concerns related to teacher-student ratios, the need for greater academic autonomy, and the strengthening of career-oriented and skill-based components to further enhance graduate preparedness.

Employers' feedback emerges as overwhelmingly positive, with near-unanimous endorsement of the employability, professional competence, and adaptability of the college's graduates. Employers affirm that the curriculum is relevant to industry requirements and appreciate its emphasis on foundational knowledge, work ethics, and interpersonal skills. They further emphasize the importance of integrating soft skills, creativity, innovation, and industry exposure into the curriculum to keep pace with evolving workplace demands.

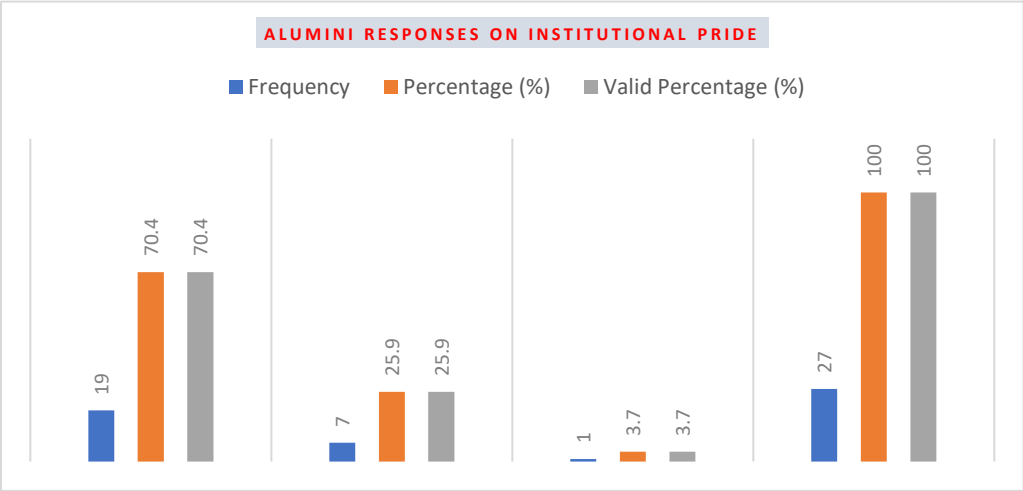

In summary, the stakeholder feedback collectively affirms the institution's effectiveness in delivering quality education and preparing students for professional and societal roles. At the same time, it provides constructive insights for further strengthening curriculum flexibility, industry-academia collaboration, alumni engagement, and student support mechanisms. The findings reinforce the college's commitment to continuous improvement and its pursuit of excellence in higher education.

Action Taken Report on Demands Raised by CSCA Office Bearers in 2023

The Students' Central Association 2023 (CSCA) office bearers at SGGSJ Government College Paonta Sahib recently raised several demands to enhance student facilities and ensure the overall development of the institution. These demands were discussed in the annual meeting, and swift actions were taken to address them. Below is a detailed account of the action taken on each demand:

1. Installation of Notice Boards

Demand: The CSCA representatives requested the installation of additional noticeboards at strategic locations across the campus to keep students well-informed about academic, co-curricular, and extracurricular activities.

Action Taken: The administration promptly approved the request, and new notice boards have been installed at the main entrance, near the library, and outside the administrative block. These boards will serve as information hubs, displaying announcements, timetables, and important updates from various departments. To ensure that students are always up to date with events and notices, designated ministerial staff members have been appointed to regularly update the boards. Additionally, a digital notice board has been introduced near the e-resource center for timely updates.

2. Maintenance of the Basketball Court

Demand: The students requested the maintenance of the existing basketball court, as it had been in disrepair for some time, hampering the practice and performance of the sports teams.

Action Taken: The college administration immediately allocated funds for the renovation of the basketball court. The surface of the court has been repaired, and new goal rings and nets have been installed. Proper markings have also been drawn according to the official standards.

3. Arrangement of Sweeper Services

Demand: The CSCA office bearers highlighted the need for regular cleaning of classrooms, corridors, and campus surroundings, as the existing cleaning staff was inadequate.

Action Taken: Recognizing the importance of a clean and hygienic campus, the administration has hired a sweeper to maintain cleanliness in classrooms, corridors, and open areas. The sweeper will work in shifts to ensure the campus remains clean throughout the day. This initiative has been well-received by both students and staff, as a cleaner environment promotes better learning and working conditions.

4. Provision of Dustbins at Various Locations

Demand: The students requested that dustbins be provided at different locations on the campus to encourage proper waste disposal and maintain cleanliness.

Action Taken: Dustbins have been installed at key locations, including near the library, cafeteria, administrative block, and common areas. Separate bins for recyclable and non-recyclable waste have been placed to encourage waste segregation among students. The administration has also initiated an awareness drive on proper waste disposal, and the NSS unit will conduct regular clean-up campaigns to keep the campus litter-free.

5. Faculty Joined in the Department of Commerce

Demand: The CSCA representatives requested that the college ensure the timely joining of faculty members in the Department of Commerce, as there had been a shortage of teachers following a transfer.

Action Taken: The college administration worked closely with the Directorate of Higher Education (DHE) to expedite the joining of the transferred faculty member in the Department of Commerce. As of now, the transferred faculty has joined, and the department is functioning smoothly. With the addition of this faculty member, the department is better equipped to manage the student load and offer specialized guidance to commerce students.

6. E-Resource Centre Updated with Internet Lease Line

Demand: The students highlighted the need for an upgraded internet facility in the e-resource centre, along with the availability of e-resources on the college website for easy access by students.

Action Taken: The college administration has taken significant steps to upgrade the e-resource centre. A high-speed internet lease line has been installed to provide seamless connectivity for research and academic purposes. The college website has also been updated with e-resources from various departments, ensuring that students can access study materials, research papers, and journals from anywhere. This update will significantly benefit students, particularly those involved in research projects and online learning.

7. Dress Issued on Returnable Basis for NSS

Demand: The CSCA office bearers requested that NSS volunteers be provided with uniforms on a returnable basis for events and community service programs.

Action Taken: The college administration has approved the issuing of uniforms for NSS volunteers on a returnable basis. The uniforms will be provided at the beginning of each academic year and returned after the completion of the program. This initiative will promote uniformity and discipline among the volunteers during their participation in various community service activities. The NSS unit will maintain a record of issued uniforms to ensure accountability.

8. New Block Construction

Demand: The students were concerned about the limited infrastructure and requested an update on the new block construction, which had been proposed earlier.

Action Taken: The administration is pleased to inform that the construction of a new academic block has commenced in December 2023. The new block will accommodate additional classrooms, laboratories, and faculty offices, addressing the growing needs of the college. This expansion will create a more conducive learning environment and reduce the overcrowding in existing classrooms. The construction project is expected to be completed within the next academic year, and it will significantly enhance the college's infrastructure.

5.1 Best Practices

Best Practice 1: Toolkit of Good Governance

Title of the Practice: Toolkit of Good Governance

It has been learnt and experienced that in an organisation a smooth flow of energy from top to bottom and vice versa can take place only when a collective responsibility towards the institution develops. This sense of belonging develops only through delegation of powers and subsequent fixing of accountability. Following this administrative theory, college administration is carried effectively through a good governance mechanism leading to healthy competition and delivery in the benefit of the institution.

Objectives of the Practice

1. To ensure that all stakeholders feel involved with administrative decisions.
2. To ensure that a wide range of suggestions are collected in order to make the best decision.
3. To ensure that there exists a sense of satisfaction among the students, teachers, alumni, parents, professional bodies and the industry.
4. To encourage student participation in planning and execution of programs and inculcate team-spirit among them and provide environment to work as a team.
5. To give the students practical lessons in management, organization, group behaviour, planning, finance, fund-raising etc. and thus to equip the students to face job-market with confidence.
6. To promote an environment of academic excellence through development of human potential.
7. To make administration of institution more transparent and enable effective interaction among the stakeholders.
8. To involve all the stakeholders in the quality initiatives of the college and to be a transparent institution to the students as major stakeholders.
9. To make the office/administration accountable by creating a sense of responsibility into the DNA of the team, ensuring efficient governance.
10. To improve overall employee performance, empower team members with a sense of ownership.
11. To decentralize academic and administrative functions to achieve efficiency.
12. To ensure an effective functioning and efficient governance at all levels to the utmost satisfaction of stakeholders.

The Context

Good Governance:

The concept of good governance originated in the early 1990s and was adopted by the World Bank in order to introduce certain practices into loans to poor countries. By 2000, it had become one of the major aims of the Millennium Development Goals, addressing issues from corruption to accountability. Similarly, good governance has been embraced by the corporate sector and several national institutions. Its aim is to decrease poor business practices and make procedures and obligations transparent, in order to gain the trust of stakeholders and the public at large.

Good governance can be understood as a structure —which strives to preserve the integrity of the academic value system while at the same time positioning higher education institutions vis-à-vis their larger environment to make them receptive and answerable to external messages, demands and expectations.

Good governance in education promotes effective delivery of education services.

A common good practice in several developed countries is to publish governance arrangements. Accordingly, the college has published its "Manual of Good Governance". Recommendations are made about possible internal structures for higher education provision, how actors could perform, and which processes could be implemented.

There are three broad levels of governance analysis:

Internal or institutional: governance of higher education institution(s);

External or systemic: governance of higher education system(s);

International or global: governance of higher education systems within an international (global) perspective.

Being a Higher Education Institution, the first kind of governance analysis is relevant to the government college.

Theoretical framework of Good Governance in Higher Education Institution

Good governance in a Higher Education Institution encompasses the structures, relationships and processes through which policies are developed, implemented and reviewed. Good governance comprises a complex web including how money is allocated and utilized, how they are accountable for the way it is spent as well as less formal structures and relationships which steer and influence behavior.

Five governance equalizers have been proposed with each equalizer representing a relevant governance attribute and can be adjusted independently from the others.

State regulation referring to the initial governance notion of regulations by directives through the government. It measures the detail of government direction.

Stakeholder guidance measuring the influence of stakeholders not through directives but through goal setting and advice. Stakeholders are important societal actors who have a major interest in the Higher Education Institution, such as industry, alumni, parents, students, or the government itself.

Academic self-governance addressing the role of academic professionals within the Higher Education Institution. Their influence comes through collegial decision-making and the self-steering of academic communities based on peer review.

Managerial self-governance involving the degree and development of inner HEI managing hierarchies and the internal goal setting, regulation, and decision-making power of key actors, such as convenors, coordinators, committees, etc.

Competition dealing with the construction of quasi-markets and the competition for scarce resources (money, staff and through quality measures such as performance evaluations, stakeholders' feedback etc.) and their impact on HEI governance.

Every individual is rich with resourcefulness. Participatory organizational set up will help the institution in the effective functioning of various strata of hierarchy enabling each one to have a sense of accomplishment and to reach the goal of the institution.

The growth and success of the institution involves the participation of the students as an important stakeholder in the planning, decision-making and implementation process.

Good governance is a set of responsibilities and procedures exercise by an institution to provide strategic direction to ensure educational objectives are achieved through effective and efficient use of resources, accountability, and participation of people in decision-making. Good governance is a major factor in improving the quality of education.

Accountability is a fundamental requirement of a good governance. It is process of expecting each member of an organization to answer to someone for doing specific tasks according to specific plans. Accountability in education is the movement geared toward ascertaining the extent of the goals and objectives of education. Accountability demands sound management of decision, policies, constant supervision, and monitoring of education system. It also requires adequate record keeping, periodic evaluation of performance as well as feedback to stakeholders in the organization.

Participatory decision-making is a situation whereby all men and women have a voice in decision making, either directly or through an intermediate institution that represents their opinion. Participatory decision-making also refers to the way of involving people through using institutions that serve as a channel of articulating their interests in the decision-making process regardless of gender, religion, ethnic group and the likes.

The college believes in an inclusive system of governance in which all stakeholders including students, teachers, alumni, parents, professional bodies and the industry is involved in the decision- making process.

The college administration is carried effectively through a decentralized mechanism. This inclusive and participatory approach promotes an environment of solidarity and mutual respect which ensure the smooth functioning and growth of the institution.

The institution aims at effective utilization of manpower, infrastructure, and facilities of the institution and thereby to enhance the quality of education, providing transparency and accountability in the academic and administrative set up.

Democratic functioning, defined role and responsibilities, decentralization of responsibilities, proper financial management & academic autonomy.

The minutes of the meetings of various committees are published in the college website.

A proper system for the financial management and control by way of both internal and external audits is in place.

Involvement of faculty in the decision-making processes at various levels.

The policy of the Management is to rotate the leadership position to give opportunities to other senior faculty to take turn in assuming HOD position once in 3 years. Management is conscious of preparing second line leaders so as to avoid leadership crisis at any given time.

The practice is that of streamlining functions with the help of the Committee System.

The older models of the top down approach in management cannot meet the demands of a fast changing national and international scenario. The system needs to be revamped to achieve optimum efficiency for development. Motivation in every sector is to be sustained so that goals (both individual and institutional) are achieved.

The Practice

Good governance requires mass participation and leadership.

Governance has become a major leverage tool for improving quality in all aspects of higher education.

Principle of Subsidiarity and Delegation of Power

The ‘Principle of Subsidiarity’ is applied at different domains for effective administration. It aims at proper delegation of power and authority from apex to the grass root level. Through this principle, the college effectively grooms proper leadership at various levels.

Himachal Pradesh Financial Rules(HPFR), 2009 vide Rule 12 ‘Delegation of Financial Powers’ explicitly provides for delegation of powers.

Collective Decision Making

Accountability

Accountability is an increasingly important element in the governance of education systems. Within the context of publicly funded tertiary education systems, the demonstration of ―value for money‖ or of ―responsible and relevant activities undertaken with the taxpayers‘ money is now widespread in most countries. This trend towards greater transparency and public accountability is developing parallel to the move towards greater autonomy. Public interest should be sustained in the areas of guaranteeing academic quality and standards, ensuring equitable student admission procedures and accessibility for students from poorer families, and ensuring an appropriate use of public funds within institutions (i.e. internal efficiency).

Accountability can be ensured through various means, including quality assurance frameworks, performance-related funding and participation of external stakeholders in governing bodies (where external representatives would advise and support the institution regarding its contribution to society, and information on institutional results would be provided to the public).

Institutions are increasingly accountable for their use of public funds and are required to demonstrate value for money. They are under pressure to improve the quality of their teaching and research, despite the fact that growing funding constraints are limiting the availability of resources.

Functional Autonomy

Functional autonomy is granted to all departments and units in the college. Thus, a participative culture is evolved in the institution. At each level and sphere of activity, the teachers and students cooperate with each other for the successful implementation of the prospective plans. This work culture generates goodwill among the entire college community and motivates all to work in unison to achieve the different objectives set by the authorities.

Clear responsibilities

One of the main aims of good governance is to avoid mismanagement within institutions. The arrangements emphasise the need for clear delineation of responsibilities within institutions.

Governance indeed encompasses too many different formal and informal processes and therefore makes it impossible to set clear arrangements for all possible combinations.

Stakeholders' Participation

Stakeholders are groups within society with a particular interest in HEI's performance. These can range from conventional actors such as students, academics, or the government itself to newly recognised actors such as industry representatives, community authorities, alumni, unions, and cultural groups. Their influence can range from membership of supervisory or governing boards to simple funding functions.

Recommendations and suggestions are invited from the stakeholders before the policy formulations. Staff Meetings, Students Union Meetings, Council Meetings, IQAC Meetings and Alumni Meetings are conducted to pool opinions and proposals.

Participation of the students is ensured as they are an integral part of the committees for most of the college activities and they are involved in college activities. Hence, in these committees, students of the College play an active role as members.

The influence of students as the major stakeholders is rather low in decision-making within the governing body.

But unlike other stakeholders, the students possess strong short-term mobilisation capacities like student memorandums and student protests.

As the major financial source in a government college, the government still decides who gets which funding and on which basis. The governments have moved from traditional directing in higher education to steering from a distance.

Rather than granting these stakeholders groups democratic decision-making powers, the concept of deliberation underlies the internal relations of the higher education institution.

Another vital concept in the guidelines is deliberation in decision-making processes. While higher education institutions develop clearer internal responsibilities and the groups of stakeholders (both internal and external) grow, it becomes increasingly necessary to develop participatory strategies that respond to the needs of these groups. Transparency is an effective measure to inform all types of stakeholders and reinforce their engagement in the institution.

Major stakeholders are students, faculty and community representatives and their degree of stakeholder involvement in decision-making processes and governing institutions varies widely.

Transparency

Transparency is crucial for a truly deliberative approach to higher education governance. In order to participate, stakeholders must have sufficient information. The majority of governance arrangements insist on transparent procedures, allowing for a lack of transparency only when it is in the best interests of the institution or the public.

Committees and Cells

The practice seeks to achieve decentralization of functions through the Committee System. Committees are formed with representation from teaching, non-teaching and student sections of the institution and each one of them is assigned an area of responsibility–welfare, grievance redressal, library, etc. They meet periodically, arrive at decisions and recommend to the college administration the course of action to be taken.

Different cells and committees are operational in the institution to implement various activities which are part of the strategic plan.

The IQAC is the most important body that is consulted on all academic and administrative matters. The Heads of the Departments are involved in framing the policies, procedures, and rules with respect to academic planning.

Apart from these, various Statutory and Non-Statutory Committees have also been formulated to implement the policies and procedures.

There are different committees for different academic and administrative activities that help make flow of hierarchy and leadership effective for monitoring the implementation of various policies.

Committees are normally formulated at the time of commencement of an academic session. Convener and members are free to make plans and give a final shape after discussion with and approval of the principal.

IQAC, College Advisory Committee, Cultural Committee, and CSCA Committee are the best example of participative management where students along with teaching, non-teaching staff, are working for effective administration of the college. These committees hold regular meetings and remain fully responsible and accountable for the tasks concerned.

The principal initially invites the preferences of the staff members for the formation of various committees and cells. This helps to strengthen the management of good governance. Then the allocation of work is done by the principal in consultation with the senior teachers and the convener of the prospectus committee. The committees which involve the students as members is constituted by inviting the names of nominated students through a selection parameter. Several committees incorporate external members as required in its constitution such as IQAC, Internal Committee, Building Fund Committee, PTA, Governing Body of Higher Education Institute Society, Governing Body of Community College, NSS Advisory Body, etc.

NSS Functioning Good Governance – A Case Study

Rotation Policy

The institute has adopted a policy of rotation system for the functional posts. If unable to find the competent person, this hurdle is overcome by mentoring the concerned.

With reference to the IQAC resolution:

"Rotation Policy: Under rotation policy, which is a distinctive feature of our institutional governance, it is resolved that all the important positions in the college where the incumbent has completed 3 or more years should be replaced. This includes positions like Bursar, NCC, Rovers and Rangers, NSS in charges, staff secretary, red ribbon club, etc. It was informed by the Principal that most of the positions have been changed following rotation policy. It was resolved that the rotation policy should be implemented in the remaining positions as well."

regarding rotation policy in 14th meeting of IQAC dated 16th August 2021, which was executed partially last year on those who had completed their tenure of three years; it is recommended that similar replacement(s) be carried out in all remaining positions for clubs, units, committees, courses, etc. for those who have completed their tenure of three years.

Role of Parent Teacher Association (PTA) in Faculty Enrichment

The most important form of participatory decision making is the Parent-Teacher Association.

Identification of guest-faculty and motivating them to come and serve is difficult since the remuneration paid is too low. The vacant posts pose a threat to the academics. The Parent Teacher Association (PTA) opined to recruit the guest faculty on contractual basis, to keep the continuity of the academic process and as the glory of the institution needs to be maintained. PTA suggested to recruit teachers for the benefit of students wherever the strength is less or there is no teacher. The guest faculty provide lectures for which the payment is made out of the PTA fund.

Similarly, the maintenance and cleanliness of toilets is carried out with the PTA fund only.

The record is properly maintained and the accounts are audited half-yearly and presented at the annual general meeting.

Evidence of Success

Caste Study – NAAC Accreditation Process

The NAAC accreditation process also followed similar approach with several committees constituted according to the Key Indicators and Metrices of the NAAC accreditation. The decentralized NAAC teamwork testifies to the institutional ethos of democracy and participative management.

Case Study – Establishment of New IT Lab for BCA/PGDCA

All stakeholders feel involved with administrative decisions.

A wide range of suggestions are made available in order to make the best governance decisions

The college has gained on a continuous basis through this on-going mechanism of student-administration interaction.

Efficiency of administration has improved.

Efficiency is achieved with ease at all levels. Planning from the grass root level has become effective. Participation in all functions of the institutions by all members has improved. Student and staff satisfaction has improved and the sense of belonging to the college is more evident.

Problems Encountered and Resources Required

Problems Encountered

1. Taking every stakeholder's thought into consideration is cumbersome and time-consuming.
2. It is not possible to keep all stakeholders satisfied with the governance decisions.
3. Positive feedback from the different stakeholders, including parents and alumni.
4. The students involved in decision-making and governance face the danger of their getting too involved in these activities that they may begin to miss lectures and pay less attention to their studies. In case of a student slacking down in academics s/he is warned that s/he may be removed from the responsibilities. But by and large this does not happen.
5. Since the student's participation provides high visibility and seems to be powerful, some resentment may build up amongst the students and internal rivalries too may come to force. It is the duty of the staff members to ensure smooth student participation in good governance.
6. The students predominantly coming from rural areas, travel daily and face transportation problems and hence are time-bound to leave college campus as per bus availability.

The frustrated staff recruited under PTA over the years approach the court for injunction to get permanently absorbed as regular staff. This leads to litigation costs on the part of PTA. Some of these have been absorbed by the government.

The government should appoint regular staff; the PTA cannot continuously fund these personnel expenses. It puts unnecessary and unintended burden on the students and their parents. PTA fund is primarily meant to serve as an adjunct.

Resources Required

Reliable feedback systems to record the stakeholder feedback

The most basic resource needed is dedicated human resource. The staff team provides basic nucleus, and the rest of the human resource is the students themselves.

If resources can be mobilized, it will pave way for a phenomenal growth of the institution to expand and sharpen its skills and to reach out more. If the seed money could be raised the potential seed for excellence that lies dormant, will sprout and see the light of the day.

5.2: Sustainable Development Imbibing Vedic Pantheistic Principles

1. Title of the Practice: Sustainable Development Imbibing Vedic Pantheistic Principles

The college is firmly structured on a strong foundation of not only imparting quality modern education but also imbibing and revivifying the traditional values of our scriptures that nourish our existence and sustenance. One of the core values of the institution is social commitment. The college believes that higher educational institutions shoulder the responsibilities to all its stakeholders which can be fulfilled through continuous community engagements. The college plays a pivotal role in the socio-economic development of the region. The college has an eco-friendly campus with the focus on inculcating in the students a feeling of prestige and pantheism for nature around – the life sustaining placenta between them and Mother Earth.

2. Objectives of Practice

1. To contribute positively to environmental conservation and sustainable development by infusing environmental consciousness and responsibility among students and the community.
2. To rewire the modern generation's thinking and re-connect them with the nature and the ancient Indian Vedic culture and its Pantheistic principles.
3. To design, utilize and sustain such platforms where students learn and then involve citizens in various green environmental programmes and practices.
4. To create awareness about the enormity of the situation and make the students ambassadors of environmental protection in the world outside the college premises.
5. To align the institution with the national programme of Swachh Bharat Abhiyan and imbibe the value of cleanliness among students and the community.

3. The Context

The college is a co-educational institution named after the tenth Sikh Guru Shree Gobind Singh Ji. Drawing inspiration from the Sikh Gurus, the college inspires its students to imbibe moral and spiritual values having universal acceptance. The college extends the precept of Vedic universal equality in upholding the entire life on earth as one, which implies a harmonious co-existence of all the species.

As India celebrates the Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav to commemorate its 75 years of Independence, the college highlighted the message of Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam (Earth is one family), one of the core philosophies of Indian civilisation since ancient times. Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam is a lofty Vedantic thought from Maha Upanishad, an ancient Indian scripture.

Africa's philosophy of Ubuntu, which means 'I am because we are', also highlights inherent interdependence of our existence. At the root of Vasudhaiva is Vasudha, our planet earth, and therefore, the Vedic concept of Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam highlights the concerns for the environment and the whole planet. The philosophy of Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam could also guide countries to adhere to sustainable development goals, prevent biodiversity loss and work towards mitigating climate change. Vasudhaiva Kutumbakam epitomises our age-old belief that the earth is one family and has been the bedrock of Indian ethos and culture. Sustainability is not just a catchword. It is imperative for our well-being.

The gods of the Vedas, the ancient scriptures of India, represent for the most part the natural forces, thus Vedic principles are pantheistic. The term "pantheist" was introduced by the Irish freethinker John Toland in the book Socinianism Truly Stated (1705) and constructed from the Greek roots pan (all) and theos (God). Though the term "pantheist" is a modern one, but if not the term, the ideas themselves are very ancient. Pantheism stresses the identity between God and the world. It stresses the theme of immanence, i.e., of the indwelling presence of God. The doctrine that the universe conceived of as a whole is God.

The recent years have witnessed a large number of catastrophes related with climate change. The people are so insensitive towards the climate change that they are not ready to accept that it is real. The insensitivity and indifference to the environment has brought a lot of chaos to the world. Environmental awareness through books fails to create an awareness level that might impel people to act. Therefore, it is imperative to inculcate a green culture in the students which should become so natural and habitual for them that they do not have to make any special efforts to be environmentally responsible. Thus, in addition to the institution imparting eco sensibility as a part of their curriculum, the students are provided with insights through experiential learning initiatives.

One of the core values of the institution is "social commitment". The college believes that higher education institution has responsibility to all its stakeholders, and it can be fulfilled only through continuous community engagement and fostering the social responsibility of the students and teachers. Keeping in view the degrading environmental conditions, the institution realized its responsibility towards society by making the citizens aware of deteriorating environmental parameters and nudging them for adopting eco-friendly methods. We aimed at training and involving our committed students in this socio- eco drive for generating awakening and involving masses for a global cause.

As Vivekanand quotes the tree Urdhavmula, the tree born out of its own seed giving rise to much stronger and bigger tree well rooted in traditions and nourishing itself from the values it received in its genome, so shall be our students, teachers and other stakeholders well-grounded in values of care for environment and sustainable development making the region a fit place to live in the coming times.

4. The Practice

i. Course Curriculum – Environmental Studies as AECC

Environment education is a part of our course curriculum. Ability Enhancement Compulsory Course (AECC) on Environmental Studies is taught with great zeal to the learners of all streams, as a part of the undergraduate curriculum. Besides imparting theoretical understanding of environmental issues, we ensure imparting practical knowledge through activity-based learning. Our students understand the value of dividends derived from clean and green environment.

The college NSS unit has from time to time initiated and participated in cleanliness drives on the banks of river Yamuna, also called ‘Jamuna’ in vernacular. ‘Nadi Mahotsav’ a government initiative was one such event which promoted our reverence towards the river having Vedic importance. Lighting of earthen oil lamps and chanting of hymns along with making her banks plastic-free revived river Yamuna the stature of a mother “Maa Yamuna”. The volunteers enthused with the spirit of understanding, pantheistic reflection in nature undertook a special drive to clean the adjoining ‘Yamuna Path’ and plant trees in collaboration with the forest department of the government of Himachal Pradesh.

(iii) Rainwater harvesting and its use for gardening and cleanliness:

SGGSJ GC Paonta Sahib has implemented an effective rainwater harvesting system as part of its commitment to sustainability and resource conservation. The college recognizes the importance of water as a vital resource, especially in the context of changing climatic conditions and increasing water scarcity.

The rainwater harvesting tanks installed on campus serve as a practical solution for collecting and storing rainwater during the monsoon season. This system captures runoff from rooftops and other surfaces, channeling it into storage tanks where it can be filtered and purified for various non-potable uses. By utilizing this harvested rainwater, the college significantly reduces its reliance on municipal water supply, thereby conserving water resources and minimizing the strain on local water systems.

The benefits of the rainwater harvesting system extend beyond mere water conservation. It helps in recharging groundwater levels, which is crucial for maintaining the ecological balance in the area. Additionally, the initiative raises awareness among students and staff about the importance of water conservation and sustainable practices.

Regular maintenance and monitoring of the rainwater harvesting tanks ensure their efficiency and functionality. The college plans to expand this initiative further, incorporating educational programs to engage the campus community in understanding the benefits of rainwater harvesting and encouraging responsible water use.

Overall, the rainwater harvesting tanks at SGGSJ GC Paonta Sahib exemplify the college's dedication to environmental stewardship and sustainable development, paving the way for a more resilient and resource-conscious future.

Social Impact of Extension Activities at SGGSJ Government College, Paonta Sahib

SGGSJ Government College, Paonta Sahib, has long been committed to community engagement and social responsibility through its extension activities. Various student units, including the National Service Scheme (NSS), National Cadet Corps (NCC), Rangers and Rovers, and the Road Safety Club, have played pivotal roles in organizing and participating in initiatives aimed at improving the quality of life in the region. These activities have a far-reaching impact, helping create a socially responsible and aware community while also shaping students into responsible citizens.

National Service Scheme (NSS) and its Social Impact

The NSS unit at SGGSJ Government College is deeply involved in a broad range of social service activities that directly impact the surrounding communities. NSS volunteers regularly participate in cleanliness drives under the banner of the Swachh Bharat Abhiyan, working in collaboration with local authorities to maintain public spaces. These drives not only clean streets, parks, and public buildings but also raise awareness among the local population about the importance of hygiene and cleanliness. By involving the local community, NSS helps cultivate a collective responsibility towards maintaining a clean environment.

In addition to cleanliness drives, NSS plays a critical role in health awareness programs, particularly focusing on marginalized sections of society. The unit conducts camps on malnutrition, personal hygiene, and sanitation, where volunteers distribute pamphlets, hold interactive sessions, and demonstrate practices such as proper hand-washing techniques. These initiatives have led to improved health practices within the community and a deeper understanding of preventive healthcare measures.

Furthermore, the annual blood donation camps organized by the NSS unit are an example of a highly impactful social initiative. These camps are conducted in collaboration with local hospitals and health centers, and they attract a large number of student and community donors. Over the years, these camps have not only contributed to the availability of blood in emergency situations but have also fostered a culture of voluntary blood donation among the youth.

National Cadet Corps (NCC) and its Contribution

The NCC unit at SGGSJ Government College focuses on instilling discipline, patriotism, and leadership qualities among students. However, beyond its primary goals, the unit also contributes significantly to social outreach activities. The NCC cadets participate in road safety awareness programs, where they collaborate with local traffic police to educate the public on the importance of adhering to traffic rules, wearing helmets, and using seat belts. Through street plays, posters, and public announcements, NCC cadets bring attention to the increasing number of road accidents and the preventive measures that can save lives.

Another key area where the NCC plays an active role is in disaster management and emergency response. NCC cadets are trained to assist during natural calamities such as floods and landslides, which are not uncommon in the region. During times of crisis, cadets provide support by coordinating relief efforts, distributing food and water, and assisting with evacuation procedures. These activities not only demonstrate the cadets' sense of responsibility but also provide much-needed assistance to communities in distress.

NCC cadets are also involved in health and cleanliness drives, joining hands with the NSS and Rangers & Rovers in creating a cleaner, healthier environment. Their involvement in activities like planting trees, organizing health camps, and educating the public about waste management showcases their commitment to societal well-being.

Rangers and Rovers: Building Leadership through Social Service

The Rangers and Rovers unit of SGGSJ Government College, aligned with the principles of the scouting movement, places a strong emphasis on developing leadership, teamwork, and self-reliance among students. Through various social service initiatives, this unit plays a significant role in community engagement.

One of the prominent activities undertaken by the Rangers and Rovers is organizing cleanliness campaigns in both urban and rural areas. Volunteers work tirelessly to clean public spaces, riverbanks, and forest trails. In addition to physically cleaning these areas, they engage with local residents to educate them on the importance of maintaining their environment, proper waste disposal techniques, and the long-term benefits of cleanliness.

Moreover, Rangers and Rovers collaborate with local health officials to run health camps in rural areas where access to medical services is limited. During these camps, basic medical check-ups are offered, and information on hygiene, sanitation, and disease prevention is disseminated. Their presence in these underserved areas ensures that health awareness reaches the most vulnerable sections of the population.

Road Safety Club: Creating Awareness and Saving Lives

The Road Safety Club at SGGSJ Government College, Paonta Sahib, plays a pivotal role in promoting road safety and traffic awareness among students and the local community. By organizing a range of interactive and educational events such as rallies, guest lectures, poster-making competitions, and quiz contests, the club aims to foster a sense of responsibility towards road safety and reduce traffic-related accidents. These activities are designed to engage participants of all age groups and encourage them to adopt safe practices while on the road.

Road Safety Rallies

One of the most impactful activities organized by the Road Safety Club is the Road Safety Awareness Rally. These rallies are designed to reach a wide audience by taking the message of road safety directly to the streets. During the rallies, students, faculty members, and volunteers march through the main roads of Paonta Sahib, carrying banners and placards with messages promoting traffic safety. These slogans highlight the importance of wearing helmets, using seat belts, adhering to speed limits, and avoiding the use of mobile phones while driving.

In collaboration with local police authorities, these rallies serve not only to raise awareness but also to engage directly with the public. The participants interact with pedestrians, drivers, and shopkeepers, distributing informative pamphlets about road safety rules and regulations. These rallies help to create a community-wide understanding of the critical importance of safe driving practices, while also setting a positive example for other educational institutions in the area.

Guest Lectures by Traffic Experts

In order to enhance the theoretical knowledge of road safety, the Road Safety Club regularly organizes guest lectures by experts in traffic management and law enforcement. These sessions are typically conducted by officers from the local traffic police department, health professionals, and road safety activists who have years of experience in dealing with traffic-related issues.

The guest lectures cover a wide array of topics, including the common causes of road accidents, the importance of following traffic signals, the role of the government in enforcing traffic laws, and measures that individuals can take to reduce the risk of accidents. These talks often include real-life case studies and statistical data to emphasize the importance of road safety in preventing fatalities and injuries.

These sessions are highly interactive, allowing students to ask questions and gain insights into how road safety measures can be effectively implemented. The presence of local law enforcement officers also encourages students to take road safety more seriously and to follow rules in their daily lives. The discussions not only raise awareness but also help create a better understanding of the legal implications of violating traffic laws.

Poster-Making Competitions

Another creative and engaging activity organized by the Road Safety Club is the poster-making competition. This competition allows students to express their understanding of road safety through art. The participants create posters that visually communicate important road safety messages, such as the dangers of speeding, the consequences of drunk driving, and the need to follow traffic rules.

The themes of the competition are often aligned with national road safety campaigns or local traffic safety initiatives, ensuring that the messages are relevant and impactful. After the competition, the winning posters are displayed in prominent locations around the college campus, such as the entrance gates, hallways, and notice boards, serving as constant reminders to students and staff about the importance of road safety.

The poster-making competition also serves as an educational tool, as students research various road safety issues while preparing their designs. This research often leads to a deeper understanding of the consequences of irresponsible driving and encourages participants to adopt safer habits in their own lives.

Innovative Initiatives:

I. Priority: Education for Rural Women – An Agent of Change

Education is one of the most powerful means of bringing about socio-economic progress among rural communities and it cannot be over-emphasized. Educated youth is capable of collectively bringing in significant changes and improving the whole community. Moreover, proper education will not just advantage the rural areas but benefit the entire economy of India. The institution believes that rural upliftment and women empowerment can be achieved through education.

"If you educate a man, you educate an individual, but if you educate a woman, you educate a family (nation)"

As an old African proverb, this maxim was initially popularized by Dr. James Emman Keyer Aggrey, a renowned Ghanaian educator and sociologist.

It bears the fundamental belief that education is beneficial to all but incorporates the notion that when women are educated, the benefits will be aggregated and magnified and enjoyed by a wider context – the family and [3] the nation.

This maxim recognized the benefits of education for women and has repeatedly become the motivation for global development efforts to offer education opportunities for women. Women's education is considered to yield enormous inter-generational gains. The institution emphatically puts into practice this maxim. A gnawing issue, discernible in the rural locality, is the hindrances encountered by the girls to pursue their higher education dreams. Economic, social, and cultural factors play a regressive role, thus impeding their academic journey.

The institution has played a pivotal role in redesigning and redefining the contours of progress in the rural areas and focuses on empowering women to bring positive outcomes in their lives.

Thrust: Women Empowerment through Skill Enhancement

The World Bank has noted that to succeed in the 21st century labour market, one needs a comprehensive skill set composed of: Cognitive skills, which encompass the ability to understand complex ideas, adapt effectively to the environment, learn from experience, and reason. Foundational literacy and numeracy as well as creativity, critical thinking, and problem-solving are cognitive skills. Socio-emotional skills, which describe the ability to navigate interpersonal and social situations effectively, and include leadership, teamwork, self-control, and grit. Technical skills, which refer to the acquired knowledge, expertise, and interactions needed to perform a specific task, including the mastery of required materials, tools, or technologies. Digital skills, which are cross-cutting and draw on all of the above skills, and describe the ability to access, manage, understand, integrate, communicate, evaluate, and create information safely and appropriately. The development of skills can contribute to structural transformation and economic growth by enhancing employability and labour productivity and helping countries to become more competitive.

The college endeavours to chisel and hone the fledglings that enrol in here and by the time they are ready to make their first flight their wings should be strong; they should soar fearlessly into the air where sky is the limit.

In order to achieve the vision, one of the thrust areas of the college is to promote skill-based education among women thereby ensuring women empowerment. The college believes that empowering women, could mitigate the inequities of denial, deprivation, and discrimination, thereby bring transformation in the society.

6. The Holistic Process The overall governance of the institution emphatically reveals the theme "Gram Mahila Aparajita:

Empowering Rural Populace with Focus on Women Empowerment and Skill Enhancement" establishing it as an institutional distinctiveness. This holistic process involves the following components:

i. Academic empowerment Quality education empowers women to acquire knowledge and promote experiential learning. The college provides the best of the facilities for academic empowerment in the form of smart classrooms, library resources including e-resources, access to computer lab, educational tours, projects etc. The college creates an ambience for women to enhance their academic intellect and develop a holistic personality by encouraging them to follow their aspirations to achieve in the areas of interest.

ii. Skill Enhancement The persistent demand for employable skills has mandated the need to offer skill-based add on courses in thrust areas with the objective to develop work ready graduate and post graduate students. Low skills perpetuate poverty and inequality. When done right, skills development can reduce un- and underemployment, increase productivity, and improve standards of living. Most of the students from rural areas and poor background, but they are not poor in talent, knowledge, and humility. So, the focus is more on enhancing the skills of the students. The academic enrichment is offered through skill-based courses under UGC Community College Scheme which adopts NSQF (National Skill Qualification Framework) and add-on certificate courses under Utkrisht Mahavidyalaya Yojna. The institution utilised the Graduate Add-on Programme of Himachal Pradesh Kaushal Vikas Nigam which aims to provide an opportunity for students to enhance their qualifications by pursuing specialised NSQF aligned course in addition to their regular academic education.

iii. Intellectual and Inspirational Empowerment The college provides a platform for women to showcase and enhance their skills, creativeness, and innovation through various curricular and co-curricular activities.

iv. The innovative approaches provide opportunities for women to develop leadership qualities and organizational skills. They form an integral part of the decision-making bodies of the college. As a tribute to the notable women of rural Himachal the college has named several infrastructural facilities after them.

• "Gambhari Devi Music Department" – after famous folk singer of Himachal Pradesh.

• "Suman Rawat Pavilion" – after famous international woman athlete from Himachal Pradesh

Cultural empowerment

The multi-cultural environment of the college encourages women to appreciate and respect the various cultures and traditions. It gives them a diverse understanding of an inter-cultural society. The college promotes inter-cultural harmony by organising and celebrating ethnicity of different regions and cultures through various competitive cultural events. It inculcates the values of tolerance and promotes secularistic principles. With the belief of academic and technical excellence, the institution also stimulates and supports the girl students to participate in various rural developmental activities.

Physical empowerment

The college reinforces the need of physical strengthening of women through sports, yoga, and meditation, NCC, NSS, and Rovers & Rangers. The women are provided with the best facility and training to excel in the arena of sports and cultural competitions. The college also promotes the well-being of women through emphasis on health, hygiene, nutritionally balanced diet, stress management and psycho-social strengthening.

Financial assistance

The college ensures that women are not deprived of quality education due to their financial constraints. Hence, the college under various government schemes and programmes provides financial support to girl students belonging to the economically weaker sections of the society.

• The college as per notification of the Government of Himachal Pradesh provides full waiver of Tuition Fees for the female Bonafide Himachal students.

• Indira Gandhi Single Girl Child Scholarship provided by UGC promotions girl education.

7. Outcomes The institutions efforts of empowering rural populace with focus on women empowerment and skill enhancement has resulted in the following outcomes:

Innovative Initiatives:

II. Inculcation of Values (Sarv Dharm Sadh Bhav) at SGGSJ Government College Paonta Sahib

SGGSJ Government College Paonta Sahib places great emphasis on fostering values of unity, respect, and harmony among its students. One of the college's central guiding principles is "Sarv Dharm Sadhbhav," which means goodwill and equal respect towards all religions. The college strives to create an inclusive environment where students from diverse backgrounds come together to learn, understand, and practice the values of harmony, tolerance, and mutual respect.

Several initiatives are undertaken at the college to inculcate these values, reflecting the idea of "Sarv Dharm Sadhbhav" in everyday academic life. This is achieved through religious and cultural activities, spiritual discussions, and events that highlight India's pluralistic traditions. Below are key topics and initiatives that highlight this commitment to value-based education at the institution:

A . Saraswati Worship (Veneration of Knowledge and Wisdom)

At SGGSJ Government College, the worship of Saraswati, the Hindu goddess of knowledge, wisdom, and learning, is a symbolic practice that represents the institution's dedication to education. The college celebrates Saraswati Puja during Vasant Panchami every year, marking a day devoted to the pursuit of knowledge and learning. This festival unites students and faculty, regardless of their religious affiliations, under the shared reverence for education and wisdom. Saraswati worship teaches students to respect knowledge, embrace curiosity, and uphold the values of intellectual growth, which are essential in both personal and academic life. Through this practice, students internalize the value of seeking wisdom and the humility required in lifelong learning.

B. Swami Vivekananda's Vedic Pantheistic Ideas

The teachings of Swami Vivekananda, one of India's greatest spiritual leaders, are an integral part of value education at the college. Vivekananda's interpretation of Vedic philosophy, especially his pantheistic ideas, which emphasize the divine presence in every being, resonates with the values of inclusiveness and harmony. His famous proclamation, "All religions are true," serves as a cornerstone for the concept of Sarv Dharm Sadh Bhav.

At SGGSJ Government College, seminars, workshops, and lectures are frequently organized to introduce students to Vivekananda's teachings. His message of universal brotherhood, respect for all faiths, and the pursuit of self-realization through service and compassion, helps foster a spirit of unity and respect for diversity. Vivekananda's ideas encourage students to see the common thread of humanity that binds all religions, thus promoting peaceful coexistence.

C. Sukhmani Path (Sikhism's Message of Peace and Contentment)

As Paonta Sahib is closely associated with the Sikh faith, Sukhmani Path, a sacred Sikh prayer, is an important religious and cultural practice observed at the college. The Sukhmani Path is a part of Guru Granth Sahib, the holy scripture of Sikhism, and it translates to "Prayer of Peace." This prayer is recited to bring peace and contentment to the mind and soul, emphasizing the core Sikh principles of Sewa (selfless service), compassion, and equality.

The college regularly organizes the recitation of Sukhmani Path during significant events and celebrations. This practice not only honor's the spiritual heritage of the local Sikh community but also promotes values such as peace, unity, and service to others. Students, regardless of their religious background, are encouraged to participate in or observe the Sukhmani Path, allowing them to understand and appreciate the universal messages of peace and harmony embedded in Sikhism.

D . Veer Bal Diwas (Commemoration of Sikh Martyrs, 26 December)

Veer Bal Diwas, observed on December 26, is a solemn day in Sikh history that honours the martyrdom of the two younger sons of Guru Gobind Singh Ji, Sahibzadas Zorawar Singh and Fateh Singh. The college commemorates this day to pay tribute to the courage, sacrifice, and steadfastness of these young boys who chose martyrdom over conversion to Islam during the Mughal period.

The college organizes special assemblies, lectures, and discussions on Veer Bal Diwas to reflect on the values of bravery, sacrifice, and standing up for one's beliefs. Students are inspired by the story of the Sahibzadas, which teaches them the importance of resilience, moral conviction, and commitment to righteousness. By honouring this day, the college fosters a sense of pride in Sikh history while imparting universal values of justice and freedom of faith.

Sarv Dharm Sadh Bhav as a Pillar of Inclusive Education

At SGGSJ Government College Paonta Sahib, Sarv Dharm Sadh Bhav is not merely a concept, but a lived practice that permeates the institution's educational philosophy. Through a diverse range of religious and cultural activities—be it the veneration of Saraswati, the teachings of Swami Vivekananda, the reverence for Maa Yamuna, the recitation of Sukhmani Path, or the commemoration of Veer Bal Diwas—the college actively promotes values of tolerance, respect for diversity, and the unity of all faiths. These practices help students grow not only academically but also spiritually and morally, preparing them to become compassionate, inclusive, and responsible citizens of the world.

Innovative Initiatives:

III. Adoption of River Yamuna Bank (Surya Putri - Maa Yamuna) by SGGSJ Government College Paonta Sahib

In Paonta Sahib, the presence of the River Yamuna holds significant cultural and spiritual importance. Revered as "Maa Yamuna" by the people, the river is considered a mother figure who nurtures life in the region. The college recognizes the cultural significance of the Yamuna and organizes activities that promote environmental stewardship and respect for nature, seen as an extension of the motherly qualities of Maa Yamuna.

Students are encouraged to participate in river cleaning drives, plantation programs, and awareness campaigns that highlight the importance of preserving natural resources. These activities not only teach ecological values but also in still a sense of reverence for nature, drawing from the traditional Indian view of rivers as life-giving forces. By venerating the Yamuna, students learn the value of environmental conservation and the spiritual responsibility to protect and respect nature.

In a noble initiative to preserve and nurture the environment, SGGSJ Government College Paonta Sahib undertook the adoption of the River Yamuna bank, a lifeline of North India, often referred to as "Surya Putri" or "Maa Yamuna." This project, initiated in 2021, encompasses a holistic approach to maintaining the cleanliness, sanctity, and ecological balance of the Yamuna riverbank through sustained efforts, community engagement, and environmental awareness.

Background and Rationale

The River Yamuna holds immense religious, cultural, and ecological significance in India. However, over the past few decades, pollution levels in the river have risen alarmingly due to industrial waste, domestic sewage, and plastic waste. The stretch of the river that flows through Paonta Sahib is relatively cleaner but still faces challenges due to local human activities. SGGSJ Government College, located in this town, recognized the need to take concrete steps in addressing the environmental degradation along the Yamuna and launched a series of sustained interventions, focusing on plantation, cleanliness drives, weeding activities, lighting of lamps in a pantheistic spirit, and creating awareness among the community.

The initiative took shape in close collaboration with the local administration, which provided support in terms of resources, logistics, and permissions. The college's efforts have become a model for other educational institutions to follow, demonstrating how consistent community participation can make a tangible difference to the environment.

Plantation Drives: A Green Effort

One of the core activities of the adoption initiative was the plantation of trees along the riverbank. The college organized large-scale plantation drives annually, with students, faculty, and volunteers from the community enthusiastically participating. The plantation drives were aimed not only at beautifying the riverbank but also at enhancing the ecological health of the area by planting species that help in preventing soil erosion and improving air quality.

In 2021, the plantation drive marked the beginning of the adoption project, with over 500 saplings of indigenous species like neem, peepal, and banyan being planted. These species were chosen for their environmental benefits, including their ability to absorb pollutants, provide shade, and enhance biodiversity.

The plantation continued in the following years, with the college planting additional saplings in 2022 and 2023, expanding the green cover along the Yamuna bank. Special emphasis was laid on nurturing the saplings to ensure their survival, with volunteers regularly watering and caring for the young plants. By 2023, the once barren stretches of the riverbank had transformed into a thriving green corridor, symbolizing hope and renewal.

Cleanliness Drives: Restoring the Sanctity of Maa Yamuna

Another significant aspect of the project was the regular cleanliness drives organized by the college. Yamuna, like many rivers in India, faces the challenge of pollution from plastic waste, domestic garbage, and other pollutants. SGGSJ Government College made it a mission to clean the riverbank and prevent further pollution through consistent efforts.

The first major cleanliness drive was conducted in early 2021, when students, faculty, and local residents came together to remove plastic waste, debris, and other pollutants from the riverbank. The sight of students wading through the water to collect plastic bottles, wrappers, and other trash became a regular feature in Paonta Sahib, inspiring others in the community to join the cause.

These cleanliness drives were not just one-time events; they became a regular occurrence, with the college organizing them every few months in collaboration with local NGOs and the municipal authorities. In 2022 and 2023, the efforts intensified, with the involvement of a greater number of volunteers, including schoolchildren, government officials, and local residents. Together, they ensured that the riverbank remained free of litter and pollutants, restoring the sanctity of Maa Yamuna.

Weeding Activities: Protecting the River Ecosystem

Weeding, though often overlooked, played a crucial role in maintaining the health of the riverbank. Invasive plant species, which tend to grow rapidly along the banks, can choke the natural vegetation and disrupt the ecological balance of the area. SGGSJ Government College undertook regular weeding activities as part of its adoption program to ensure that the native plant species could thrive without competition from invasive species.

In 2021, the college began its weeding initiative by identifying and removing invasive species like lantana and water hyacinth from the riverbank. This helped in promoting the growth of the saplings planted during the plantation drives and allowed native plants to establish themselves along the bank.

The weeding activities continued in the subsequent years, with the college organizing regular weeding sessions in 2022 and 2023. Volunteers from the college and the local community worked together to clear the riverbank of invasive plants, ensuring that the ecosystem of the river remained balanced and healthy.

Lamp Lighting and Pantheism: Celebrating Nature's Spirit

In addition to the practical aspects of environmental preservation, the college also incorporated cultural and spiritual elements into its efforts. Every year, on significant religious and cultural occasions, the college organized lamp lighting ceremonies along the riverbank, symbolizing the reverence for Maa Yamuna and the interconnectedness of all life forms.

These ceremonies, held in the evenings, saw students, faculty, and community members lighting oil lamps and placing them along the riverbank, creating a serene and beautiful sight. The act of lighting lamps was not merely a religious or cultural ritual but also a symbolic gesture of gratitude towards nature. It was a reminder of the pantheistic belief that divinity resides in every element of nature, including the river, the trees, and the earth.

The lamp lighting ceremonies were held in 2021, 2022,2023 and 2024, and became an integral part of the adoption initiative, reinforcing the idea that environmental preservation is not just a duty but a sacred responsibility.

Awareness Drives: Engaging the Community

The success of the adoption initiative lay in its ability to engage the local community and raise awareness about the importance of preserving Yamuna. SGGSJ Government College Paonta Sahib conducted a series of awareness drives aimed at educating people about the environmental challenges facing the river and encouraging them to participate in its preservation.

In 2021, the college organized its first awareness drive, involving students and faculty visiting local schools, markets, and residential areas to distribute pamphlets and engage with residents about the importance of keeping the river clean. The college also used social media platforms to reach a wider audience, posting regular updates about their activities and encouraging others to join the cause.

In 2022 and 2023, the college intensified its awareness efforts, organizing rallies, seminars, and workshops on environmental conservation. Experts from environmental organizations were invited to speak at these events, providing insights into the challenges facing the Yamuna and suggesting ways in which the community could contribute to its preservation.

The awareness drives not only educated the community but also instilled a sense of ownership among the residents of Paonta Sahib, motivating them to take action in preserving their local environment.

Support from Local Administration

The success of the adoption initiative would not have been possible without the support of the local administration. The municipal authorities, along with the local police and environmental agencies, provided logistical support for cleanliness drives, plantation activities, and awareness campaigns. They ensured that the college had the necessary resources and permissions to carry out its activities effectively.

In return, the college's efforts helped reduce the burden on the local administration in terms of maintaining the cleanliness of the riverbank, creating a sustainable model of community-led environmental stewardship.

The adoption of the Yamuna riverbank by SGGSJ Government College Paonta Sahib is a shining example of how educational institutions can play a vital role in environmental conservation. Through consistent efforts in plantation, cleanliness, weeding, lamp lighting, and awareness drives, the college has not only helped restore the ecological balance of the riverbank but also fostered a deeper connection between the community and nature.

IV. “Chemigreen Club” – An Initiative by Department of Chemistry, A step towards Environmental Sustainability

In an innovative step towards promoting environmentally conscious practices in chemical education, Professor Amita Joshi, in the 2022-23 academic session, launched the "Chemigreen Club" in the Department of Chemistry. This initiative aims to foster awareness among students of B.Sc. and M.Sc. Chemistry about the importance of eco-friendly methods in chemical experiments. The club’s motto, "Chemically Eco-Friendly", reflects its core vision of encouraging students to adopt greener and more sustainable laboratory practices. The Club also has a logo depicting the green methodology that must be used to carry out the chemical reactions.

The following are the minutes of the meeting held in the department regarding the constitution of the Chemigreen Club followed by the first introductory session and the list of students who attended the session.

The Chemigreen Club provides students with a platform to enhance their personalities and skills by organizing and participating in various activities such as Chemistry Week, Ozone Day, and National Science Day celebrations. These events offer students the opportunity toengage with contemporary environmental issues and showcase their commitment to greener chemistry.

One of the club's unique features is its executive body, which offers leadership roles to outstanding students. Each year, based on their performance, students are appointed to key positions such as President, Vice President, General Secretary, and Joint Secretary. Additionally, several specialized squads have been created, such as the Technical Squad, Library Squad, Plantation Squad, Discipline Squad, and Cultural Squad. Each squad is led by a student squad leader, supported by other members.

Reconstitution of the club is an annual process, ensuring that deserving students, based on their dedication and contributions, are given opportunities to lead and further their skills. The Chemigreen Club, with its innovative structure and green chemistry mission, is not only helping students develop academically but also grooming them into responsible, environmentally sensitive scientists. This initiative by Professor Joshi is a significant contribution towards merging scientific education with environmental stewardship.

Teachers as Research Guide

A notable strength of the institute lies in the active and consistent involvement of its faculty members as research guides, a role that is central to the academic growth and intellectual development of students. These faculty members, with their vast experience and expertise, offer personalized mentorship, guiding students through the complexities of research methodologies, critical thinking, and innovative problem-solving. Their involvement is not limited to oversight but extends to fostering a collaborative environment where students are encouraged to explore new ideas, challenge existing paradigms, and contribute to the body of knowledge in their respective fields.

The research mentorship provided by the faculty enhances the overall quality of student projects, ensuring they meet high academic standards and reflect cutting-edge research trends. This mentorship fosters a deep-rooted culture of inquiry and intellectual curiosity, equipping students with the necessary skills to succeed in both academia and industry. As research guides, the faculty also actively assist in securing resources, funding, and exposure to academic networks, which further enriches the students' learning experiences and increases the visibility of the institute's research output.

Moreover, the institute’s emphasis on research mentorship plays a significant role in building its reputation as a center of innovation and academic excellence. By engaging students in high-impact research and promoting interdisciplinary collaboration, the faculty not only contribute to the professional development of students but also drive the institution’s contributions to societal advancements through research. This symbiotic relationship between faculty guidance and student research further strengthens the institute’s commitment to shaping competent, forward-thinking graduates who are well-prepared to address real-world challenges and make meaningful contributions to their fields.

In this way, the active role of teachers as research guides is a cornerstone of the institute’s academic strategy, positioning it as a leader in fostering creativity, innovation, and research excellence. It also exemplifies the institute’s broader mission of producing graduates who are not only technically proficient but also equipped with the intellectual agility to thrive in a rapidly changing global environment.

Number of Orientation Programmes, Refresher Programmes, Faculty development Programmes and Workshops of one or more weeks attended by teachers (in last 3 years)

The institute places a strong emphasis on continuous professional development for its faculty, as evidenced by the significant number of Orientation Programmes, Refresher Programmes, Faculty Development Programmes, and workshops attended by teachers over the past three years. These initiatives equip the faculty with the latest pedagogical techniques and research skills, ensuring that they stay updated with the evolving trends in their respective fields. This commitment to faculty development directly contributes to enhancing the overall quality of education at the institute.

Here's a breakdown of each of the programs:

1. Orientation Programs

These are introductory programs primarily designed for newly recruited faculty members. Orientation Programmes aim to familiarize teachers with the teaching methodologies, institutional policies, ethical practices, and administrative duties they are expected to follow. They help new educators transition smoothly into their roles and equip them with the necessary skills to create effective learning environments. The focus is often on pedagogy, communication skills, and understanding student psychology. Additionally, these programs help new faculty members develop a deeper understanding of the educational system and their responsibilities as educators.

2. Refresher Programs

Refresher Programmes are targeted at faculty members who have been in service for some time and aim to update their knowledge and skills. These programs ensure that teachers stay current with the latest developments in their specific disciplines, including advancements in research, technology, and teaching strategies. They serve as an opportunity for faculty to revisit core concepts, learn about new trends, and apply fresh ideas in their classrooms. Typically organized by universities or regulatory bodies, Refresher Programmes are also essential for faculty promotions, as they enhance academic credentials and contribute to professional growth.

3. Faculty Development Programmes (FDPs)

FDPs are structured programs designed to enhance the overall professional capabilities of teachers. These programs typically cover a broad spectrum of topics, including research methodologies, leadership skills, curriculum development, digital learning tools, and soft skills such as communication and team-building. FDPs focus on holistic development, helping faculty members improve both their teaching effectiveness and their research acumen. The goal is to empower educators with the tools they need to make teaching more student-centric, innovative, and interactive, while also fostering a research-oriented mindset. FDPs often involve hands-on training, workshops, and case studies to make learning practical and impactful.

4. Workshops

Workshops are short-term, intensive training sessions focused on a specific topic or skill set. They are highly interactive, involving hands-on activities, discussions, and collaborative problem-solving. Workshops may cover areas such as new technologies in education, assessment techniques, research tools, or subject-specific innovations. They offer faculty members the opportunity to learn new skills, share experiences, and explore best practices that they can directly implement in their teaching or research. Workshops are often conducted by experts and encourage active participation, making them valuable for gaining practical insights and immediate feedback.

Each of these programs plays a critical role in ensuring that faculty members remain competent, innovative, and well-equipped to provide high-quality education. By participating in these programs, teachers are continually expanding their knowledge, adapting to new trends, and refining their teaching and research practices, all of which contribute to the institute's overall academic excellence.

Project/Patents fellowships/Association:

This key indicator focuses on the research output and intellectual contributions of the faculty, as well as their ability to attract competitive fellowships and associateships. It reflects the institute's commitment to innovation, academic excellence, and its active engagement in research activities that have real-world applications. Here's a detailed explanation of each component:

1. Projects

Projects refer to research or development initiatives undertaken by faculty members, often funded by government agencies, private organizations, or international bodies. These projects typically address pressing challenges in various fields, contribute to the generation of new knowledge, and have a direct impact on industry, society, or science. Faculty-led projects often involve students, fostering an environment of collaborative research. These projects enhance the institute's reputation for research and development, and the successful completion of such projects often leads to the publication of papers, improved institutional rankings, and the development of new technologies.

2. Patents

Patents are intellectual property rights granted to faculty members who have developed innovative products, processes, or technologies. A patent indicates that the institution is not just involved in theoretical research but is also contributing to technological advancement and the commercialization of research. The number of patents filed or granted to the institute's faculty is a key metric of innovation, reflecting their ability to turn research ideas into practical, marketable solutions. Patents also open up opportunities for industry collaboration, technology transfers, and commercialization, all of which bolster the institution's stature in the academic and industrial communities.

3. Fellowships

Fellowships are prestigious academic or research awards that faculty members receive from external organizations, based on their contributions and expertise in specific fields. These awards are often given by national or international bodies such as research councils, scientific societies, or foundations. Fellowships enable faculty members to pursue specialized research, engage in advanced training, or participate in collaborative research with other institutions. Securing fellowships demonstrates the institute's ability to attract top talent and support cutting-edge research, further enhancing its academic standing.

4. Associateships

Associateships are research or academic positions offered to faculty members by prestigious organizations or institutions. These are often collaborative roles that provide opportunities for faculty to work with leading researchers, gain access to advanced research facilities, or participate in global research projects. Associateships help in building networks and partnerships, both nationally and internationally, which not only enhance the individual faculty member's professional development but also raise the institute's profile as a center for collaborative research and innovation.

Overall, the presence of high-impact projects, patents, fellowships, and associateships among the faculty demonstrates a strong culture of research, innovation, and industry collaboration. These accomplishments not only add to the institute's prestige but also contribute to the advancement of science and technology, making the institution a key player in addressing global challenges.

Number of projects ongoing

NIL

Number of Papers presented in Conferences/ Seminars/ Symposia (in last 3 years)

This key indicator measures the research dissemination efforts of the institute's faculty by tracking the number of academic papers they have presented at conferences, seminars, and symposia over the past three years. It reflects the institute's engagement with the broader academic community and its contribution to advancing knowledge in various fields. Here's a detailed breakdown of its importance:

1. Conferences

Conferences are large-scale gatherings of scholars, researchers, and industry professionals where faculty members present their latest research findings. Presenting papers at national and international conferences gives faculty the opportunity to share their work with peers, receive feedback, and engage in academic discussions. Conferences are platforms for intellectual exchange, where faculty can stay updated on the latest trends, build networks, and establish collaborations with researchers from other institutions.

2. Seminars

Seminars are often more focused and specialized meetings where researchers present their work to a specific audience, often related to their particular area of study. Presenting papers at seminars allows faculty to engage deeply with a niche community of researchers, providing a more interactive environment for the exchange of ideas. It also allows for in-depth discussions on specific research topics, leading to potential collaborations and deeper exploration of academic questions.

3. Symposia

Symposia are typically formal gatherings that focus on a particular theme or subject. Presenting at a symposium allows faculty to showcase their research in a specialized context and engage with other experts in the field. Symposia are often organized as part of larger conferences or as stand-alone events and are known for encouraging focused discussion on pressing research challenges or cutting-edge developments.

Presenting papers at these academic gatherings is an indicator of the faculty's active involvement in research and their contribution to the advancement of knowledge. It also showcases the institute's commitment to research excellence, as these platforms allow faculty to make their work visible, contribute to academic discourse, and stay aligned with global research trends. The consistent presentation of research papers not only enhances the faculty's academic standing but also contributes to the institution’s overall reputation and ranking in the academic and research community. Additionally, it provides networking opportunities, allowing the institute to build partnerships for collaborative research and innovation.

Number of Papers presented in Conferences/ Seminars/ Symposia (in last 3 years)

This key indicator assesses the research dissemination initiatives of the institute's faculty by quantifying the academic papers presented at conferences, seminars, and symposia during the preceding three years. It underscores the institution's proactive integration with the wider academic ecosystem and its substantive contributions to knowledge enhancement across diverse disciplines.

1. Conferences

Conferences serve as expansive platforms convening scholars, researchers, and industry stakeholders, enabling faculty to unveil their latest empirical findings and theoretical advancements. Participation in national and international conferences facilitates rigorous peer review, constructive feedback, vibrant intellectual exchanges, and real-time updates on emerging trends. These events also cultivate professional networks, foster inter-institutional collaborations, and amplify the institute's visibility in the global research landscape.

2. Seminars

Seminars provide intimate, specialized venues tailored to niche research domains, where faculty present targeted papers to discerning audiences of domain experts. This format promotes highly interactive dialogues, nuanced explorations of complex methodologies, and iterative refinement of research ideas. Consequently, seminars yield potential joint ventures, refined hypotheses, and accelerated progress in specialized scholarly inquiries.

3. Symposia

Symposia represent structured, theme-centric assemblies—often embedded within larger conferences or hosted independently—that concentrate on pivotal research agendas or frontier developments. Faculty presentations at symposia position their work within contextualized discourses, engaging elite peers in substantive debates on pressing challenges. These gatherings excel in synthesizing multidisciplinary perspectives, sparking innovative solutions, and advancing field-specific paradigms.

Faculty engagement in these scholarly forums exemplifies sustained research productivity, intellectual leadership, and the institute's dedication to scholarly rigor. Such activities heighten research visibility, enrich global academic conversations, synchronize institutional efforts with cutting-edge paradigms, elevate faculty credentials, and bolster the institute's stature, rankings, and accreditations like NAAC. Moreover, they generate enduring partnerships, funding avenues, and collaborative ecosystems driving innovation and societal impact.

6.6 Seminars, Workshops, Conferences and Trainings organized by the Institution

This indicator evaluates the institution's initiative in organizing academic and professional development events such as seminars, workshops, conferences, and training programs. It highlights the institution's role as an active contributor to the academic community, showcasing its commitment to fostering knowledge exchange, research advancement, and skill development. Here's a detailed breakdown:

1. Seminars

Seminars organized by the institution are typically smaller-scale, focused sessions that bring together experts and scholars to discuss specific topics or recent developments in a particular field. These events encourage in-depth discussion and allow faculty, students, and invited speakers to engage in meaningful academic discourse. Organizing seminars positions the institution as a hub for intellectual engagement and allows it to contribute to advancing specialized knowledge.

2. Workshops

Workshops are interactive training sessions where participants acquire practical skills related to a particular area of expertise. By organizing workshops, the institution provides hands-on learning opportunities, enabling participants to deepen their practical knowledge, enhance technical skills, and apply what they've learned in their professional or academic pursuits. Workshops often focus on areas such as new technologies, research methodologies, and problem-solving techniques, making them crucial for faculty, students, and professionals alike.

3. Conferences

Conferences are larger gatherings that bring together academics, researchers, professionals, and industry leaders from across the country or the world. By hosting conferences, the institution showcases its leadership in academic discourse and its role in advancing research in various fields. These events serve as a platform for participants to present their research findings, network, exchange ideas, and foster collaboration. Organizing conferences also raises the institution's profile both nationally and internationally, attracting attention to its research activities and academic programs.

4. Training Programs

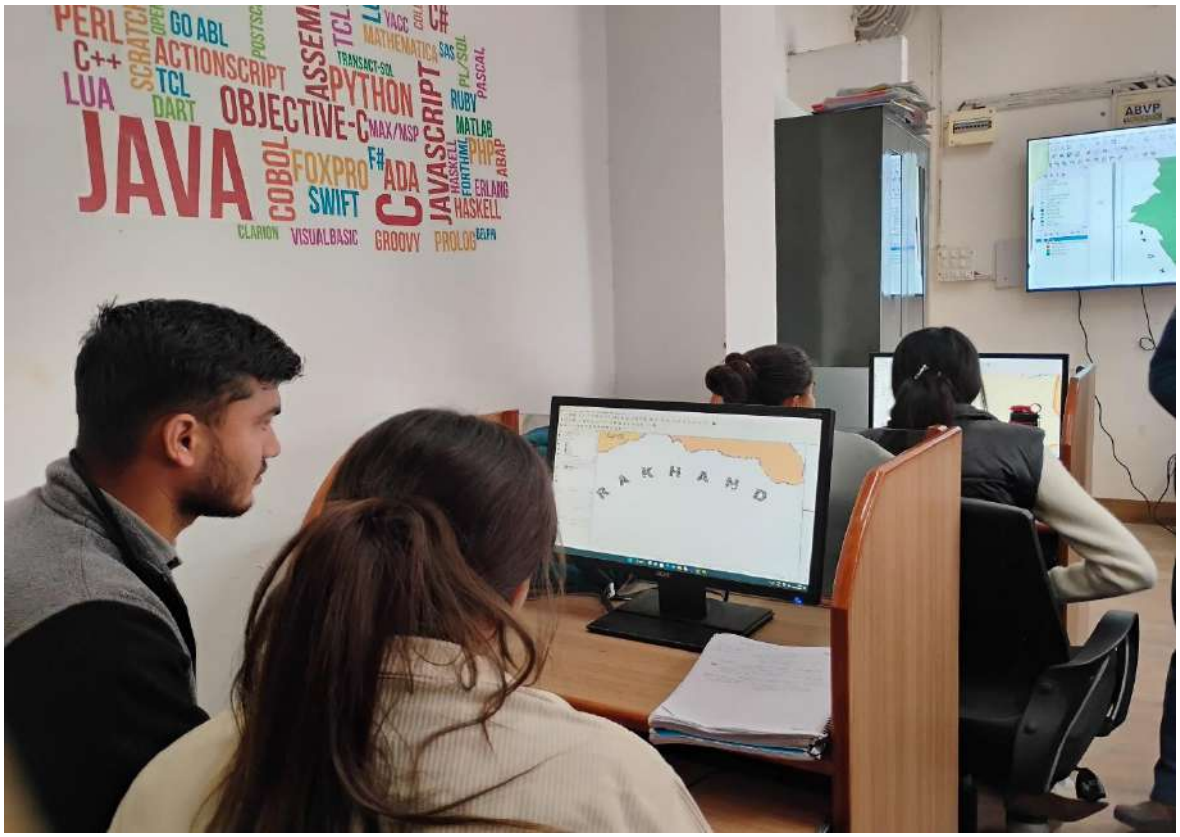

Training programs are designed to impart specific skills or knowledge to participants, often focusing on professional development or technical expertise. These programs are typically targeted at faculty, students, or industry professionals who are looking to enhance their capabilities in areas such as new software tools, pedagogical methods, leadership, management, or emerging technologies. Organizing training programs ensures that the institution remains at the forefront of skill-building and career development, making it a key player in preparing individuals for the evolving demands of the job market and academia.

The institution's organization of these events reflects its proactive approach to academic excellence and its dedication to creating an environment that promotes continuous learning, knowledge dissemination, and collaborative engagement. These initiatives not only enrich the academic community within the institution but also contribute to its standing in the broader academic and professional landscape. Moreover, organizing such events fosters networking opportunities, encourages interdisciplinary collaboration, and helps bridge the gap between academia and industry, further enhancing the institution's reputation as a center for research, innovation, and skill development.

Number of Papers Published

Number of Papers Published

This key indicator assesses the research papers published by faculty in academic journals, conference proceedings, and scholarly platforms. It gauges the institution's research output, quality of scholarly work, and commitment to knowledge advancement across disciplines. Detailed aspects include:

1. Research Output and Impact

   The count of published papers directly indicates faculty research engagement. These works introduce novel findings, perspectives, or innovations, enriching the global knowledge base. Regular publishing by faculty underscores their scholarly dedication, expertise, and capacity for substantive disciplinary contributions. Peer-reviewed publications uphold rigorous standards, affirming their credibility and value within academia.

2. Publication in Reputable Journal

   Appearances in high-impact, peer-reviewed journals signal the research's substantial academic merit. Such journals employ stringent evaluation, guaranteeing top-tier quality. Greater numbers in these venues elevate the institution's research stature, aiding rankings, funding prospects, and inter-institutional partnerships.

3. Collaborative Research

   Robust publication records often stem from collaborations among internal faculty or with external partners from academia, industry, or global entities. These efforts yield interdisciplinary insights, spurring innovation and expanding research horizons. Institutions promoting collaboration typically achieve higher publication volumes through pooled expertise.

4. Dissemination of Knowledge

   Publications enable sharing of research outcomes with scholars and broader audiences. Faculty findings inform further studies, technological advances, and solutions to real-world challenges. Sustained publication trends demonstrate the institution's prowess in generating pertinent, influential research that shapes discourse, policy, and practice.

5. Institutional Reputation

   Prolific publications enhance the institution's prestige as a hub of excellence and frontier research. This attracts grants, skilled faculty, and motivated students seeking research-centric environments. Consistent output reaffirms dedication to scholarship and leadership in academic domains.

In summary, the number of papers published serves as a vital measure of institutional research vigor and scholarly influence. It spotlights faculty intellectual output, nurtures a research-oriented culture, and bolsters global academic positioning. Strong publication profiles position institutions as pioneers in innovation, inquiry, and knowledge progression.

Abstract: The impact of globalisation and increased technical know-how in the modern times has greatly eroded the Indigenous knowledge. However, in Himachal Pradesh Traditional knowledge gained from ancestors has been preserved and practised by the villagers. The present study was carried out to document the traditional know how of people of village Chawal in Solan, Himachal Pradesh. This village was purposively selected as all villagers strictly follow old traditional practices like plant-based medicines, judicious use of natural water resources etc. This decade long study was based on semi structured interview and collection of data at the household level. The findings suggest that traditional knowledge of villagers can be related to different chemical reactions. 75% villagers believe that there is a connect between chemical sciences and traditional knowledge. The present research suggests that basic chemistry of traditional knowledge and rituals must be included in the school curriculum for sustainable development.

Introduction

Indigenous traditional knowledge is basically knowledge transferred orally from one generation to next in a specified rural area and used by people in taking decisions in matters regarding agriculture, health, food, livestock management, natural resource management and many more such activities associated with daily life. (Gibji Nimachow, G. N., Joshi, R. C., & Oyi Dai, O. D. ,2011) The knowledge gained in such a manner, even though has a religious aspect to it, still has a scientific base. The indigenous people use the natural resources in a scientific manner with a hope that their future generations retain the ability and capability to meet their own needs. This is actually "sustainable development" a buzzword these days for all the nations of the world.

The traditional knowledge of different areas is now being documented by different researchers. The documentation of best practices of the indigenous traditional knowledge (Boven, K., & Morohashi, J.,2002) of different geographical zones can be helpful in promoting these practices amongst the younger generation for a greener, ecofriendly and healthier future. Local wisdom has been used by many communities in mitigating natural hazards like landslides (Marzuki, M., & Gayo, H. R. ,2022) conserving forest resources. (Gibji Nimachow, G. N., Joshi, R. C., & Oyi Dai, O. D. ,2011) (Suwarno, Nirwansyah, A. W., Sutomo, Demirdag, I., Sarjanti, E., & Bramasta, D.,2022). and critically endangered cross river gorillas of Africa (Etiendem, D. N., Hens, L., & Pereboom, Z.,2011).). Studies show that some of the faith-based beliefs and traditional rituals that are followed by a particular community have been linked with a scientific ground (Zaki, M. K., Noda, K., Ito, K., Komariah, K., Sumani, S., & Senge, M., 2020) and this linkage may prove promising in preserving the rich indigenous knowledge for future generations. The integration of traditional knowledge with science has gained increasing attention in recent years, particularly in rural communities where indigenous practices continue to play an important part in daily life.

For the rural people of hilly areas, sustainable scientific living using traditional knowledge is a common practice. The integration of indigenous knowledge with science can revitalise the local and indigenous knowledge and help the community in transferring the knowledge to next generation in a more scientific manner (Hiwasaki, L., Luna, E., & Shaw, R.,2014) and such local wisdom of one community can be adapted by other communities also. The researcher involved in this study agrees that the terms traditional knowledge, indigenous knowledge, local wisdom, indigenous technical knowledge can be studied under the umbrella term Indigenous Science (Zidny, R., Solfarina, S., Aisyah, R. S. S., & Eilks, I.,2021).). The inherent chemistry involved in most of the beliefs and rituals of the rural people provides a strong base to integrate indigenous knowledge with chemistry teaching to get better academic results in schools (Ugwu, A. N., & Diovu, C. I.,2016). and colleges and can develop an interest in the learners towards their indigenous chemical heritage (Liliana, M., & Tendamudzimu, T., 2017). The present study of a small less known hamlet in Himachal Pradesh has been done with the objective of studying indigenous traditional knowledge and practices of the villagers and to relate it to the basic chemistry involved in their daily rituals which helps them in leading a sustainable life.

The present case study focuses on a specific hilly village, exploring the wealth of traditional knowledge possessed by its inhabitants and the underlying chemistry involved in these practices. Traditional knowledge, passed down through generations, encompasses a broad spectrum of areas such as agriculture, medicine, food preservation, and healthy food habits having a base of chemical principles. The knowledge of the villagers though without the scientific terminology is deeply associated with modern chemistry.

This decade long research aims to document the chemical foundations of several key traditional practices observed in the village. The study highlights how basic chemical processes—such as fermentation, extraction, and synthesis are employed in everyday life, often leading to environmentally sustainable solutions. By examining the chemistry embedded in these local practices, this research illustrates the inherent scientific wisdom within Indian traditional knowledge systems Understanding these indigenous practices with a scientific base helps to corelate the old traditions with the modern scientific principles and emphasizes their potential for contributions in fields such as sustainable agriculture, green chemistry, and natural product research.

Objectives of the Study:

The main objectives of the study are:

1) To study the indigenous traditional knowledge of villagers and explore main areas where the villagers preferably use this knowledge.
2) To validate the deep relationship between traditional knowledge and the underlying chemistry rooted in centuries through observation and experimentation.

Description of Case Study Area:

Location: The study has been carried out in village "Chawal" located 1502 meters above sea level in Solan district of Himachal Pradesh, India. It is situated 14km away from Solan and 25 km from state capital Shimla. Deothi is the gram panchayat of this village. Village code of Chawal village is 021851 census 2011 (DH_2011_0209_PART_A_DCHB_SOLAN.pdf) The total geographical area of village is 32 hectares. It is connected with link road in the year 2022 and the nearest roadhead station is Matando on the Solan-Sabathu-Dharnapur road. From Matando, a 20-minute uphill walk amidst pine trees takes one to the village.

Population: The population as per census 2011 was 59 with 31 males and 28 females. As per this study, the population of this village is 49 out of which 22 are female and 27 are male.

Educational background: In the present generation in the age group of 18-35 only two youths have opted science stream. One female is pursuing her masters in Chemistry and the other male is pursuing Bachelor's degree in Technology. None of the adults in the age group 36 – 80 years has studied science. The researcher herself is the only adult in the village who is associated with education in govt sector. Five females married and settled outside the village have done their Bachelors in Arts around four decades back.

Traditional Knowledge: The knowledge of various medicinal herbs and their benefits have been informally and orally handed down from one generation to the next generation and no written records of the local medicines gathered from the forest area have been maintained.

Methodology:

The information from the villagers has been collected by following methods:

(i) Group interview
(ii) Semi structured interview (through google form).
(iii) Individual interview in local language by researcher and local students.

This publication is licensed under Creative Commons Attribution CC BY.

- The group interview helped a lot in getting the detailed information of the village life as used earlier by other research groups for case studies. (Gibji Nimachow, G. N., Joshi, R. C., & Oyi Dai, O. D.,2011) (Liliana, M., & Tendamudzimu, T.,2017)
- 15 villagers in the age group 18-39 years were able to fill the structured questionnaire (google form) but most of the elderly people in the age group 40-80 years actively participated in the group interviews.
- Individual interviews taken from people in age group 60-80 years in the local Pahari language were translated by the local students. (Figure 1a and 1b) The practical work related to chemistry of some routine rituals followed by the villagers was done by the only student pursuing Master's degree in Chemistry. Close relationship of the researcher with the inhabitants, a decade long (2014-24) visits and revisits to the village, daily trekking in different seasons to their grasslands ('Ghaasni'), stepwells ('Bowari'), mines ('khadaan') and photography by villagers and researcher increased the possibility of making keen observations of the activities and dive into the psyche of the inhabitants while following their traditional knowledge for past 100 years.

Results and Discussions:

1. Indigenous Traditional Knowledge - Meaning and Concept:

There are a number of ways in which the term Indigenous Traditional Knowledge has been defined and interpreted. Indigenous traditional knowledge is distinct from western knowledge and is the knowledge of communities who have a historical continuity possessing distinct language, cultural practices and relationships. They follow an old tradition of transmitting knowledge, beliefs, traits and stories from one generation to next through spoken words and hands on training rather than written documentation. Elders play a crucial role in teaching the younger generations about sustainable healthy practices and how to take environmental cues for most of the agricultural practices. These traditional knowledge systems are dynamic where communities constantly adapt their practices to new environmental challenges. According to UNESCO's program LINKS (Local and Indigenous Knowledge System) "Local and indigenous knowledge refers to the understandings, skills and philosophies developed by societies with long histories of interaction with their natural surroundings. For rural and indigenous peoples, local knowledge informs decision-making about fundamental aspects of day-to-day life." (https://en.unesco.org/links.) The present study has considered this definition of traditional knowledge.

Villagers' Perspective:

- Age group 18-39 years: 91% villagers of this age group who responded through online google form opine that knowledge orally gained from their ancestors is Traditional Knowledge. (Fig. 2)

This publication is licensed under Creative Commons Attribution CC BY.

- Age group 40-80 years: The village women and men folk in this age group who are the real custodians of this knowledge opine the 100-year-old rituals traditions ('Reet') of their ancestors being followed in daily routine is traditional knowledge. For them traditional knowledge is not a formal knowledge but the skills and practices which they use in daily lives and with the help of which they sustain their livelihoods without harming the environment. They see themselves as the custodians of this knowledge responsible for its preservation and transmission to future generations. They view traditional knowledge as superior to modern methods specially if the modern methods are damaging their environment.

2. Indigenous practice of using natural water resource:

Water, aptly called "The elixir of life" by Dr C.V Raman, is the most precious natural resource and true medicine in our hands. The rural folk in India believe and follow the dictum "There is nectar in water; there is medicine in water" (Rigveda 1.23.19)

Villager's perspective:

- Age group 18-39 years: According to the present study, it is found that 20% of the villagers in the age group 18-39 years believe that the bowari (stepwell) water is naturally filtered water with essential chemical elements and 74% believe in the healing power of stepwell water and 6% consider it a sacred practice. (Figure 3)

- Age group 40-80 years: The village women and men folk in this age group see stepwells as an integral part of their heritage. Some stepwells are more than a century old (Figure 3a and 3b) and these stepwells in their view provide not only drinkable water but also alleviates ailments like indigestion or skin rash. For the elderly folk some of these stepwells (Figure 3c) have been a gathering place where all villagers come, share their stories, exchange news, foster a sense of community and strengthening social bonds.

Chemistry of Stepwell Water:

Water is the most essential fluid in all living organisms and in recent years alkaline water therapy to cure many ailments is in vogue. Neutral water has a pH value 7 and alkaline water has a pH value greater than 8 on the pH scale 0-14. In recent years health benefits of such alkaline water are being corelated with the negative ORP (Oxidation reduction potential values) which gives the water its healing effect. Alkaline water can be a good free radical scavenger and has the potential to fight diseases like cancer. (Tajudin, M. H. M. Z., & Hamirudin, A. H. 2020.), (Račys, V., Kliučininkas, L., Jankūnaitė, D., & Albrektienė, R., 2010).

3. Traditional utensils

Health benefits of using traditional utensils for cooking and serving food have been very aptly understood by our ancestors and still recognised and followed religiously in rural India. The use of utensils made of stone, iron and bronze is rooted in our ancient practices and still followed by many villagers with same sanctity and purity. These traditional utensils not only preserve the health of an individual but also support sustainable lifestyle.

Villagers' Perspective:

Age group 18-39 years

A survey of the village folk in the age group 18-40 years clearly shows 26.7% relate the regular use of traditional utensils in cooking and serving food as their rich heritage which boosts their immunity, 33.3% consider it a good tradition which helps them stay connected with their roots and 13.3% are aware of the essential nutrients for our body like copper, iron can be obtained from them. (Figure 4)

Age group 40-80 years:

Men and women folk in this age group equally and patiently participate in cooking fresh food for their children. According to men folk the traditional stone utensils help retain nutrients through slow cooking, iron utensils boost iron intake specially while cooking green vegetables and bronze utensils aid in digestion. The group interview with the older women folk showed that today also the villagers prefer to cook in ancient cooking vessels like brass pots with a thick base ('Tokani/Charoti'), special stone vessel having small digged holes ('Ashkaali') (Figure 4a), iron vessels ('Tai') (Figure 4b).) Having routine food in bronze pans (Figure 4c), manual churning of cream using wooden churner ('Madhaani') (Figure 4d) and storing drinking water in brass pot ('garwee') (Figure 4f) is a regular feature. The traditional food like "Pataande" are made from milk, ghee, shakkar and wheat flour after fermentation with baking powder is used. Luske are made from wheat, rice flour with little baking powder. 'Ashakalu' is made from rice flour in a special stone pan, having small digged holes called 'Ashakali' (Sharma Chetana, Sharma Anurag ,2020)

According to 92 years old woman "amma" the use of traditional utensils which has been passed down through generations, has helped in developing a connection with the cultural roots; which in the long run has positively impacted mental and emotional well-being of the villagers.

Chemistry of traditional utensils:

The traditional kitchen utensils used daily by the villagers for cooking and serving food provide the essential macro and micronutrients to the people of all ages and helps them improve their immunity.

1. Copper

This publication is licensed under Creative Commons Attribution CC BY.

$$Cu(solid) + 2\,H_2O \;\rightarrow\; Cu^{2+} + 2OH^{-}(aqueous) + H_2(gas)$$

In this reaction the copper ions Cu2+(aqueous) are formed and these when present in water have a therapeutic value.

2. Iron: Fe (III) compounds do not dissolve well in water due to the formation of Fe (III)-hydroxy or oxy polymeric structures, which have a low solubility. Fe (II) salts are generally more soluble in water environments and therefore present a greater bioavailability. (Jomova, K., Makova, M., Alomar, S. Y., Alwasel, S. H., Nepovimova, E., Kuca, K., ... & Valko, M. ,2022)
3. The cooking pan iron is in non-heme form which is not absorbed so well but studies show that Vitamin C can increase this absorption and helps in combating anaemia. Vitamin C as ascorbate ion enhances Transferrin-dependent iron uptake by an intracellular reductive mechanism, strongly suggesting that it can act to stimulate iron mobilization from the endosome into the cell. The ability of ascorbate to regulate iron uptake could help explain the metabolic defect that contributes to Vitamin C -deficiency induced anaemia. (Darius J.R. Lanen, Des R. Richardsonn ,2014)
4. Bronze pans made up of 88% copper and 12% tin are brittle, oxidize easily, retains heat and have antioxidant property.

4. Traditional Knowledge and Medicinal Plants:

The mid Himalayan region covering countries like Nepal, Bhutan, India is known for its rich biodiversity and is a home to vast array of medicinal plants. The indigenous people living in these areas use these plants in the form of decoctions, powders, pastes for various health related issues. These people have developed a deep understanding of the flora through oral traditions and hand on practices. Their knowledge ranges from correct identification of the plant, harvesting techniques, various preparation methods like boiling, sun drying, fermenting, grinding. Almost every village in this region has a traditional healer Vaidya, who has the knowledge of application and dosage of the herb in accurate amounts and with precision foreach and every individual ailment. There is a rich heritage of indigenous medicinal plants in mid Himalayan region of Himachal Pradesh (Verma, S., & Chauhan, N. S.,2007).) and the plants specifically found in the Solan forest division are Acryanthes, Asparagus, Bauhinia, Monstera which are being used as a medicine by the rural people of this area. (Pal, D. K., Dutt, B., Dhiman, R., & Attri, V. ,2020).

Villagers' Perspective:

Age group 18-39 years:

In the age group 18-39 years, 22% of the men rely only on the traditional medicines and they have inherited the art of making ayurvedic decoction from these medicinal plants. Though no written documentation is available but they claim to have learnt this art from their ancestors through oral method and hands on training. Women also actively participate in collecting the herbs from the forest area.65.4 % of the village folk in this age group have started opting for allopathic medicines in addition to medicine. Only 7% of the men and women prefer homeopathic medicines to cure their ailments. (Figure 5).

Age group 40-80 years:

Men in age group 40-80 years show great interest in talking about the use of plants like 'Shatavar' (Asparagus species) (Figure 5a) for immunity and strength, 'Hadjod' (Cissus species) for arthritis and bone problems, 'Timur' (Zanthoxylum species) (Figure 5b) 'Puthkanda' (Acryanthes species) for gum problems, use of 'Giloy' (Tinospora) (Figure 5c) for fever, 'Guar patha' (Aloe vera) (Figure 5d) for skin diseases. Some of the villagers are aware of the health benefits of peacock feather dust ('Mayur bhasm') but they use fallen feather for migraine and tingling in the legs. (Joseph, A. N. T.,1990)

Chemistry of medicinal plants:

Medicinal compounds contain a number of chemical compounds called phytochemicals which impart therapeutic value to the plant. Most of the medicinal plants that are used for healthcare by the villagers in India contain chemicals like flavonoid, tannins, alkaloids, glycosides, carbohydrates as found by researchers in root powder of Asparagus spp (Wani, J. A., Achur, R. N., & Nema, R. K., 2011).and alcoholic root extracts of Acryanthes spp showed antimicrobial activity (Saravanan, P., Ramasamy, V., & Shivakumar, T., 2010) due to presence of bioactive compounds. Such active chemical species are extracted by the villagers as decoction/paste by using their traditional knowledge. These bioactive compounds are organic compounds and are extracted from the plants by mainly solvent extraction, precipitation and distillation.

There are similar traditional methods for extraction of the active compound. Some such methods being used by the villagers of the village under study are:

1. Maceration: The specific plant part is first selected washed, dried freed from contaminants. It is then crushed and grinded using a natural wooden stick which itself has medicinal properties. The crushed material is then soaked in a suitable solvent like mustard oil or pure ghee or water and placed in a sealed non-reactive container. The container is placed in a cool dark place to protect light sensitive compounds for a definite time period which is about 48 hours for water-based extractions and 2 weeks for oil-based extractions. Shaking of the container is done once in 12 hours for effective extraction. In the last step filtration is done with a clean cheese cloth. The filtrate is then stored in air tight jar and use can be used for required purpose.
2. Infusion: This process is used mainly for extraction of bioactive compounds from fresh soft leaves of the herb. Fresh leaves are collected, washed and then slightly crushed for easy release of the compound. Water is then boiled and slightly cooled to 80^0C and crushed leaves added to it so that the leaves are fully submerged. The container is covered with a lid and leaves allowed to steep for half an hour. After steeping the liquid is filtered with affine cheese cloth, leaves are squeezed. Allow the filtrate to cool and store in a dark coloured bottle in a cool place. The infusion has a shelf life of 2-3 days.

3. Decoction: This method is used by the villagers to extract bioactive compounds from tough plant parts like roots and bark. The selected plant part is washed and crushed. It is then added to cold water taken in a nonreactive pot and then boiled first on high flame and then allowed to simmer for one hour. During simmering enough water level should be maintained in the pot so that the plant material is submerged properly. Continue simmering till the volume is reduced to half. Cool and filter the contents. The filtrate is then stored in a nonreactive container preferably glass. The tough plant parts can be reused to make the decoction as and when required. The villagers prepare decoction of ginger root for use as pain reliever.
4. Percolation: The plant material is first washed, dried and then ground to a course material. Accurate weighing of the material is done and then it is moistened with appropriate solvent like water, oil, alcohol. It is then allowed to stand for one day. Then the material is placed in a special vessel so that solvent can easily percolate through it in a slow controlled manner. The amount of solvent used is four times the amount of plant material. Mostly the women folk do this part of the process. The solvent moves through the plant material in a slow manner extracting the bioactive compound. The liquid is filtered with cheese cloth and collected in an air tight jar for use.

5. Traditional Knowledge and Chemistry:

Traditional knowledge in villages reflects the understanding of many natural processes that have been later explained in chemical terms. The traditional methods definitely have a scientific base and these methods are still relevant in the age of advanced chemistry. From the use of cow urine in daily life for disinfection to the extraction of various bioactive compounds from plants and the use of bronze utensils all clearly show that villagers practices are deeply connected to the knowledge of chemical compounds and to processes like solvent extraction, filtration, decantation, distillation. Even without a formal scientific background all villagers have a precise and accurate understanding of these methods and chemical compounds.

Villagers' Perspective:

Age group 18-39 years:

The study shows that 93.3% of the villagers in the age group believe in the chemistry of traditional medicines, ,80% agree that cow urine is a disinfectant ,86.7% consider science to be related to indigenous traditional knowledge and 93.7 accept that traditional knowledge is related to chemistry. (Figure 6)

Age group 40-80:

Men and women in this age group might not use the terms science, chemistry, explicitly but their knowledge of the processes like use of cow dung as natural manure, use of stepwell water for skin and digestive problems, extraction of active compounds from medicinal herbs, using cow urine as disinfectant, avoiding chemical pesticides in their fields clearly indicates their connectivity with science and chemistry in particular.

Conclusion:

India is a land of villages and the rural folk are attached to their traditions and culture in a deep-rooted manner In India and specifically in Himachal Pradesh the villagers may not have formal education in science or chemistry in particular but in their daily practical life they apply practical knowledge of chemistry and their traditional knowledge with understanding of their environment contributes a lot to their healthy lives. They have developed the art of integrating their oral traditional knowledge with chemistry without any formal education and without any written documentation of their knowledge. Another important aspect of life of these villagers is that they attach immense importance to the sustainable use of their natural resources be it their forests, natural water resources or the rich fauna and flora in their areas.

Suggestions:

In Himachal Pradesh traditional knowledge of the tribal people has been well studied, documented and preserved (Chaman Lal, C. L., & Prasher, R. S., 2016), but certain non-tribal hamlets where the people have abundant traditional knowledge are still unrevealed. The present case study suggests documentation of local knowledge of such hamlets and concludes that the youth of this village can be motivated to opt science stream for higher studies by interlinking indigenous practices and sustainability with basic sciences (Johnson, J.T., Howitt, R., Cajete, &G. et al., 2016) and more particularly chemistry. This will help them preserve their traditional knowledge in a sustainable scientific manner.

After a decade long study of this village the researcher is of the view that the small hamlets in India and particularly in Himachal Pradesh should be given special grants for preserving their traditional knowledge in some written or digitalized format. This will act as a guide for the younger generation and help them to develop a means to connect the old traditions with new technology and promote sustainable development of their villages. A basic chemistry course for the villagers if included in the curriculum at the school level can contribute in enhancing various aspects of rural life. Sustainability in villages can be promoted in various areas like sustainable agriculture, soil health, water purification and conservation, biofuels, biogas, solar energy storage, waste management, healthier cooking and hygiene, eco-friendly constructions. The village women folk can be empowered by innovating in areas like producing local cleansing agents, natural pain killers, sustainable dyes, natural ropes from plant-based material. Collaboration of village people with govt schools, NGO's can further amplify the impact of this traditional knowledge on the overall development of the community. The indigenous knowledge of the villagers can be used for promoting economic and social well-being of the individuals besides promoting a sustainable lifestyle.

18. Investment Climate in India After Liberalisation

Dr. Pradeep Singh Tomar
Assistant Professor in Economics Government P .G. College, Paonta Sahib, Dist. Sirmour, Himachal Pradesh.

Abstract

Investment is that part of income which is used for real capital formation. Capital is the most important factor which results increase in Investment and fosters the development of an economy. Other things being equal, the higher is the rate of capital formation, the faster is the pace of economic growth. Of course, higher capital formation requires higher saving, developed banking and financial institutions and higher rate of investment. Development of a nation is possible only with the availability of adequate capital either in the form of physical capital or in the form of human capital.

Introduction

Foreign capital played an important role in the economic development of India. It includes foreign aid, commercial borrowings and foreign investment. Foreign direct investment is a key source of foreign capital for India contributing to the country's economic growth, and employment generation. FDI is a investment through equity (share, debentures), reinvested earnings, Intra-company loans with the objective of generating revenue. FDI in flows come as capital bundled with technology and skills and foster growth by increasing capital accumulation, technological change, efficiency, Improvement in balance of payment, increase in exports, increase in the overall amount of investment in the domestic economy, improved access to world market and help in release constraints on investment. It refers to movement of investible funds. If the Lender has operating control over the assets use, then investment is direct, otherwise it is portfolio or FII. Over the last three decades, foreign capital flows have emerged as key channels of global economic integration all across the world, while foreign direct investment flows have been undertaken for a long time by MNCs in the course of their overseas expansion, foreign portfolio investment representing equity debt flows have become highly visible and often dominant components of the foreign capital.

Dr. Pradeep Singh Tomar
Assistant Professor, in Economics, Govt. P. G. College, Paonta Sahib, Dist. - Sirmour, Himachal Pradesh.

Abstract

India has recorded steady growth rate despite domestic and global economic crises such as serious economic crisis in India during 1991, global economic crisis 2008-09, and pandemic Covid-19 followed by an oil price shock. Today, Indian economy is an emerging economy in the world. The rising income and savings level, investment opportunities, huge domestic consumption and younger population will ensure growth for decades to come. The main engines of growth of Indian economies are sectors such as information technology, telecommunications, ITES pharmaceuticals, banking, insurance, light engineering goods, auto components, textiles, and apparels, steel, machine tools and gems and jewelry which are likely to grow at rapid pace world over creating demand for Indian products and services.

Introduction

Structural reforms in India aim to improve the efficiency of the economy through change in policies, regulations and initiatives. India needs structural reforms to address the issues like low and jobless growth, insufficient infrastructure etc. The key areas that need reforms are labour markets, agriculture, and land acquisition, privatization of public sector enterprises, banking sector and tax reforms. Structural reforms for inclusive growth of India includes liberalization of the goods and services market and factor markets, exploration and mining of natural resources, private construction and maintenance of infrastructure, reforms of public sector enterprises and promotion of digital Infrastructure.

Objective and Methodology

The paper mainly focuses on the structural reforms required to achieve inclusive and sustainable growth in India. The study is based on a secondary study which covers books, articles, reports, newspaper and economic survey etc.

POLICY REGIME AND THE PATTERN OF GROWTH IN INDIA

Assistant Professor (Economics), Govt. College Paonta Sahib, Sirmaur, Himachal Pradesh

ABSTRACT

Every Country of the world faces some basic problems like poverty, unemployment, inequalities in income, wealth and Consumption, Low standard of living, economic backwardness and poor infrastructural facilities, to overcome of these problems, every Country choose the path of economic growth or development. Economic Growth means increase in real income and per capita income and thereby raising the standard of living and increase in social and economic welfare. Economic growth at current prices is known as nominal growth rate while at constant prices it is called real Growth rate. During the last few decades, there has been significant improvement in the GDP Growth rate in India. Over the period of time, occupational patterns in India have changed significantly. The share of primary sector in GDP has declined, while the share of Tertiary sector increased especially after the post-reform period. The share of secondary sector increases but at a slow rate. Before reforms period, secondary sector contributes more in GDP than tertiary sectors. But after new economic reforms, Tertiary sector share is higher than the secondary sector. Consumption expenditure, investment expenditure, government spending and net exports are the main components of GDP growth rate in India. Although the share of these components in GDP has declined still, they remain the main contributors in GDP Growth rates. The main obstacles in the path of economic Growth in India are unemployment, unskilled human resource, regional inequalities, Lack of infrastructure, Low rate of capital formation, high inflation and interest rate and Less participation of women in labour force in India.

Key Words: Policy, Growth Rate, Gross Domestic Product, India, Inflation

INTRODUCTION

Growth is a necessary but not sufficient condition for development as it cannot guarantee development. Economic development means increase in real output of goods and services that is sustained over a period of time, which is measured in terms of value added. It is a multi- dimensional process involving major changes in economic structures. Economic development refers to quantitative and qualitative improvement in the development variables, and requires a degree of political stability, involving mixture of public and private initiatives to increase economic potential. The main factors affecting economic development are levels of Infrastructure, Education, rate of capital formation, political stability, macroeconomic stability, labour mobility, foreign aid, natural resources and regional effects. The process of economic development requires structural change in an economy in terms of changing the sector wise share in GDP. Rapid growth of GDP is an essential requirement for achieving the objective of development as broad-based improvement in the quality of life of peoples. GDP is important to achieve the objectives of inclusiveness. If the growth process is sufficiently inclusive, it will directly helpful to raise the standard of living of people. Rapid growth generates revenues which help to finance critical programs of inclusiveness. India is on track of the fastest growing economy in the world. Nonetheless, the country is facing a global growth slowdown in an increasingly fragmented world. Policy priorities should focus on accelerating inclusive growth through comprehensive structural reforms.

CHALLENGES AND OPPORTUNITIES

Global economic uncertainties and unpredictable weather patterns, unemployment instability in growth rate pose challenges to Indian economic growth. Managing inflation and interest rates remains crucial for sustaining economic growth. Attracting investments and creating jobs will be vital for driving economic growth in India. Overall, Indian economy has demonstrated strength and resilience in the face of pandemic crises. With the right policies and Initiatives, the country is well-positioned for sustained growth.

OBJECTIVE AND METHODOLOGY

The main objective of the paper is to analyze the pattern of economic growth of India since 1950. The paper is based on secondary study which includes mainly books economic survey, government documents and reports.

Dr. Pradeep Singh Tomar
Assistant Professor in Economics, Govt. P.G. College, Paonta Sahib Distt. Sirmour, H.P.

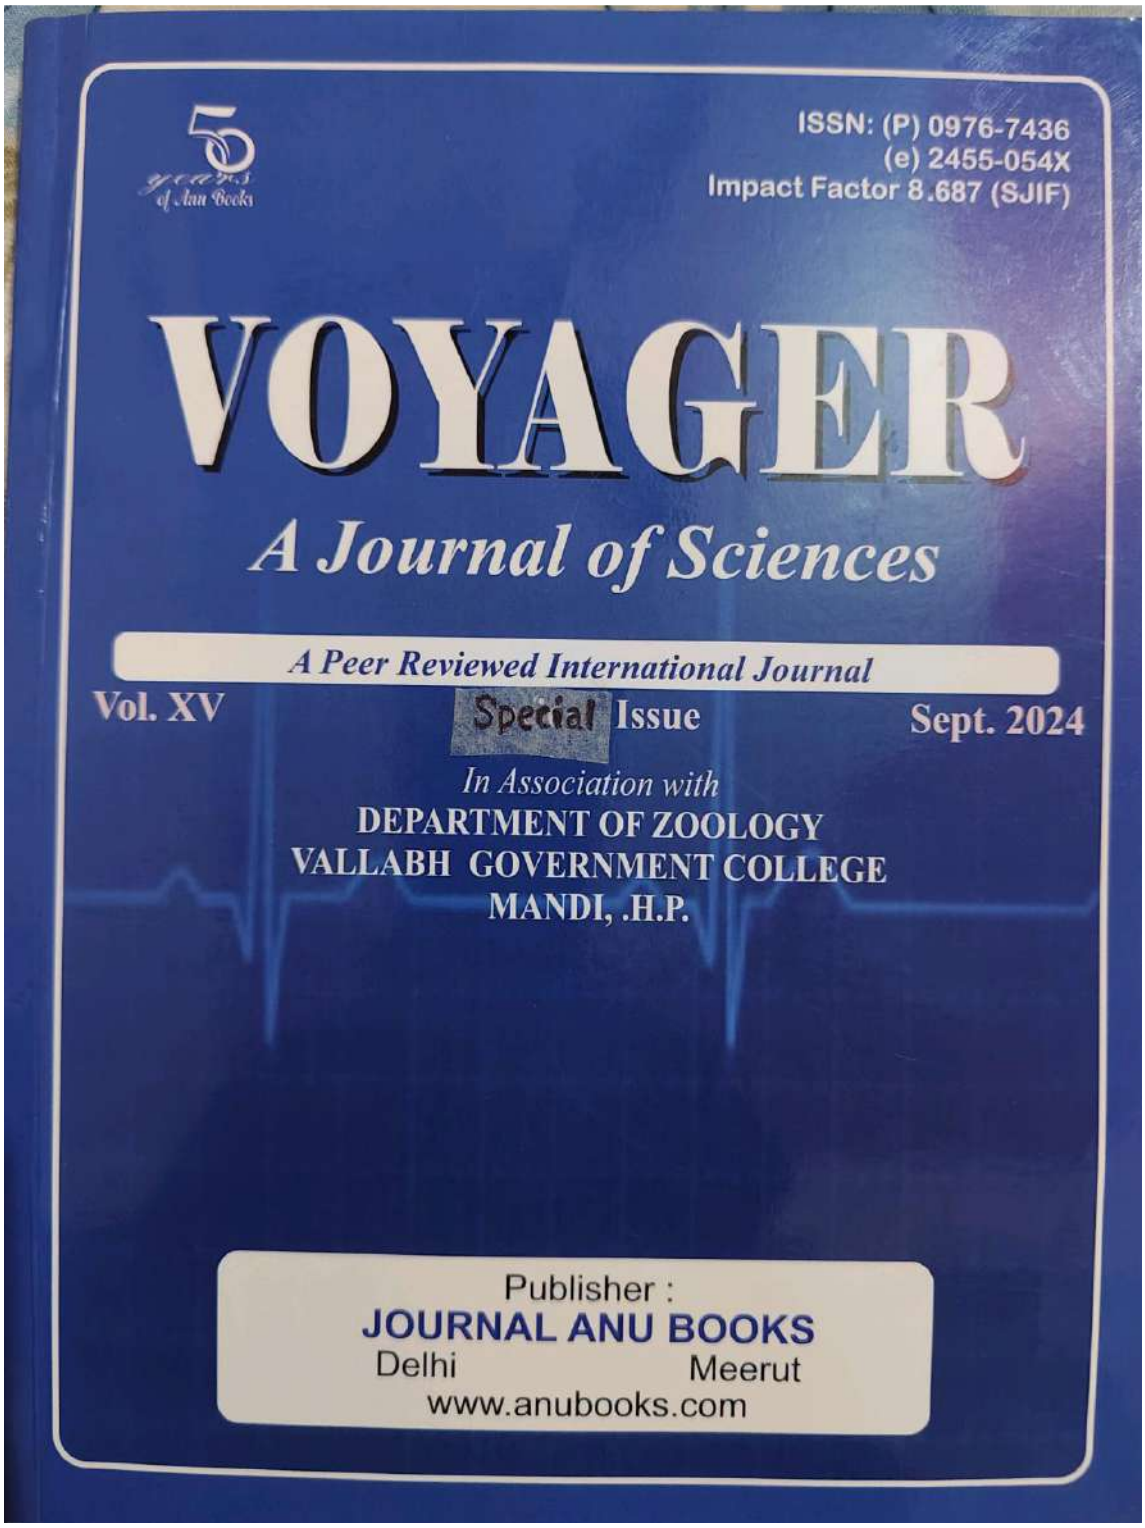

Abstract

Climate is changing day by day. During the last few decades climate change have become a serious global challenge. After 1970's the global means temperature shown sharp upward trend and human activities have contributed significantly to climate change. Change in climate poses a threat to the sustainable economic development, agricultural growth and economic welfare specially in developing countries. Climate change adversely affected demand side and supply side economics. It induced inflation on the one hand and reduces economic output, triggered uncertainty and changed the consumer behavior in recent. On the other hand, it was adversely affected our economy, Economic development, Environment, Size of population, Geographical location, Human health, Natural eco system, Food crops, food security, water resources, Livestock, fisheries, biodiversity and human well-being. Climate change is defined as a local, regional or large scale change in the long run average regime of temperature, precipitation, circulation and related variables characterising the Climate. Economic development requires large scale Growth in the Consumption of Fossil fuels natural gas being burned by industry and electric power plants, motor vehicles and households. This has resulted in huge. Carbon-dioxide (Co_2) emissions. This is the source of Greenhouse Gases which can trap. The infrared radiation from the earth within its atmosphere and create global warming. Climate change affect productive environments, including Agriculture Forestry, Energy and coastal zones. the implications of such climate changes for parerty and Gross domestic product (GPP) Could be enormous given the projected population Growth in developing countries

ABSTRACT

Medicinal plants have been used in the healthcare system since time immerorial in almost all cultures of world. In modern pharmaceutical drugs many of the active mechanisms are either directly or indirectly derived from natural products from plants. Herbal medicines are extensively employed all across the globe. The World Health Organization (WHO) states that herbal remedies are utilized by 4 billion individuals for various aspects of basic healthcare. The World Health Organization recognizes herbal remedies as a crucial element of fundamental health care, with plants representing approximately 11 percent of the 252 medicines accessible. Plants play many pharmacological roles, including antimicrobial, antifungal, antiparasitic, antiviral, antioxidant, anticancerous(Watson, 2021). The paper mainly focuses on the detailed account of important medicinal herb Taraxacum officinale Weber. It is perennial milky latex containing hairy herb. The distribution, habitat, taxonomic and morphological details, brief phytochemistry and medicinal uses of plant are provided in this research paper. This study will help in providing data on proper identification of the plant and for future research on new drug designing based on this plant and also formulations of plans for conservation of the plant as there are risks of disappearance of plant from its natural habitat due to excessive commercial harvest and local uses by the people.

Citations in Research Publications

This key indicator evaluates the citations received by faculty publications in reputable databases like Scopus, Web of Science, and PubMed. It measures the impact, visibility, and influence of institutional research on global scholarship, reflecting how often others reference these works. Citations validate research quality through peer recognition and contribute significantly to assessing scholarly metrics like average citation index and h-index.

Research Impact and Visibility

Citation counts directly gauge the reach and relevance of published papers, showing how faculty contributions shape ongoing academic discourse. Higher citations in peer-reviewed sources indicate influential findings that advance knowledge in fields like commerce and business studies. Data from the past five years ensures objective assessment of scholarly influence

Quality through Citation Metrics

Metrics such as average citation index (e.g., ≥10 for top scores) and institutional h-index highlight publication prestige in high-impact journals. These are fetched from Scopus (36,000+ journals) and Web of Science (14,000+ journals), excluding non-indexed sources for specific counts. Strong citation profiles aid funding and rankings.

Collaborative and Interdisciplinary Value

Citations often stem from collaborative papers, amplifying impact through cross-institutional networks. Validation accounts for affiliation IDs and minor data variances for fairness, emphasizing indexed sources over self-reported figures. This fosters a research culture where cited works drive policy, innovation, and commerce-specific advancements.

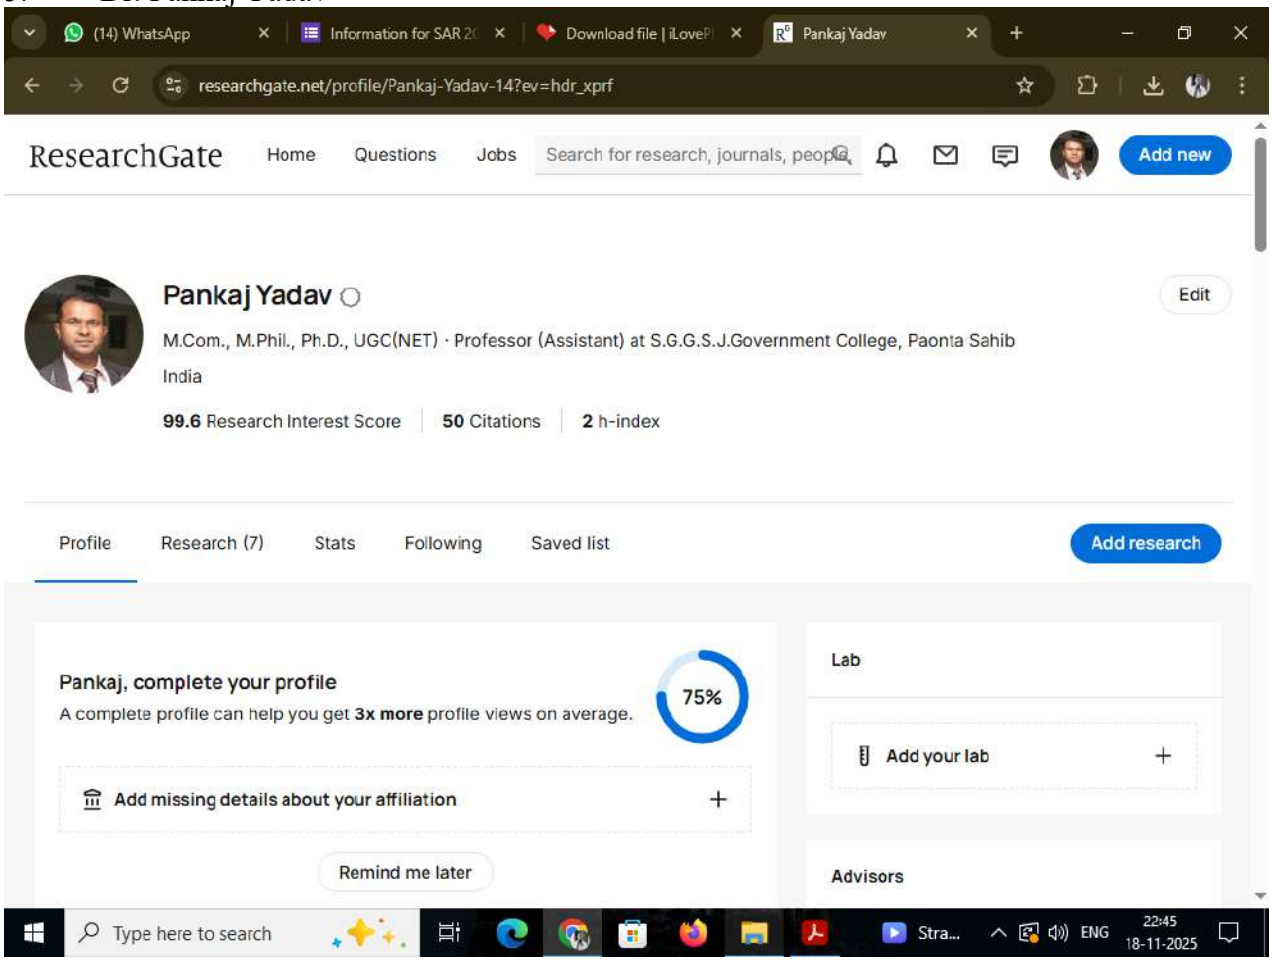

Institutional Benefits

High citations enhance reputation, attracting grants, faculty, and students focused on impactful research. They signal leadership in knowledge dissemination, bolstering global standing. Institutions excelling here demonstrate sustained scholarly excellence and real-world applicability.

5.2 Special Initiatives taken for:

(i) Energy conservation/ use of solar energy:

Energy consumption in the college has been reduced through enlightening students and staff by arranging awareness programmes about the indispensability and compulsion of energy saving besides putting stickers (Switch-off the equipment and lights when not required!) near switch boards and all concerned places. All conventional lights have been replaced by LED bulbs. Solar lights have also been installed in the college campus.

Renewable Energy

(ii) Solid Waste Segregation/ Management:

8. SOLID WASTE MANAGEMENT

As defined in the Solid Waste Management Rules, 2016

"means and includes solid or semi solid domestic waste, sanitary waste, commercial waste, institutional waste, catering and market waste and other non residential wastes, street sweeping or silt removed from the surface drain, horticultural waste, agricultural and dairy waste, treated biomedical waste excluding industrial waste, biomedical waste and e-waste, battery waste, radio-active waste generated in the area of local authorities and other entities mentioned in rule 2"

a. Objective of waste management

The main objective of the waste management system in the campus is to promote the Environment Management and Conservation in the College Campus. The purpose of the current available system is

- To identify, quantify, describe and prioritize framework of Environment Sustainability in compliance with the applicable regulations, policies and standards.
- To introduce and aware students to real concerns of environment and its sustainability
- To secure the environment and cut down the threats posed to human health by analyzing the pattern and extent of resource use on the campus,

Source: Centre for Science and Environment

8.1. Context

- To reduce waste at institute, students and staff are educated on proper waste management practices through lectures, advertisement on notice boards, displaying slogan boards in the campus.
- Waste is collected on a daily basis from various sources and is separated as dry and wet waste.
- Waste is given to Municipal Council. Two types of Waste bins are provided at campus for biodegradable and non-biodegradable waste. Horticulture waste is also given to Municipal Corporation

- Dry waste which includes plastic bottles is used to make poly-bricks, which may be used for constructing benches etc.

- Recyclable dry waste which includes plastic, glass, metal, paper etc. are either handed over to Municipal Corporation or scrap dealer for recycling.
- Single side used papers are reused for writing and printing in all departments.
- Reports/ papers/newspapers etc. are sold out to scrap vendor after completion of their preservation period.

9. LIQUID WASTE MANAGEMENT:

- The waste water from laboratory passes through concealed pipe line into soak pit & recycled water is used for the watering trees or non-potable usage.
- Chemistry labs produce chemical wastes and all the waste is collected in a treatment plant before disposing off in the soak pit.

10. BIOMEDICAL WASTE MANAGEMENT:

- Incinerator for disposal of menstrual waste, sanitary napkins is set up in girl's toilet.

11. E-WASTE MANAGEMENT

- E-wastes are generated from computer laboratories, Physics Labs, Chemistry Lab, Academic and Administrative Offices.
- The E-waste collected and at stored BCA department and disposed accordingly.
- The college has made agreement with Shivalik Solid Waste Management limited, Nalagarh (H.P.) for lifting e waste generated in the college with payment to college. College also send the information as annual return of e waste to pollution control board (Annexure I).

e-waste stored at BCA department

(iii) Rain water harvesting and its use for gardening and cleanliness:

SGGSJ GC Paonta Sahib has implemented an effective rainwater harvesting system as part of its commitment to sustainability and resource conservation. The college recognizes the importance of water as a vital resource, especially in the context of changing climatic conditions and increasing water scarcity.

The rainwater harvesting tanks installed on campus serve as a practical solution for collecting and storing rainwater during the monsoon season. This system captures runoff from rooftops and other surfaces, channeling it into storage tanks where it can be filtered and purified for various non-potable uses. By utilizing this harvested rainwater, the college significantly reduces its reliance on municipal water supply, thereby conserving water resources and minimizing the strain on local water systems.

The benefits of the rainwater harvesting system extend beyond mere water conservation. It helps in recharging groundwater levels, which is crucial for maintaining the ecological balance in the area. Additionally, the initiative raises awareness among students and staff about the importance of water conservation and sustainable practices.

Regular maintenance and monitoring of the rainwater harvesting tanks ensure their efficiency and functionality. The college plans to expand this initiative further, incorporating educational programs to engage the campus community in understanding the benefits of rainwater harvesting and encouraging responsible water use.

Overall, the rainwater harvesting tanks at SGGSJ GC Paonta Sahib exemplify the college's dedication to environmental stewardship and sustainable development, paving the way for a more resilient and resource-conscious future.

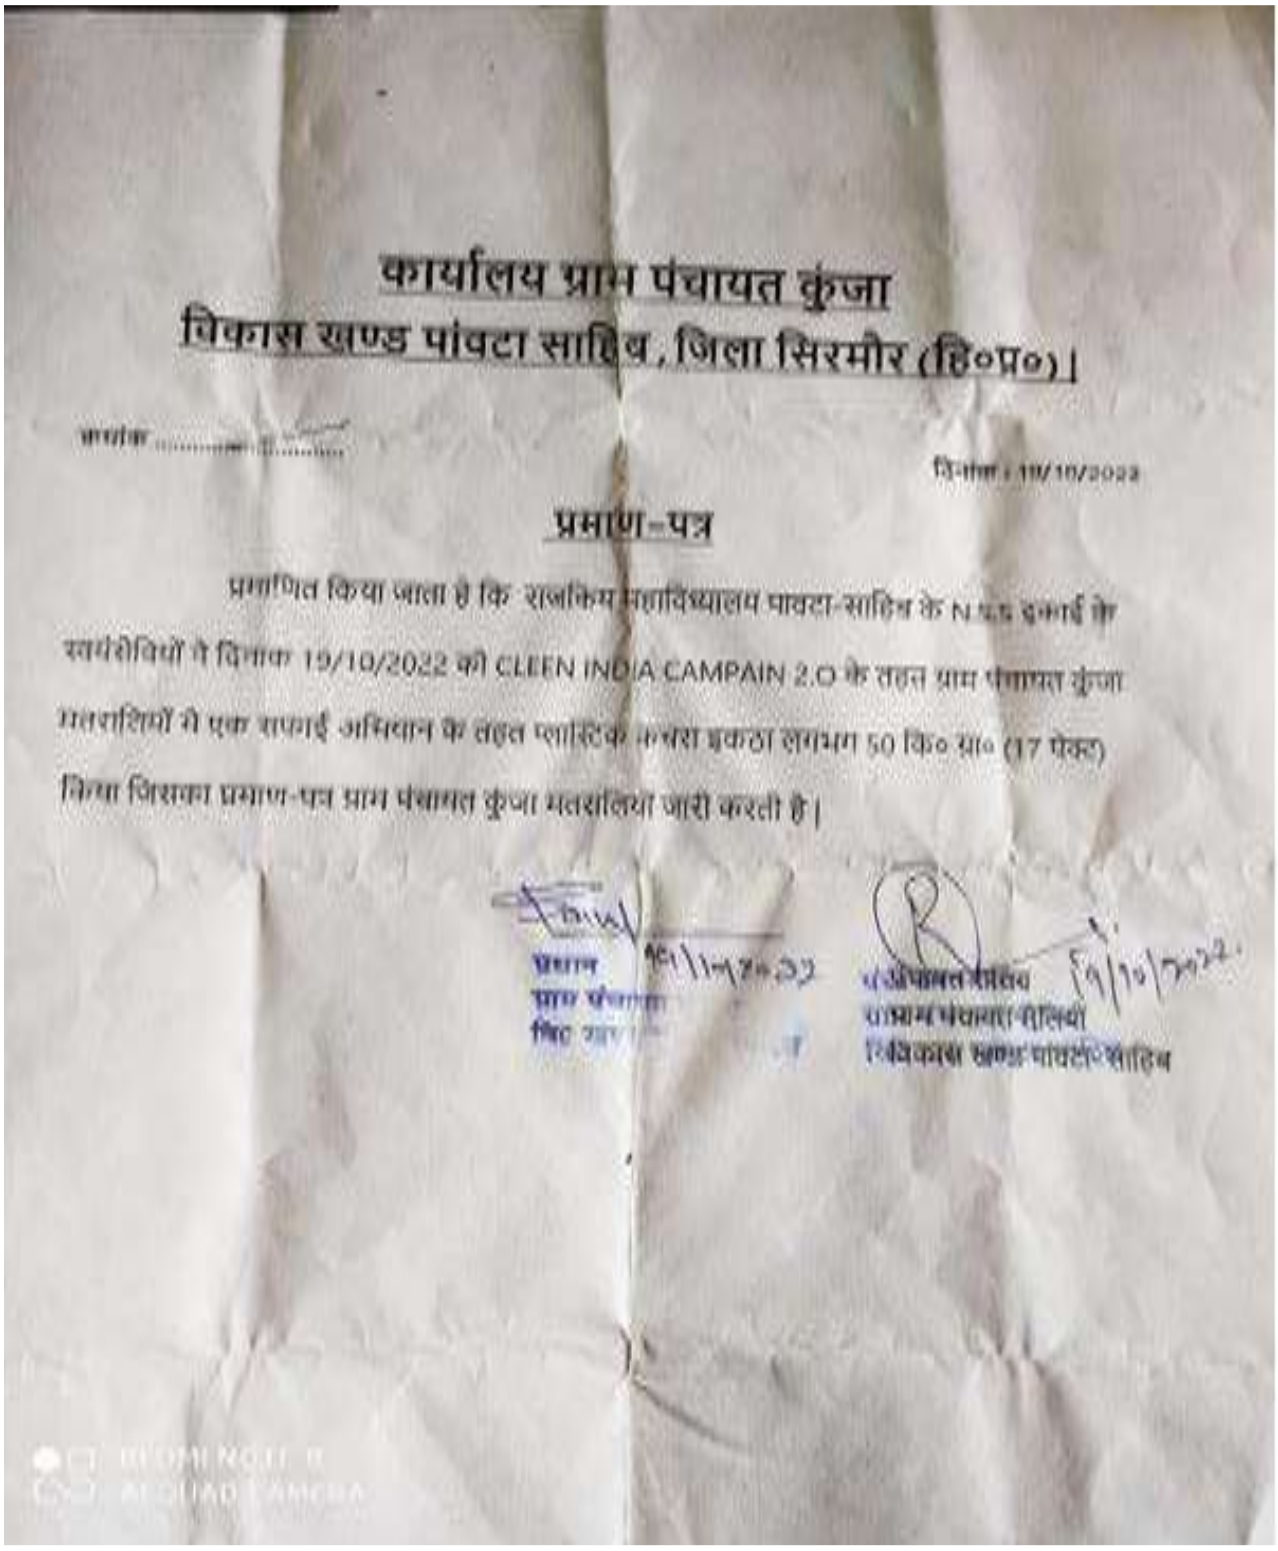

(i) Plastic Free campus:

SGGSJ Govt. College, Paonta Sahib, promotes a plastic-free campus initiative to foster environmental sustainability. By banning single-use plastics, encouraging eco-friendly alternatives, and organizing awareness drives, the college strives to reduce plastic waste, creating a cleaner and greener environment for students and staff alike.

Road Safety Club: Creating Awareness and Saving Lives

The Road Safety Club at SGGSJ Government College, Paonta Sahib, plays a pivotal role in promoting road safety and traffic awareness among students and the local community. By organizing a range of interactive and educational events such as rallies, guest lectures, poster-making competitions, and quiz contests, the club aims to foster a sense of responsibility towards road safety and reduce traffic-related accidents. These activities are designed to engage participants of all age groups and encourage them to adopt safe practices while on the road.

Road Safety Rallies

One of the most impactful activities organized by the Road Safety Club is the Road Safety Awareness Rally. These rallies are designed to reach a wide audience by taking the message of road safety directly to the streets. During the rallies, students, faculty members, and volunteers march through the main roads of Paonta Sahib, carrying banners and placards with messages promoting traffic safety. These slogans highlight the importance of wearing helmets, using seat belts, adhering to speed limits, and avoiding the use of mobile phones while driving.

In collaboration with local police authorities, these rallies serve not only to raise awareness but also to engage directly with the public. The participants interact with pedestrians, drivers, and shopkeepers, distributing informative pamphlets about road safety rules and regulations. These rallies help to create a community-wide understanding of the critical importance of safe driving practices, while also setting a positive example for other educational institutions in the area.

Guest Lectures by Traffic Experts

In order to enhance the theoretical knowledge of road safety, the Road Safety Club regularly organizes guest lectures by experts in traffic management and law enforcement. These sessions are typically conducted by officers from the local traffic police department, health professionals, and road safety activists who have years of experience in dealing with traffic-related issues.

The guest lectures cover a wide array of topics, including the common causes of road accidents, the importance of following traffic signals, the role of the government in enforcing traffic laws, and measures that individuals can take to reduce the risk of accidents. These talks often include real-life case studies and statistical data to emphasize the importance of road safety in preventing fatalities and injuries.

These sessions are highly interactive, allowing students to ask questions and gain insights into how road safety measures can be effectively implemented. The presence of local law enforcement officers also encourages students to take road safety more seriously and to follow rules in their daily lives. The discussions not only raise awareness but also help create a better understanding of the legal implications of violating traffic laws.

5.4 Innovative Initiatives:

II. Priority: Education for Rural Women – An Agent of Change

Education is one of the most powerful means of bringing about socio-economic progress among rural communities and it cannot be over-emphasized. Educated youth is capable of collectively bringing in significant changes and improving the whole community. Moreover, proper education will not just advantage the rural areas but benefit the entire economy of India. The institution believes that rural upliftment and women empowerment can be achieved through education.

"If you educate a man, you educate an individual, but if you educate a woman, you educate a family (nation)"

As an old African proverb, this maxim was initially popularised by Dr. James Emman Keyer Aggrey, a renowned Ghanaian educator and sociologist.

It bears the fundamental belief that education is beneficial to all but incorporates the notion that when women are educated, the benefits will be aggregated and magnified and enjoyed by a wider context – the family and [3] the nation.

This maxim recognized the benefits of education for women and has repeatedly become the motivation for global development efforts to offer education opportunities for women. Women's education is considered to yield enormous inter-generational gains. The institution emphatically puts into practice this maxim. A gnawing issue, discernible in the rural locality, is the hindrances encountered by the girls to pursue their higher education dreams. Economic, social, and cultural factors play a regressive role, thus impeding their academic journey.

The institution has played a pivotal role in redesigning and redefining the contours of progress in the rural areas and focuses on empowering women to bring positive outcomes in their lives.

Thrust: Women Empowerment through Skill Enhancement

The World Bank has noted that to succeed in the 21st century labour market, one needs a comprehensive skill set composed of: Cognitive skills, which encompass the ability to understand complex ideas, adapt effectively to the environment, learn from experience, and reason. Foundational literacy and numeracy as well as creativity, critical thinking, and problem-solving are cognitive skills. Socio-emotional skills, which describe the ability to navigate interpersonal and social situations effectively, and include leadership, teamwork, self-control, and grit. Technical skills, which refer to the acquired knowledge, expertise, and interactions needed to perform a specific task, including the mastery of required materials, tools, or technologies. Digital skills, which are cross-cutting and draw on all of the above skills, and describe the ability to access, manage, understand, integrate, communicate, evaluate, and create information safely and appropriately. The development of skills can contribute to structural transformation and economic growth by enhancing employability and labour productivity and helping countries to become more competitive.

The college endeavours to chisel and hone the fledglings that enrol in here and by the time they are ready to make their first flight their wings should be strong; they should soar fearlessly into the air where sky is the limit.

In order to achieve the vision, one of the thrust areas of the college is to promote skill-based education among women thereby ensuring women empowerment. The college believes that empowering women, could mitigate the inequities of denial, deprivation, and discrimination, thereby bring transformation in the society.

6. The Holistic Process The overall governance of the institution emphatically reveals the theme "Gram Mahila Aparajita:

Empowering Rural Populace with Focus on Women Empowerment and Skill Enhancement" establishing it as an institutional distinctiveness. This holistic process involves the following components:

v. Academic empowerment Quality education empowers women to acquire knowledge and promote experiential learning. The college provides the best of the facilities for academic empowerment in the form of smart classrooms, library resources including e-resources, access to computer lab, educational tours, projects etc. The college creates an ambience for women to enhance their academic intellect and develop a holistic personality by encouraging them to follow their aspirations to achieve in the areas of interest.

vi. Skill Enhancement The persistent demand for employable skills has mandated the need to offer skill-based add on courses in thrust areas with the objective to develop work ready graduate and post graduate students. Low skills perpetuate poverty and inequality. When done right, skills development can reduce un- and underemployment, increase productivity, and improve standards of living. Most of the students from rural areas and poor background, but they are not poor in talent, knowledge, and humility. So, the focus is more on enhancing the skills of the students. The academic enrichment is offered through skill-based courses under UGC Community College Scheme which adopts NSQF (National Skill Qualification Framework) and add-on certificate courses under Utkrisht Mahavidyalaya Yojna. The institution utilised the Graduate Add-on Programme of Himachal Pradesh Kaushal Vikas Nigam which aims to provide an opportunity for students to enhance their qualifications by pursuing specialised NSQF aligned course in addition to their regular academic education.

vii. Intellectual and Inspirational Empowerment The college provides a platform for women to showcase and enhance their skills, creativeness, and innovation through various curricular and co-curricular activities.

viii. The innovative approaches provide opportunities for women to develop leadership qualities and organizational skills. They form an integral part of the decision-making bodies of the college. As a tribute to the notable women of rural Himachal the college has named several infrastructural facilities after them.

• "Gambhari Devi Music Department" – after famous folk singer of Himachal Pradesh.
• "Suman Rawat Pavilion" – after famous international woman athlete from Himachal Pradesh

Cultural empowerment

The multi-cultural environment of the college encourages women to appreciate and respect the various cultures and traditions. It gives them a diverse understanding of an inter-cultural society. The college promotes inter-cultural harmony by organising and celebrating ethnicity of different regions and cultures through various competitive cultural events. It inculcates the values of tolerance and promotes secularistic principles. With the belief of academic and technical excellence, the institution also stimulates and supports the girl students to participate in various rural developmental activities.

Physical empowerment

The college reinforces the need of physical strengthening of women through sports, yoga, and meditation, NCC, NSS, and Rovers & Rangers. The women are provided with the best facility and training to excel in the arena of sports and cultural competitions. The college also promotes the well-being of women through emphasis on health, hygiene, nutritionally balanced diet, stress management and psycho-social strengthening.

Financial assistance

The college ensures that women are not deprived of quality education due to their financial constraints. Hence, the college under various government schemes and programmes provides financial support to girl students belonging to the economically weaker sections of the society.

• The college as per notification of the Government of Himachal Pradesh provides full waiver of Tuition Fees for the female Bonafide Himachal students.

• Indira Gandhi Single Girl Child Scholarship provided by UGC promotions girl education.

II. Inculcation of Values (Sarv Dharm Sadh Bhav) at SGGSJ Government College Paonta Sahib

SGGSJ Government College Paonta Sahib places great emphasis on fostering values of unity, respect, and harmony among its students. One of the college's central guiding principles is "Sarv Dharm Sadhbhav," which means goodwill and equal respect towards all religions. The college strives to create an inclusive environment where students from diverse backgrounds come together to learn, understand, and practice the values of harmony, tolerance, and mutual respect.

Several initiatives are undertaken at the college to inculcate these values, reflecting the idea of “Sarv Dharm Sadhbhav” in everyday academic life. This is achieved through religious and cultural activities, spiritual discussions, and events that highlight India's pluralistic traditions. Below are key topics and initiatives that highlight this commitment to value-based education at the institution:

A . Saraswati Worship (Veneration of Knowledge and Wisdom)

At SGGSJ Government College, the worship of Saraswati, the Hindu goddess of knowledge, wisdom, and learning, is a symbolic practice that represents the institution's dedication to education. The college celebrates Saraswati Puja during Vasant Panchami every year, marking a day devoted to the pursuit of knowledge and learning. This festival unites students and faculty, regardless of their religious affiliations, under the shared reverence for education and wisdom. Saraswati worship teaches students to respect knowledge, embrace curiosity, and uphold the values of intellectual growth, which are essential in both personal and academic life. Through this practice, students internalize the value of seeking wisdom and the humility required in lifelong learning.

B. Swami Vivekananda's Vedic Pantheistic Ideas

The teachings of Swami Vivekananda, one of India's greatest spiritual leaders, are an integral part of value education at the college. Vivekananda's interpretation of Vedic philosophy, especially his pantheistic ideas, which emphasize the divine presence in every being, resonates with the values of inclusiveness and harmony. His famous proclamation, "All religions are true," serves as a cornerstone for the concept of Sarv Dharm Sadh Bhav.

At SGGSJ Government College, seminars, workshops, and lectures are frequently organized to introduce students to Vivekananda's teachings. His message of universal brotherhood, respect for all faiths, and the pursuit of self-realization through service and compassion, helps foster a spirit of unity and respect for diversity. Vivekananda's ideas encourage students to see the common thread of humanity that binds all religions, thus promoting peaceful coexistence.

C. Sukhmani Path (Sikhism's Message of Peace and Contentment)

As Paonta Sahib is closely associated with the Sikh faith, Sukhmani Path, a sacred Sikh prayer, is an important religious and cultural practice observed at the college. The Sukhmani Path is a part of Guru Granth Sahib, the holy scripture of Sikhism, and it translates to "Prayer of Peace." This prayer is recited to bring peace and contentment to the mind and soul, emphasizing the core Sikh principles of Sewa (selfless service), compassion, and equality.

The college regularly organizes the recitation of Sukhmani Path during significant events and celebrations. This practice not only honours the spiritual heritage of the local Sikh community but also promotes values such as peace, unity, and service to others. Students, regardless of their religious background, are encouraged to participate in or observe the Sukhmani Path, allowing them to understand and appreciate the universal messages of peace and harmony embedded in Sikhism.

D . Veer Bal Diwas (Commemoration of Sikh Martyrs, 26 December)

Veer Bal Diwas, observed on December 26, is a solemn day in Sikh history that honours the martyrdom of the two younger sons of Guru Gobind Singh Ji, Sahibzadas Zorawar Singh and Fateh Singh. The college commemorates this day to pay tribute to the courage, sacrifice, and steadfastness of these young boys who chose martyrdom over conversion to Islam during the Mughal period.

The college organizes special assemblies, lectures, and discussions on Veer Bal Diwas to reflect on the values of bravery, sacrifice, and standing up for one's beliefs. Students are inspired by the story of the Sahibzadas, which teaches them the importance of resilience, moral conviction, and commitment to righteousness. By honouring this day, the college fosters a sense of pride in Sikh history while imparting universal values of justice and freedom of faith.

Sarv Dharm Sadh Bhav as a Pillar of Inclusive Education

At SGGSJ Government College Paonta Sahib, Sarv Dharm Sadh Bhav is not merely a concept, but a lived practice that permeates the institution's educational philosophy. Through a diverse range of religious and cultural activities—be it the veneration of Saraswati, the teachings of Swami Vivekananda, the reverence for Maa Yamuna, the recitation of Sukhmani Path, or the commemoration of Veer Bal Diwas—the college actively promotes values of tolerance, respect for diversity, and the unity of all faiths. These practices help students grow not only academically but also spiritually and morally, preparing them to become compassionate, inclusive, and responsible citizens of the world.

III. Adoption of River Yamuna Bank (Surya Putri - Maa Yamuna) by SGGSJ Government College Paonta Sahib

In Paonta Sahib, the presence of the River Yamuna holds significant cultural and spiritual importance. Revered as "Maa Yamuna" by the people, the river is considered a mother figure who nurtures life in the region. The college recognizes the cultural significance of the Yamuna and organizes activities that promote environmental stewardship and respect for nature, seen as an extension of the motherly qualities of Maa Yamuna.

Students are encouraged to participate in river cleaning drives, plantation programs, and awareness campaigns that highlight the importance of preserving natural resources. These activities not only teach ecological values but also in still a sense of reverence for nature, drawing from the traditional Indian view of rivers as life-giving forces. By venerating the Yamuna, students learn the value of environmental conservation and the spiritual responsibility to protect and respect nature.

In a noble initiative to preserve and nurture the environment, SGGSJ Government College Paonta Sahib undertook the adoption of the River Yamuna bank, a lifeline of North India, often referred to as "Surya Putri" or "Maa Yamuna." This project, initiated in 2021, encompasses a holistic approach to maintaining the cleanliness, sanctity, and ecological balance of the Yamuna riverbank through sustained efforts, community engagement, and environmental awareness.

Background and Rationale

The River Yamuna holds immense religious, cultural, and ecological significance in India. However, over the past few decades, pollution levels in the river have risen alarmingly due to industrial waste, domestic sewage, and plastic waste. The stretch of the river that flows through Paonta Sahib is relatively cleaner but still faces challenges due to local human activities. SGGSJ Government College, located in this town, recognized the need to take concrete steps in addressing the environmental degradation along the Yamuna and launched a series of sustained interventions, focusing on plantation, cleanliness drives, weeding activities, lighting of lamps in a pantheistic spirit, and creating awareness among the community.

The initiative took shape in close collaboration with the local administration, which provided support in terms of resources, logistics, and permissions. The college's efforts have become a model for other educational institutions to follow, demonstrating how consistent community participation can make a tangible difference to the environment.

Plantation Drives: A Green Effort

One of the core activities of the adoption initiative was the plantation of trees along the riverbank. The college organized large-scale plantation drives annually, with students, faculty, and volunteers from the community enthusiastically participating. The plantation drives were aimed not only at beautifying the riverbank but also at enhancing the ecological health of the area by planting species that help in preventing soil erosion and improving air quality.

In 2021, the plantation drive marked the beginning of the adoption project, with over 500 saplings of indigenous species like neem, peepal, and banyan being planted. These species were chosen for their environmental benefits, including their ability to absorb pollutants, provide shade, and enhance biodiversity.

The plantation continued in the following years, with the college planting additional saplings in 2022 and 2023, expanding the green cover along the Yamuna bank. Special emphasis was laid on nurturing the saplings to ensure their survival, with volunteers regularly watering and caring for the young plants. By 2023, the once barren stretches of the riverbank had transformed into a thriving green corridor, symbolizing hope and renewal.

Cleanliness Drives: Restoring the Sanctity of Maa Yamuna

Another significant aspect of the project was the regular cleanliness drives organized by the college. Yamuna, like many rivers in India, faces the challenge of pollution from plastic waste, domestic garbage, and other pollutants. SGGSJ Government College made it a mission to clean the riverbank and prevent further pollution through consistent efforts.

The first major cleanliness drive was conducted in early 2021, when students, faculty, and local residents came together to remove plastic waste, debris, and other pollutants from the riverbank. The sight of students wading through the water to collect plastic bottles, wrappers, and other trash became a regular feature in Paonta Sahib, inspiring others in the community to join the cause.

These cleanliness drives were not just one-time events; they became a regular occurrence, with the college organizing them every few months in collaboration with local NGOs and the municipal authorities. In 2022 and 2023, the efforts intensified, with the involvement of a greater number of volunteers, including schoolchildren, government officials, and local residents. Together, they ensured that the riverbank remained free of litter and pollutants, restoring the sanctity of Maa Yamuna.

Weeding Activities: Protecting the River Ecosystem

Weeding, though often overlooked, played a crucial role in maintaining the health of the riverbank. Invasive plant species, which tend to grow rapidly along the banks, can choke the natural vegetation and disrupt the ecological balance of the area. SGGSJ Government College undertook regular weeding activities as part of its adoption program to ensure that the native plant species could thrive without competition from invasive species.

In 2021, the college began its weeding initiative by identifying and removing invasive species like lantana and water hyacinth from the riverbank. This helped in promoting the growth of the saplings planted during the plantation drives and allowed native plants to establish themselves along the bank.

The weeding activities continued in the subsequent years, with the college organizing regular weeding sessions in 2022 and 2023. Volunteers from the college and the local community worked together to clear the riverbank of invasive plants, ensuring that the ecosystem of the river remained balanced and healthy.

Lamp Lighting and Pantheism: Celebrating Nature's Spirit

In addition to the practical aspects of environmental preservation, the college also incorporated cultural and spiritual elements into its efforts. Every year, on significant religious and cultural occasions, the college organized lamp lighting ceremonies along the riverbank, symbolizing the reverence for Maa Yamuna and the interconnectedness of all life forms.

These ceremonies, held in the evenings, saw students, faculty, and community members lighting oil lamps and placing them along the riverbank, creating a serene and beautiful sight. The act of lighting lamps was not merely a religious or cultural ritual but also a symbolic gesture of gratitude towards nature. It was a reminder of the pantheistic belief that divinity resides in every element of nature, including the river, the trees, and the earth.

The lamp lighting ceremonies were held in 2021, 2022, and 2023, and became an integral part of the adoption initiative, reinforcing the idea that environmental preservation is not just a duty but a sacred responsibility.

Awareness Drives: Engaging the Community

The success of the adoption initiative lay in its ability to engage the local community and raise awareness about the importance of preserving the Yamuna. SGGSJ Government College Paonta Sahib conducted a series of awareness drives aimed at educating people about the environmental challenges facing the river and encouraging them to participate in its preservation.

In 2021, the college organized its first awareness drive, involving students and faculty visiting local schools, markets, and residential areas to distribute pamphlets and engage with residents about the importance of keeping the river clean. The college also used social media platforms to reach a wider audience, posting regular updates about their activities and encouraging others to join the cause.

In 2022 and 2023, the college intensified its awareness efforts, organizing rallies, seminars, and workshops on environmental conservation. Experts from environmental organizations were invited to speak at these events, providing insights into the challenges facing the Yamuna and suggesting ways in which the community could contribute to its preservation.

The awareness drives not only educated the community but also instilled a sense of ownership among the residents of Paonta Sahib, motivating them to take action in preserving their local environment.

Support from Local Administration

The success of the adoption initiative would not have been possible without the support of the local administration. The municipal authorities, along with the local police and environmental agencies, provided logistical support for the cleanliness drives, plantation activities, and awareness campaigns.

They ensured that the college had the necessary resources and permissions to carry out its activities effectively.

In return, the college's efforts helped reduce the burden on the local administration in terms of maintaining the cleanliness of the riverbank, creating a sustainable model of community-led environmental stewardship.

The adoption of the Yamuna riverbank by SGGSJ Government College Paonta Sahib is a shining example of how educational institutions can play a vital role in environmental conservation. Through consistent efforts in plantation, cleanliness, weeding, lamp lighting, and awareness drives, the college has not only helped restore the ecological balance of the riverbank but also fostered a deeper connection between the community and nature.

The Chemigreen Club provides students with a platform to enhance their personalities and skills by organizing and participating in various activities such as Chemistry Week, Ozone Day, and National Science Day celebrations. These events offer students the opportunity toengage with contemporary environmental issues and showcase their commitment to greener chemistry.

One of the club's unique features is its executive body, which offers leadership roles to outstanding students. Each year, based on their performance, students are appointed to key positions such as President, Vice President, General Secretary, and Joint Secretary. Additionally, several specialized squads have been created, such as the Technical Squad, Library Squad, Plantation Squad, Discipline Squad, and Cultural Squad. Each squad is led by a student squad leader, supported by other members.

Reconstitution of the club is an annual process, ensuring that deserving students, based on their dedication and contributions, are given opportunities to lead and further their skills. The Chemigreen Club, with its innovative structure and green chemistry mission, is not only helping students develop academically but also grooming them into responsible, environmentally sensitive scientists. This initiative by Professor Joshi is a significant contribution towards merging scientific education with environmental stewardship.

5.5 Collaboration of SGGSJ Government College Paonta Sahib with Academic, Industrial, and Research Institutions

SGGSJ Government College Paonta Sahib, a premier educational institution in Himachal Pradesh, actively engages in collaborations with various academic bodies, industries, and research institutes to enhance the educational experience of its students and promote holistic development. These partnerships are vital in bridging the gap between theoretical knowledge and practical applications, aligning with the institution's vision of fostering academic excellence and employability.

In the academic sphere, the college collaborates with neighbouring institutions, including its cluster colleges—Government College Nahan and Government College Kaffota. These academic linkages facilitate joint seminars, workshops, student exchange programs, and faculty development initiatives. The college also maintains ties with universities to enable access to advanced research, updated curricula, and emerging educational trends, preparing students for competitive exams and higher studies.

The institution has also fostered strong ties with industries in Paonta Sahib and nearby regions. Industrial collaborations aim to provide students with internships, vocational training, and exposure to real-world work environments. These interactions enable students to develop the skills and knowledge required in today's job market, particularly in areas like pharmaceuticals, manufacturing, and other local industries. Regular industrial visits and guest lectures by professionals keep students informed of industry standards and practices.

In research, the college encourages faculty and students to engage in collaborative projects with reputed research institutions. By participating in research-driven initiatives and contributing to conferences and publications, the college fosters a culture of innovation and inquiry. These partnerships expand the scope for scientific research, funding opportunities, and development projects.

In summary, SGGSJ Government College Paonta Sahib's collaboration with academic, industrial, and research entities fosters a dynamic learning environment that equips students with the skills necessary for academic and professional success.

6.2 Teachers as Research Guide

A key strength of the institute lies in the active and consistent engagement of its faculty members as research guides, a role pivotal to the academic growth and intellectual development of students. Drawing on their extensive expertise, faculty provide personalized mentorship, guiding students through complex research methodologies, critical thinking, and innovative problem-solving. Beyond supervision, they cultivate a collaborative environment that encourages students to explore new ideas, challenge existing paradigms, and contribute meaningfully to their fields. This mentorship elevates the quality of student projects, ensuring alignment with high academic standards and emerging research trends. It also fosters a culture of inquiry and intellectual curiosity, equipping students with skills essential for success in both academia and industry. Moreover, faculty support in securing resources, funding, and exposure to academic networks further enriches students' learning experiences and enhances the visibility of the institute's research contributions.

Furthermore, the institute's strong focus on research mentorship significantly enhances its reputation as a hub of innovation and academic excellence. By involving students in high-impact research and fostering interdisciplinary collaboration, the faculty not only advance students' professional growth but also amplify the institution's contributions to societal progress through meaningful research. This dynamic interplay between faculty guidance and student inquiry reinforces the institute's commitment to cultivating competent, forward-thinking graduates who are well-equipped to tackle real-world challenges and make substantial contributions to their fields.

In this way, the active involvement of teachers as research guides serves as a cornerstone of the institute's academic vision, positioning it as a leader in nurturing creativity, innovation, and research excellence. Their guidance not only strengthens the research culture on campus but also aligns with the institute's broader mission of producing graduates who are not only technically skilled but also intellectually agile, capable of adapting and excelling in an increasingly dynamic global landscape.

6.3 Number of Orientation Programmes, Refresher Programmes, Faculty development Programmes and Workshops of one or more weeks attended by teachers (in last 3 years)

The institute places a strong emphasis on continuous professional development for its faculty, as evidenced by the significant number of Orientation Programmes, Refresher Programmes, Faculty Development Programmes, and workshops attended by teachers over the past three years. These initiatives equip the faculty with the latest pedagogical techniques and research skills, ensuring that they stay updated with the evolving trends in their respective fields. This commitment to faculty development directly contributes to enhancing the overall quality of education at the institute.

Here's a breakdown of each of the programs:

1. Orientation Programs

These are introductory programs primarily designed for newly recruited faculty members. Orientation Programmes aim to familiarize teachers with the teaching methodologies, institutional policies, ethical practices, and administrative duties they are expected to follow. They help new educators transition smoothly into their roles and equip them with the necessary skills to create effective learning environments. The focus is often on pedagogy, communication skills, and understanding student psychology. Additionally, these programs help new faculty members develop a deeper understanding of the educational system and their responsibilities as educators.

3. Faculty Development Programmes (FDPs)

FDPs are structured programs designed to enhance the overall professional capabilities of teachers. These programs typically cover a broad spectrum of topics, including research methodologies, leadership skills, curriculum development, digital learning tools, and soft skills such as communication and team-building. FDPs focus on holistic development, helping faculty members improve both their teaching effectiveness and their research acumen. The goal is to empower educators with the tools they need to make teaching more student-centric, innovative, and interactive, while also fostering a research-oriented mindset. FDPs often involve hands-on training, workshops, and case studies to make learning practical and impactful.

4. Workshops

Workshops are short-term, intensive training sessions focused on a specific topic or skill set. They are highly interactive, involving hands-on activities, discussions, and collaborative problem-solving. Workshops may cover areas such as new technologies in education, assessment techniques, research tools, or subject-specific innovations. They offer faculty members the opportunity to learn new skills, share experiences, and explore best practices that they can directly implement in their teaching or research. Workshops are often conducted by experts and encourage active participation, making them valuable for gaining practical insights and immediate feedback.

Each of these programs plays a critical role in ensuring that faculty members remain competent, innovative, and well-equipped to provide high-quality education. By participating in these programs, teachers are continually expanding their knowledge, adapting to new trends, and refining their teaching and research practices, all of which contribute to the institute's overall academic excellence.

6.4 Project/Patents fellowships/Association:

This key indicator focuses on the research output and intellectual contributions of the faculty, as well as their ability to attract competitive fellowships and associateships. It reflects the institute's commitment to innovation, academic excellence, and its active engagement in research activities that have real-world applications. Here's a detailed explanation of each component:

1. Projects

Projects refer to research or development initiatives undertaken by faculty members, often funded by government agencies, private organizations, or international bodies. These projects typically address pressing challenges in various fields, contribute to the generation of new knowledge, and have a direct impact on industry, society, or science. Faculty-led projects often involve students, fostering an environment of collaborative research. These projects enhance the institute's reputation for research and development, and the successful completion of such projects often leads to the publication of papers, improved institutional rankings, and the development of new technologies.

2. Patents

Patents are intellectual property rights granted to faculty members who have developed innovative products, processes, or technologies. A patent indicates that the institution is not just involved in theoretical research but is also contributing to technological advancement and the commercialization of research. The number of patents filed or granted to the institute's faculty is a key metric of innovation, reflecting their ability to turn research ideas into practical, marketable solutions. Patents also open up opportunities for industry collaboration, technology transfers, and commercialization, all of which bolster the institution's stature in the academic and industrial communities.

3. Fellowships

Fellowships are prestigious academic or research awards that faculty members receive from external organizations, based on their contributions and expertise in specific fields. These awards are often given by national or international bodies such as research councils, scientific societies, or foundations. Fellowships enable faculty members to pursue specialized research, engage in advanced training, or participate in collaborative research with other institutions. Securing fellowships demonstrates the institute's ability to attract top talent and support cutting-edge research, further enhancing its academic standing.

4. Associateships

Associateships are research or academic positions offered to faculty members by prestigious organizations or institutions. These are often collaborative roles that provide opportunities for faculty to work with leading researchers, gain access to advanced research facilities, or participate in global research projects. Associateships help in building networks and partnerships, both nationally and internationally, which not only enhance the individual faculty member’s professional development but also raise the institute’s profile as a center for collaborative research and innovation.

Overall, the presence of high-impact projects, patents, fellowships, and associateships among the faculty demonstrates a strong culture of research, innovation, and industry collaboration. These accomplishments not only add to the institute’s prestige but also contribute to the advancement of science and technology, making the institution a key player in addressing global challenges.

6.5 Number of Papers presented in Conferences/ Seminars/ Symposia (in last 3 years)

This key indicator measures the research dissemination efforts of the institute's faculty by tracking the number of academic papers they have presented at conferences, seminars, and symposia over the past three years. It reflects the institute's engagement with the broader academic community and its contribution to advancing knowledge in various fields. Here's a detailed breakdown of its importance:

4. Conferences

Conferences are large-scale gatherings of scholars, researchers, and industry professionals where faculty members present their latest research findings. Presenting papers at national and international conferences gives faculty the opportunity to share their work with peers, receive feedback, and engage in academic discussions. Conferences are platforms for intellectual exchange, where faculty can stay updated on the latest trends, build networks, and establish collaborations with researchers from other institutions.

5. Seminars

Seminars are often more focused and specialized meetings where researchers present their work to a specific audience, often related to their particular area of study. Presenting papers at seminars allows faculty to engage deeply with a niche community of researchers, providing a more interactive environment for the exchange of ideas. It also allows for in-depth discussions on specific research topics, leading to potential collaborations and deeper exploration of academic questions.

6. Symposia

Symposia are typically formal gatherings that focus on a particular theme or subject. Presenting at a symposium allows faculty to showcase their research in a specialized context and engage with other experts in the field. Symposia are often organized as part of larger conferences or as stand-alone events and are known for encouraging focused discussion on pressing research challenges or cutting-edge developments.

Presenting papers at these academic gatherings is an indicator of the faculty's active involvement in research and their contribution to the advancement of knowledge. It also showcases the institute's commitment to research excellence, as these platforms allow faculty to make their work visible, contribute to academic discourse, and stay aligned with global research trends. The consistent presentation of research papers not only enhances the faculty's academic standing but also contributes to the institution's overall reputation and ranking in the academic and research community. Additionally, it provides networking opportunities, allowing the institute to build partnerships for collaborative research and innovation.

Number of Papers presented in Conferences/ Seminars/ Symposia (in last 3 years)

This key indicator assesses the research dissemination initiatives of the institute's faculty by quantifying the academic papers presented at conferences, seminars, and symposia during the preceding three years. It underscores the institution's proactive integration with the wider academic ecosystem and its substantive contributions to knowledge enhancement across diverse disciplines.

1. Conferences

Conferences serve as expansive platforms convening scholars, researchers, and industry stakeholders, enabling faculty to unveil their latest empirical findings and theoretical advancements. Participation in national and international conferences facilitates rigorous peer review, constructive feedback, vibrant intellectual exchanges, and real-time updates on emerging trends. These events also cultivate professional networks, foster inter-institutional collaborations, and amplify the institute's visibility in the global research landscape.

2. Seminars

Seminars provide intimate, specialized venues tailored to niche research domains, where faculty present targeted papers to discerning audiences of domain experts. This format promotes highly interactive dialogues, nuanced explorations of complex methodologies, and iterative refinement of research ideas. Consequently, seminars yield potential joint ventures, refined hypotheses, and accelerated progress in specialized scholarly inquiries.

3. Symposia

Symposia represent structured, theme-centric assemblies—often embedded within larger conferences or hosted independently—that concentrate on pivotal research agendas or frontier developments. Faculty presentations at symposia position their work within contextualized discourses, engaging elite peers in substantive debates on pressing challenges. These gatherings excel in synthesizing multidisciplinary perspectives, sparking innovative solutions, and advancing field-specific paradigms.

Faculty engagement in these scholarly forums exemplifies sustained research productivity, intellectual leadership, and the institute's dedication to scholarly rigor. Such activities heighten research visibility, enrich global academic conversations, synchronize institutional efforts with cutting-edge paradigms, elevate faculty credentials, and bolster the institute's stature, rankings, and accreditations like NAAC. Moreover, they generate enduring partnerships, funding avenues, and collaborative ecosystems driving innovation and societal impact.

6.6 Seminars, Workshops, Conferences and Trainings organized by the Institution

This indicator evaluates the institution's initiative in organizing academic and professional development events such as seminars, workshops, conferences, and training programs. It highlights the institution's role as an active contributor to the academic community, showcasing its commitment to fostering knowledge exchange, research advancement, and skill development. Here's a detailed breakdown:

1. Seminars

Seminars organized by the institution are typically smaller-scale, focused sessions that bring together experts and scholars to discuss specific topics or recent developments in a particular field. These events encourage in-depth discussion and allow faculty, students, and invited speakers to engage in meaningful academic discourse. Organizing seminars positions the institution as a hub for intellectual engagement and allows it to contribute to advancing specialized knowledge.

2. Workshops

Workshops are interactive training sessions where participants acquire practical skills related to a particular area of expertise. By organizing workshops, the institution provides hands-on learning opportunities, enabling participants to deepen their practical knowledge, enhance technical skills, and apply what they've learned in their professional or academic pursuits. Workshops often focus on areas such as new technologies, research methodologies, and problem-solving techniques, making them crucial for faculty, students, and professionals alike.

3. Conferences

Chemistry of Local Indigenous Knowledge: A Case Study of Village Chawal in Solan, Himachal Pradesh

Amita Joshi

DOI: 10.29322/USRP.14.10.2024.p15405

Paper Received Date: 14th August 2024
Paper Acceptance Date: 25th September 2024
Paper Publication Date: 6th October 2024

Abstract: The impact of globalisation and increased technical know-how in the modern times has greatly eroded the Indigenous knowledge. However, in Himachal Pradesh Traditional knowledge gained from ancestors has been preserved and practised by the villagers. The present study was carried out to document the traditional know how of people of village Chawal in Solan, Himachal Pradesh. This village was purposively selected as all villagers strictly follow old traditional practices like plant-based medicines, judicious use of natural water resources etc. This decade long study was based on semi structured interview and collection of data at the household level. The findings suggest that traditional knowledge of villagers can be related to different chemical reactions. 75% villagers believe that there is a connect between chemical sciences and traditional knowledge. The present research suggests that basic chemistry of traditional knowledge and rituals must be included in the school curriculum for sustainable development.

Keywords: Indigenous knowledge, Traditional Practices, Basic Chemistry, Plant based medicines, natural water resources, sustainability.

Introduction

Indigenous traditional knowledge is basically knowledge transferred orally from one generation to next in a specified rural area and used by people in taking decisions in matters regarding agriculture, health, food, livestock management, natural resource management and many more such activities associated with daily life. (Gibji Nimachow, G. N., Joshi, R. C., & Oyi Dai, O. D. ,2011) The knowledge gained in such a manner, even though has a religious aspect to it, still has a scientific base. The indigenous people use the natural resources in a scientific manner with a hope that their future generations retain the ability and capability to meet their own needs. This is actually "sustainable development" a buzzword these days for all the nations of the world.

The traditional knowledge of different areas is now being documented by different researchers. The documentation of best practices of the indigenous traditional knowledge (Boven, K., & Morohashi, J.,2002) of different geographical zones can be helpful in promoting these practices amongst the younger generation for a greener, ecofriendly and healthier future. Local wisdom has been used by many communities in mitigating natural hazards like landslides (Marzuki, M., & Gayo, H. R. ,2022) conserving forest resources. (Gibji Nimachow, G. N., Joshi, R. C., & Oyi Dai, O. D. ,2011) (Suwarno, Nirwansyah, A. W., Sutomo, Demirdag, I., Sarjanti, E., & Bramasta, D.,2022). and critically endangered cross river gorillas of Africa (Etiendem, D. N., Hens, L., & Pereboom, Z.,2011).). Studies show that some of the faith-based beliefs and traditional rituals that are followed by a particular community have been linked with a scientific ground (Zaki, M. K., Noda, K., Ito, K., Komariah, K., Sumani, S., & Senge, M., 2020) and this linkage may prove promising in preserving the rich indigenous knowledge for future generations. The integration of traditional knowledge with science has gained increasing attention in recent years, particularly in rural communities where indigenous practices continue to play an important part in daily life.

For the rural people of hilly areas, sustainable scientific living using traditional knowledge is a common practice. The integration of indigenous knowledge with science can revitalise the local and indigenous knowledge and help the community in transferring the knowledge to next generation in a more scientific manner (Hiwasaki, L., Luna, E., & Shaw, R.,2014) and such local wisdom of one community can be adapted by other communities also. The researcher involved in this study agrees that the terms traditional knowledge, indigenous knowledge, local wisdom, indigenous technical knowledge can be studied under the umbrella term Indigenous Science (Zidny, R., Solfarina, S., Aisyah, R. S. S., & Eilks, I.,2021).). The inherent chemistry involved in most of the beliefs and rituals of the rural people provides a strong base to integrate indigenous knowledge with chemistry teaching to get better academic results in schools (Ugwu, A. N., & Diovu, C. I.,2016). and colleges and can develop an interest in the learners towards their indigenous chemical heritage (Liliana, M., & Tendamudzimu, T., 2017). The present study of a small less known hamlet in Himachal Pradesh has been done with the objective of studying indigenous traditional knowledge and practices of the villagers and to relate it to the basic chemistry involved in their daily rituals which helps them in leading a sustainable life.

The present case study focuses on a specific hilly village, exploring the wealth of traditional knowledge possessed by its inhabitants and the underlying chemistry involved in these practices. Traditional knowledge, passed down through generations, encompasses a broad spectrum of areas such as agriculture, medicine, food preservation, and healthy food habits having a base of chemical principles. The knowledge of the villagers though without the scientific terminology is deeply associated with modern chemistry.

This decade long research aims to document the chemical foundations of several key traditional practices observed in the village. The study highlights how basic chemical processes—such as fermentation, extraction, and synthesis are employed in everyday life, often leading to environmentally sustainable solutions. By examining the chemistry embedded in these local practices, this research illustrates the inherent scientific wisdom within Indian traditional knowledge systems Understanding these indigenous practices with a scientific base helps to corelate the old traditions with the modern scientific principles and emphasizes their potential for contributions in fields such as sustainable agriculture, green chemistry, and natural product research.

Objectives of the Study:

The main objectives of the study are:

1) To study the indigenous traditional knowledge of villagers and explore main areas where the villagers preferably use this knowledge.
2) To validate the deep relationship between traditional knowledge and the underlying chemistry rooted in centuries through observation and experimentation.

Description of Case Study Area:

Location: The study has been carried out in village "Chawal" located 1502 meters above sea level in Solan district of Himachal Pradesh, India. It is situated 14km away from Solan and 25 km from state capital Shimla. Deothi is the gram panchayat of this village. Village code of Chawal village is 021851 census 2011 (DH_2011_0209_PART_A_DCHB_SOLAN.pdf) The total geographical area of village is 32 hectares. It is connected with link road in the year 2022 and the nearest roadhead station is Matando on the Solan-Sabathu-Dharnapur road. From Matando, a 20-minute uphill walk amidst pine trees takes one to the village.

Population: The population as per census 2011 was 59 with 31 males and 28 females. As per this study, the population of this village is 49 out of which 22 are female and 27 are male.

Educational background: In the present generation in the age group of 18-35 only two youths have opted science stream. One female is pursuing her masters in Chemistry and the other male is pursuing Bachelor's degree in Technology. None of the adults in the age group 36 – 80 years has studied science. The researcher herself is the only adult in the village who is associated with education in govt sector. Five females married and settled outside the village have done their Bachelors in Arts around four decades back.

Traditional Knowledge: The knowledge of various medicinal herbs and their benefits have been informally and orally handed down from one generation to the next generation and no written records of the local medicines gathered from the forest area have been maintained.

Methodology:

The information from the villagers has been collected by following methods:

(i) Group interview
(ii) Semi structured interview (through google form).
(iii) Individual interview in local language by researcher and local students.

This publication is licensed under Creative Commons Attribution CC BY.

- The group interview helped a lot in getting the detailed information of the village life as used earlier by other research groups for case studies. (Gibji Nimachow, G. N., Joshi, R. C., & Oyi Dai, O. D.,2011) (Liliana, M., & Tendamudzimu, T.,2017)
- 15 villagers in the age group 18-39 years were able to fill the structured questionnaire (google form) but most of the elderly people in the age group 40-80 years actively participated in the group interviews.
- Individual interviews taken from people in age group 60-80 years in the local Pahari language were translated by the local students. (Figure 1a and 1b) The practical work related to chemistry of some routine rituals followed by the villagers was done by the only student pursuing Master's degree in Chemistry. Close relationship of the researcher with the inhabitants, a decade long (2014-24) visits and revisits to the village, daily trekking in different seasons to their grasslands ('Ghaasni'), stepwells ('Bowari'), mines ('khadaan') and photography by villagers and researcher increased the possibility of making keen observations of the activities and dive into the psyche of the inhabitants while following their traditional knowledge for past 100 years.

Results and Discussions:

1. Indigenous Traditional Knowledge - Meaning and Concept:

There are a number of ways in which the term Indigenous Traditional Knowledge has been defined and interpreted. Indigenous traditional knowledge is distinct from western knowledge and is the knowledge of communities who have a historical continuity possessing distinct language, cultural practices and relationships. They follow an old tradition of transmitting knowledge, beliefs, traits and stories from one generation to next through spoken words and hands on training rather than written documentation. Elders play a crucial role in teaching the younger generations about sustainable healthy practices and how to take environmental cues for most of the agricultural practices. These traditional knowledge systems are dynamic where communities constantly adapt their practices to new environmental challenges. According to UNESCO's program LINKS (Local and Indigenous Knowledge System) "Local and indigenous knowledge refers to the understandings, skills and philosophies developed by societies with long histories of interaction with their natural surroundings. For rural and indigenous peoples, local knowledge informs decision-making about fundamental aspects of day-to-day life." (https://en.unesco.org/links.) The present study has considered this definition of traditional knowledge.

Villagers' Perspective:

- Age group 18-39 years: 91% villagers of this age group who responded through online google form opine that knowledge orally gained from their ancestors is Traditional Knowledge. (Fig. 2)

This publication is licensed under Creative Commons Attribution CC BY.

- Age group 40-80 years: The village women and men folk in this age group who are the real custodians of this knowledge opine the 100-year-old rituals traditions ('Reet') of their ancestors being followed in daily routine is traditional knowledge. For them traditional knowledge is not a formal knowledge but the skills and practices which they use in daily lives and with the help of which they sustain their livelihoods without harming the environment. They see themselves as the custodians of this knowledge responsible for its preservation and transmission to future generations. They view traditional knowledge as superior to modern methods specially if the modern methods are damaging their environment.

2. Indigenous practice of using natural water resource:

Water, aptly called "The elixir of life" by Dr C.V Raman, is the most precious natural resource and true medicine in our hands. The rural folk in India believe and follow the dictum "There is nectar in water; there is medicine in water" (Rigveda 1.23.19)

Villager's perspective:

- Age group 18-39 years: According to the present study, it is found that 20% of the villagers in the age group 18-39 years believe that the bowari (stepwell) water is naturally filtered water with essential chemical elements and 74% believe in the healing power of stepwell water and 6% consider it a sacred practice. (Figure 3)

- Age group 40-80 years: The village women and men folk in this age group see stepwells as an integral part of their heritage. Some stepwells are more than a century old (Figure 3a and 3b) and these stepwells in their view provide not only drinkable water but also alleviates ailments like indigestion or skin rash. For the elderly folk some of these stepwells (Figure 3c) have been a gathering place where all villagers come, share their stories, exchange news, foster a sense of community and strengthening social bonds.

Chemistry of Stepwell Water:

Water is the most essential fluid in all living organisms and in recent years alkaline water therapy to cure many ailments is in vogue. Neutral water has a pH value 7 and alkaline water has a pH value greater than 8 on the pH scale 0-14. In recent years health benefits of such alkaline water are being corelated with the negative ORP (Oxidation reduction potential values) which gives the water its healing effect. Alkaline water can be a good free radical scavenger and has the potential to fight diseases like cancer. (Tajudin, M. H. M. Z., & Hamirudin, A. H. 2020.), (Račys, V., Kliučininkas, L., Jankūnaitė, D., & Albrektienė, R., 2010).

3. Traditional utensils

Health benefits of using traditional utensils for cooking and serving food have been very aptly understood by our ancestors and still recognised and followed religiously in rural India. The use of utensils made of stone, iron and bronze is rooted in our ancient practices and still followed by many villagers with same sanctity and purity. These traditional utensils not only preserve the health of an individual but also support sustainable lifestyle.

Villagers' Perspective:

Age group 18-39 years

A survey of the village folk in the age group 18-40 years clearly shows 26.7% relate the regular use of traditional utensils in cooking and serving food as their rich heritage which boosts their immunity, 33.3% consider it a good tradition which helps them stay connected with their roots and 13.3% are aware of the essential nutrients for our body like copper, iron can be obtained from them. (Figure 4)

This publication is licensed under Creative Commons Attribution CC BY.

Age group 40-80 years:

Men and women folk in this age group equally and patiently participate in cooking fresh food for their children. According to men folk the traditional stone utensils help retain nutrients through slow cooking, iron utensils boost iron intake specially while cooking green vegetables and bronze utensils aid in digestion. The group interview with the older women folk showed that today also the villagers prefer to cook in ancient cooking vessels like brass pots with a thick base ('Tokani/Charoti'), special stone vessel having small digged holes ('Ashkaali') (Figure 4a), iron vessels ('Tai') (Figure 4b).) Having routine food in bronze pans (Figure 4c), manual churning of cream using wooden churner ('Madhaani') (Figure 4d) and storing drinking water in brass pot ('garwee') (Figure 4f) is a regular feature. The traditional food like "Pataande" are made from milk, ghee, shakkar and wheat flour after fermentation with baking powder is used. Luske are made from wheat, rice flour with little baking powder. 'Ashakalu' is made from rice flour in a special stone pan, having small digged holes called 'Ashakali' (Sharma Chetana, Sharma Anurag ,2020)

According to 92 years old woman "amma" the use of traditional utensils which has been passed down through generations, has helped in developing a connection with the cultural roots; which in the long run has positively impacted mental and emotional well-being of the villagers.

Chemistry of traditional utensils:

The traditional kitchen utensils used daily by the villagers for cooking and serving food provide the essential macro and micronutrients to the people of all ages and helps them improve their immunity.

1. Copper

This publication is licensed under Creative Commons Attribution CC BY.

$$Cu(solid) + 2\,H_2O \;\rightarrow\; Cu^{2+} + 2OH^{-}(aqueous) + H_2(gas)$$

In this reaction the copper ions Cu2+(aqueous) are formed and these when present in water have a therapeutic value.

2. Iron: Fe (III) compounds do not dissolve well in water due to the formation of Fe (III)-hydroxy or oxy polymeric structures, which have a low solubility. Fe (II) salts are generally more soluble in water environments and therefore present a greater bioavailability. (Jomova, K., Makova, M., Alomar, S. Y., Alwasel, S. H., Nepovimova, E., Kuca, K., ... & Valko, M. ,2022)
3. The cooking pan iron is in non-heme form which is not absorbed so well but studies show that Vitamin C can increase this absorption and helps in combating anaemia. Vitamin C as ascorbate ion enhances Transferrin-dependent iron uptake by an intracellular reductive mechanism, strongly suggesting that it can act to stimulate iron mobilization from the endosome into the cell. The ability of ascorbate to regulate iron uptake could help explain the metabolic defect that contributes to Vitamin C -deficiency induced anaemia. (Darius J.R. Lanen, Des R. Richardsonn ,2014)
4. Bronze pans made up of 88% copper and 12% tin are brittle, oxidize easily, retains heat and have antioxidant property.

4. Traditional Knowledge and Medicinal Plants:

The mid Himalayan region covering countries like Nepal, Bhutan, India is known for its rich biodiversity and is a home to vast array of medicinal plants. The indigenous people living in these areas use these plants in the form of decoctions, powders, pastes for various health related issues. These people have developed a deep understanding of the flora through oral traditions and hand on practices. Their knowledge ranges from correct identification of the plant, harvesting techniques, various preparation methods like boiling, sun drying, fermenting, grinding. Almost every village in this region has a traditional healer Vaidya, who has the knowledge of application and dosage of the herb in accurate amounts and with precision foreach and every individual ailment. There is a rich heritage of indigenous medicinal plants in mid Himalayan region of Himachal Pradesh (Verma, S., & Chauhan, N. S.,2007).) and the plants specifically found in the Solan forest division are Acryanthes, Asparagus, Bauhinia, Monstera which are being used as a medicine by the rural people of this area. (Pal, D. K., Dutt, B., Dhiman, R., & Attri, V. ,2020).

Villagers' Perspective:

Age group 18-39 years:

In the age group 18-39 years, 22% of the men rely only on the traditional medicines and they have inherited the art of making ayurvedic decoction from these medicinal plants. Though no written documentation is available but they claim to have learnt this art from their ancestors through oral method and hands on training. Women also actively participate in collecting the herbs from the forest area.65.4 % of the village folk in this age group have started opting for allopathic medicines in addition to medicine. Only 7% of the men and women prefer homeopathic medicines to cure their ailments. (Figure 5).

Age group 40-80 years:

Men in age group 40-80 years show great interest in talking about the use of plants like 'Shatavar' (Asparagus species) (Figure 5a) for immunity and strength, 'Hadjod' (Cissus species) for arthritis and bone problems, 'Timur' (Zanthoxylum species) (Figure 5b) 'Puthkanda' (Acryanthes species) for gum problems, use of 'Giloy' (Tinospora) (Figure 5c) for fever, 'Guar patha' (Aloe vera) (Figure 5d) for skin diseases. Some of the villagers are aware of the health benefits of peacock feather dust ('Mayur bhasm') but they use fallen feather for migraine and tingling in the legs. (Joseph, A. N. T.,1990)

Chemistry of medicinal plants:

Medicinal compounds contain a number of chemical compounds called phytochemicals which impart therapeutic value to the plant. Most of the medicinal plants that are used for healthcare by the villagers in India contain chemicals like flavonoid, tannins, alkaloids, glycosides, carbohydrates as found by researchers in root powder of Asparagus spp (Wani, J. A., Achur, R. N., & Nema, R. K., 2011).and alcoholic root extracts of Acryanthes spp showed antimicrobial activity (Saravanan, P., Ramasamy, V., & Shivakumar, T., 2010) due to presence of bioactive compounds. Such active chemical species are extracted by the villagers as decoction/paste by using their traditional knowledge. These bioactive compounds are organic compounds and are extracted from the plants by mainly solvent extraction, precipitation and distillation.

There are similar traditional methods for extraction of the active compound. Some such methods being used by the villagers of the village under study are:

1. Maceration: The specific plant part is first selected washed, dried freed from contaminants. It is then crushed and grinded using a natural wooden stick which itself has medicinal properties. The crushed material is then soaked in a suitable solvent like mustard oil or pure ghee or water and placed in a sealed non-reactive container. The container is placed in a cool dark place to protect light sensitive compounds for a definite time period which is about 48 hours for water-based extractions and 2 weeks for oil-based extractions. Shaking of the container is done once in 12 hours for effective extraction. In the last step filtration is done with a clean cheese cloth. The filtrate is then stored in air tight jar and use can be used for required purpose.
2. Infusion: This process is used mainly for extraction of bioactive compounds from fresh soft leaves of the herb. Fresh leaves are collected, washed and then slightly crushed for easy release of the compound. Water is then boiled and slightly cooled to 80^0C and crushed leaves added to it so that the leaves are fully submerged. The container is covered with a lid and leaves allowed to steep for half an hour. After steeping the liquid is filtered with affine cheese cloth, leaves are squeezed. Allow the filtrate to cool and store in a dark coloured bottle in a cool place. The infusion has a shelf life of 2-3 days.

3. Decoction: This method is used by the villagers to extract bioactive compounds from tough plant parts like roots and bark. The selected plant part is washed and crushed. It is then added to cold water taken in a nonreactive pot and then boiled first on high flame and then allowed to simmer for one hour. During simmering enough water level should be maintained in the pot so that the plant material is submerged properly. Continue simmering till the volume is reduced to half. Cool and filter the contents. The filtrate is then stored in a nonreactive container preferably glass. The tough plant parts can be reused to make the decoction as and when required. The villagers prepare decoction of ginger root for use as pain reliever.
4. Percolation: The plant material is first washed, dried and then ground to a course material. Accurate weighing of the material is done and then it is moistened with appropriate solvent like water, oil, alcohol. It is then allowed to stand for one day. Then the material is placed in a special vessel so that solvent can easily percolate through it in a slow controlled manner. The amount of solvent used is four times the amount of plant material. Mostly the women folk do this part of the process. The solvent moves through the plant material in a slow manner extracting the bioactive compound. The liquid is filtered with cheese cloth and collected in an air tight jar for use.

5. Traditional Knowledge and Chemistry:

Traditional knowledge in villages reflects the understanding of many natural processes that have been later explained in chemical terms. The traditional methods definitely have a scientific base and these methods are still relevant in the age of advanced chemistry. From the use of cow urine in daily life for disinfection to the extraction of various bioactive compounds from plants and the use of bronze utensils all clearly show that villagers practices are deeply connected to the knowledge of chemical compounds and to processes like solvent extraction, filtration, decantation, distillation. Even without a formal scientific background all villagers have a precise and accurate understanding of these methods and chemical compounds.

Villagers' Perspective:

Age group 18-39 years:

The study shows that 93.3% of the villagers in the age group believe in the chemistry of traditional medicines, ,80% agree that cow urine is a disinfectant ,86.7% consider science to be related to indigenous traditional knowledge and 93.7 accept that traditional knowledge is related to chemistry. (Figure 6)

This publication is licensed under Creative Commons Attribution CC BY.

Age group 40-80:

Men and women in this age group might not use the terms science, chemistry, explicitly but their knowledge of the processes like use of cow dung as natural manure, use of stepwell water for skin and digestive problems, extraction of active compounds from medicinal herbs, using cow urine as disinfectant, avoiding chemical pesticides in their fields clearly indicates their connectivity with science and chemistry in particular.

Conclusion:

India is a land of villages and the rural folk are attached to their traditions and culture in a deep-rooted manner In India and specifically in Himachal Pradesh the villagers may not have formal education in science or chemistry in particular but in their daily practical life they apply practical knowledge of chemistry and their traditional knowledge with understanding of their environment contributes a lot to their healthy lives. They have developed the art of integrating their oral traditional knowledge with chemistry without any formal education and without any written documentation of their knowledge. Another important aspect of life of these villagers is that they attach immense importance to the sustainable use of their natural resources be it their forests, natural water resources or the rich fauna and flora in their areas.

Suggestions:

In Himachal Pradesh traditional knowledge of the tribal people has been well studied, documented and preserved (Chaman Lal, C. L., & Prasher, R. S., 2016), but certain non-tribal hamlets where the people have abundant traditional knowledge are still unrevealed. The present case study suggests documentation of local knowledge of such hamlets and concludes that the youth of this village can be motivated to opt science stream for higher studies by interlinking indigenous practices and sustainability with basic sciences (Johnson, J.T., Howitt, R., Cajete, &G. et al., 2016) and more particularly chemistry. This will help them preserve their traditional knowledge in a sustainable scientific manner.

After a decade long study of this village the researcher is of the view that the small hamlets in India and particularly in Himachal Pradesh should be given special grants for preserving their traditional knowledge in some written or digitalized format. This will act as a guide for the younger generation and help them to develop a means to connect the old traditions with new technology and promote sustainable development of their villages. A basic chemistry course for the villagers if included in the curriculum at the school level can contribute in enhancing various aspects of rural life. Sustainability in villages can be promoted in various areas like sustainable agriculture, soil health, water purification and conservation, biofuels, biogas, solar energy storage, waste management, healthier cooking and hygiene, eco-friendly constructions. The village women folk can be empowered by innovating in areas like producing local cleansing agents, natural pain killers, sustainable dyes, natural ropes from plant-based material. Collaboration of village people with govt schools, NGO's can further amplify the impact of this traditional knowledge on the overall development of the community. The indigenous knowledge of the villagers can be used for promoting economic and social well-being of the individuals besides promoting a sustainable lifestyle.

18. Investment Climate in India After Liberalisation

Dr. Pradeep Singh Tomar
Assistant Professor in Economics Government P .G. College, Paonta Sahib, Dist. Sirmour, Himachal Pradesh.

Abstract

Investment is that part of income which is used for real capital formation. Capital is the most important factor which results increase in Investment and fosters the development of an economy. Other things being equal, the higher is the rate of capital formation, the faster is the pace of economic growth. Of course, higher capital formation requires higher saving, developed banking and financial institutions and higher rate of investment. Development of a nation is possible only with the availability of adequate capital either in the form of physical capital or in the form of human capital.

Introduction

Foreign capital played an important role in the economic development of India. It includes foreign aid, commercial borrowings and foreign investment. Foreign direct investment is a key source of foreign capital for India contributing to the country's economic growth, and employment generation. FDI is a investment through equity (share, debentures), reinvested earnings, Intra-company loans with the objective of generating revenue. FDI in flows come as capital bundled with technology and skills and foster growth by increasing capital accumulation, technological change, efficiency, Improvement in balance of payment, increase in exports, increase in the overall amount of investment in the domestic economy, improved access to world market and help in release constraints on investment. It refers to movement of investible funds. If the Lender has operating control over the assets use, then investment is direct, otherwise it is portfolio or FII. Over the last three decades, foreign capital flows have emerged as key channels of global economic integration all across the world, while foreign direct investment flows have been undertaken for a long time by MNCs in the course of their overseas expansion, foreign portfolio investment representing equity debt flows have become highly visible and often dominant components of the foreign capital.

10. Structural Reforms: To Achieve Inclusive and Sustainable Growth in India

Dr. Pradeep Singh Tomar
Assistant Professor, in Economics, Govt. P. G. College, Paonta Sahib, Dist. - Sirmour, Himachal Pradesh.

Abstract

India has recorded steady growth rate despite domestic and global economic crises such as serious economic crisis in India during 1991, global economic crisis 2008-09, and pandemic Covid-19 followed by an oil price shock. Today, Indian economy is an emerging economy in the world. The rising income and savings level, investment opportunities, huge domestic consumption and younger population will ensure growth for decades to come. The main engines of growth of Indian economies are sectors such as information technology, telecommunications, ITES pharmaceuticals, banking, insurance, light engineering goods, auto components, textiles, and apparels, steel, machine tools and gems and jewelry which are likely to grow at rapid pace world over creating demand for Indian products and services.

Introduction

Structural reforms in India aim to improve the efficiency of the economy through change in policies, regulations and initiatives. India needs structural reforms to address the issues like low and jobless growth, insufficient infrastructure etc. The key areas that need reforms are labour markets, agriculture, and land acquisition, privatization of public sector enterprises, banking sector and tax reforms. Structural reforms for inclusive growth of India includes liberalization of the goods and services market and factor markets, exploration and mining of natural resources, private construction and maintenance of infrastructure, reforms of public sector enterprises and promotion of digital Infrastructure.

Objective and Methodology

The paper mainly focuses on the structural reforms required to achieve inclusive and sustainable growth in India. The study is based on a secondary study which covers books, articles, reports, newspaper and economic survey etc.

POLICY REGIME AND THE PATTERN OF GROWTH IN INDIA

DR. PRADEEP SINGH TOMAR

Assistant Professor (Economics), Govt. College Paonta Sahib, Sirmaur, Himachal Pradesh

ABSTRACT

Every Country of the world faces some basic problems like poverty, unemployment, inequalities in income, wealth and Consumption, Low standard of living, economic backwardness and poor infrastructural facilities, to overcome of these problems, every Country choose the path of economic growth or development. Economic Growth means increase in real income and per capita income and thereby raising the standard of living and increase in social and economic welfare. Economic growth at current prices is known as nominal growth rate while at constant prices it is called real Growth rate. During the last few decades, there has been significant improvement in the GDP Growth rate in India. Over the period of time, occupational patterns in India have changed significantly. The share of primary sector in GDP has declined, while the share of Tertiary sector increased especially after the post-reform period. The share of secondary sector increases but at a slow rate. Before reforms period, secondary sector contributes more in GDP than tertiary sectors. But after new economic reforms, Tertiary sector share is higher than the secondary sector. Consumption expenditure, investment expenditure, government spending and net exports are the main components of GDP growth rate in India. Although the share of these components in GDP has declined still, they remain the main contributors in GDP Growth rates. The main obstacles in the path of economic Growth in India are unemployment, unskilled human resource, regional inequalities, Lack of infrastructure, Low rate of capital formation, high inflation and interest rate and Less participation of women in labour force in India.

Key Words: Policy, Growth Rate, Gross Domestic Product, India, Inflation

INTRODUCTION

Growth is a necessary but not sufficient condition for development as it cannot guarantee development. Economic development means increase in real output of goods and services that is sustained over a period of time, which is measured in terms of value added. It is a multi- dimensional process involving major changes in economic structures. Economic development refers to quantitative and qualitative improvement in the development variables, and requires a degree of political stability, involving mixture of public and private initiatives to increase economic potential. The main factors affecting economic development are levels of Infrastructure, Education, rate of capital formation, political stability, macroeconomic stability, labour mobility, foreign aid, natural resources and regional effects. The process of economic development requires structural change in an economy in terms of changing the sector wise share in GDP. Rapid growth of GDP is an essential requirement for achieving the objective of development as broad-based improvement in the quality of life of peoples. GDP is important to achieve the objectives of inclusiveness. If the growth process is sufficiently inclusive, it will directly helpful to raise the standard of living of people. Rapid growth generates revenues which help to finance critical programs of inclusiveness. India is on track of the fastest growing economy in the world. Nonetheless, the country is facing a global growth slowdown in an increasingly fragmented world. Policy priorities should focus on accelerating inclusive growth through comprehensive structural reforms.

CHALLENGES AND OPPORTUNITIES

Global economic uncertainties and unpredictable weather patterns, unemployment instability in growth rate pose challenges to Indian economic growth. Managing inflation and interest rates remains crucial for sustaining economic growth. Attracting investments and creating jobs will be vital for driving economic growth in India. Overall, Indian economy has demonstrated strength and resilience in the face of pandemic crises. With the right policies and Initiatives, the country is well-positioned for sustained growth.

OBJECTIVE AND METHODOLOGY

The main objective of the paper is to analyze the pattern of economic growth of India since 1950. The paper is based on secondary study which includes mainly books economic survey, government documents and reports.

2. Impact of Climate Change on the Economy and Ecology

Dr. Pradeep Singh Tomar
Assistant Professor in Economics, Govt. P.G. College, Paonta Sahib Distt. Sirmour, H.P.

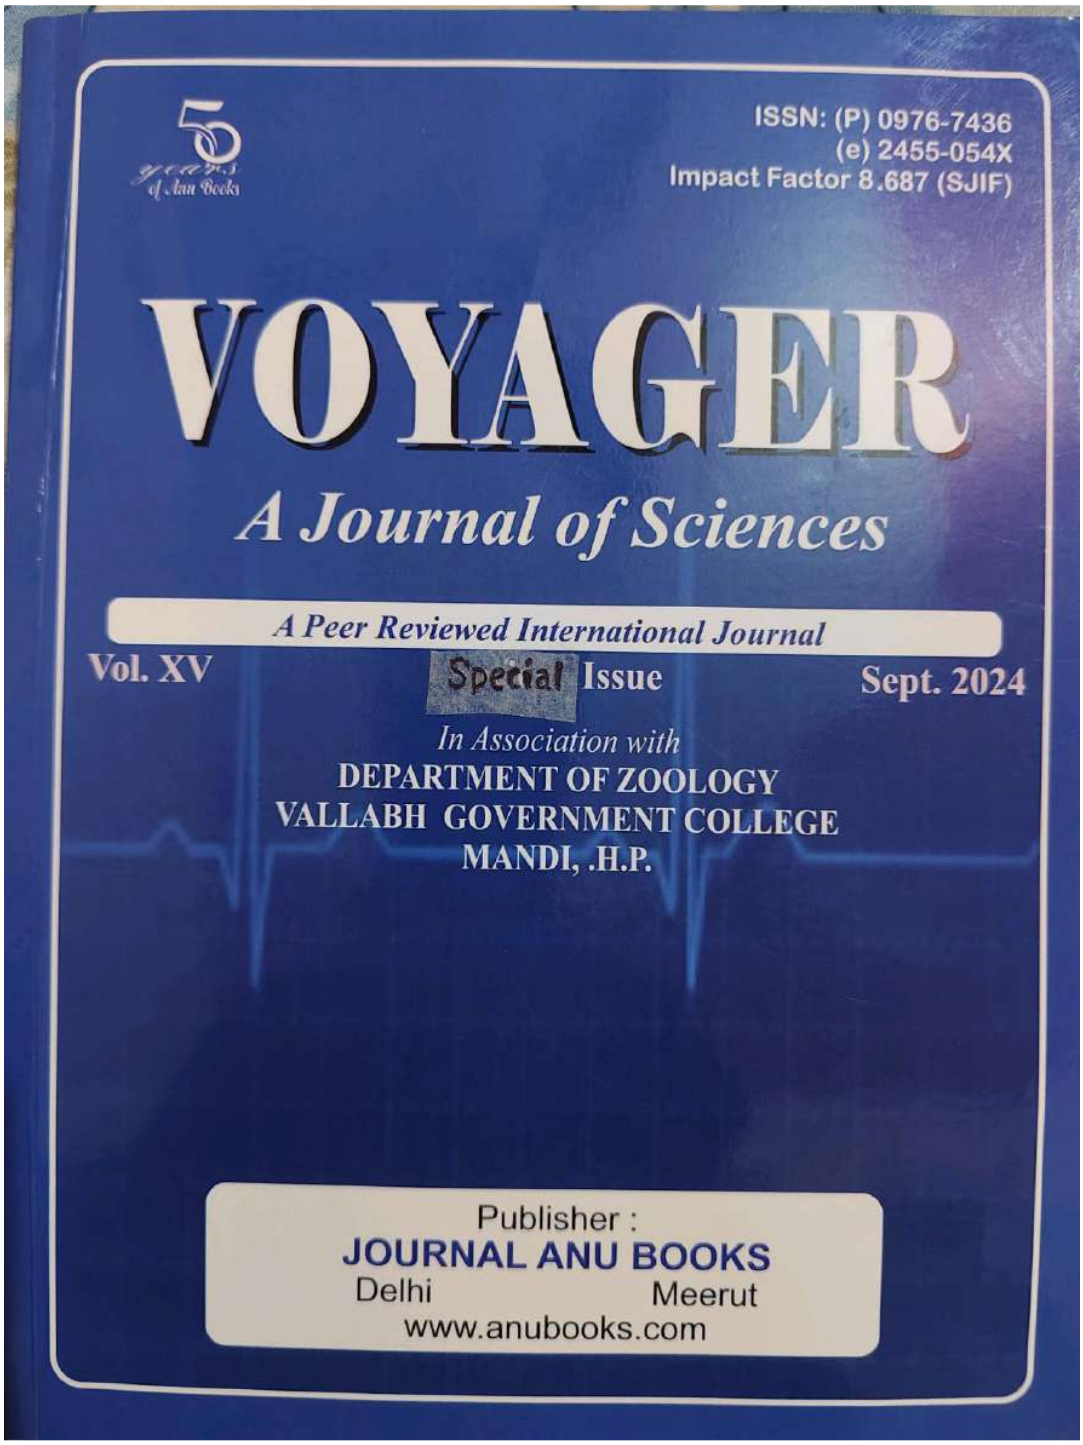

Abstract

Climate is changing day by day. During the last few decades climate change have become a serious global challenge. After 1970's the global means temperature shown sharp upward trend and human activities have contributed significantly to climate change. Change in climate poses a threat to the sustainable economic development, agricultural growth and economic welfare specially in developing countries. Climate change adversely affected demand side and supply side economics. It induced inflation on the one hand and reduces economic output, triggered uncertainty and changed the consumer behavior in recent. On the other hand, it was adversely affected our economy, Economic development, Environment, Size of population, Geographical location, Human health, Natural eco system, Food crops, food security, water resources, Livestock, fisheries, biodiversity and human well-being. Climate change is defined as a local, regional or large scale change in the long run average regime of temperature, precipitation, circulation and related variables characterising the Climate. Economic development requires large scale Growth in the Consumption of Fossil fuels natural gas being burned by industry and electric power plants, motor vehicles and households. This has resulted in huge. Carbon-dioxide (Co_2) emissions. This is the source of Greenhouse Gases which can trap. The infrared radiation from the earth within its atmosphere and create global warming. Climate change affect productive environments, including Agriculture Forestry, Energy and coastal zones. the implications of such climate changes for parerty and Gross domestic product (GPP) Could be enormous given the projected population Growth in developing countries

ABSTRACT

Medicinal plants have been used in the healthcare system since time immerorial in almost all cultures of world. In modern pharmaceutical drugs many of the active mechanisms are either directly or indirectly derived from natural products from plants. Herbal medicines are extensively employed all across the globe. The World Health Organization (WHO) states that herbal remedies are utilized by 4 billion individuals for various aspects of basic healthcare. The World Health Organization recognizes herbal remedies as a crucial element of fundamental health care, with plants representing approximately 11 percent of the 252 medicines accessible. Plants play many pharmacological roles, including antimicrobial, antifungal, antiparasitic, antiviral, antioxidant, anticancerous(Watson, 2021). The paper mainly focuses on the detailed account of important medicinal herb Taraxacum officinale Weber. It is perennial milky latex containing hairy herb. The distribution, habitat, taxonomic and morphological details, brief phytochemistry and medicinal uses of plant are provided in this research paper. This study will help in providing data on proper identification of the plant and for future research on new drug designing based on this plant and also formulations of plans for conservation of the plant as there are risks of disappearance of plant from its natural habitat due to excessive commercial harvest and local uses by the people.

Citations in Research Publications

This key indicator evaluates the citations received by faculty publications in reputable databases like Scopus, Web of Science, and PubMed. It measures the impact, visibility, and influence of institutional research on global scholarship, reflecting how often others reference these works. Citations validate research quality through peer recognition and contribute significantly to assessing scholarly metrics like average citation index and h-index.

Research Impact and Visibility

Citation counts directly gauge the reach and relevance of published papers, showing how faculty contributions shape ongoing academic discourse. Higher citations in peer-reviewed sources indicate influential findings that advance knowledge in fields like commerce and business studies. Data from the past five years ensures objective assessment of scholarly influence

Quality through Citation Metrics

Metrics such as average citation index (e.g., ≥10 for top scores) and institutional h-index highlight publication prestige in high-impact journals. These are fetched from Scopus (36,000+ journals) and Web of Science (14,000+ journals), excluding non-indexed sources for specific counts. Strong citation profiles aid funding and rankings.

Collaborative and Interdisciplinary Value

Citations often stem from collaborative papers, amplifying impact through cross-institutional networks. Validation accounts for affiliation IDs and minor data variances for fairness, emphasizing indexed sources over self-reported figures. This fosters a research culture where cited works drive policy, innovation, and commerce-specific advancements.

Institutional Benefits

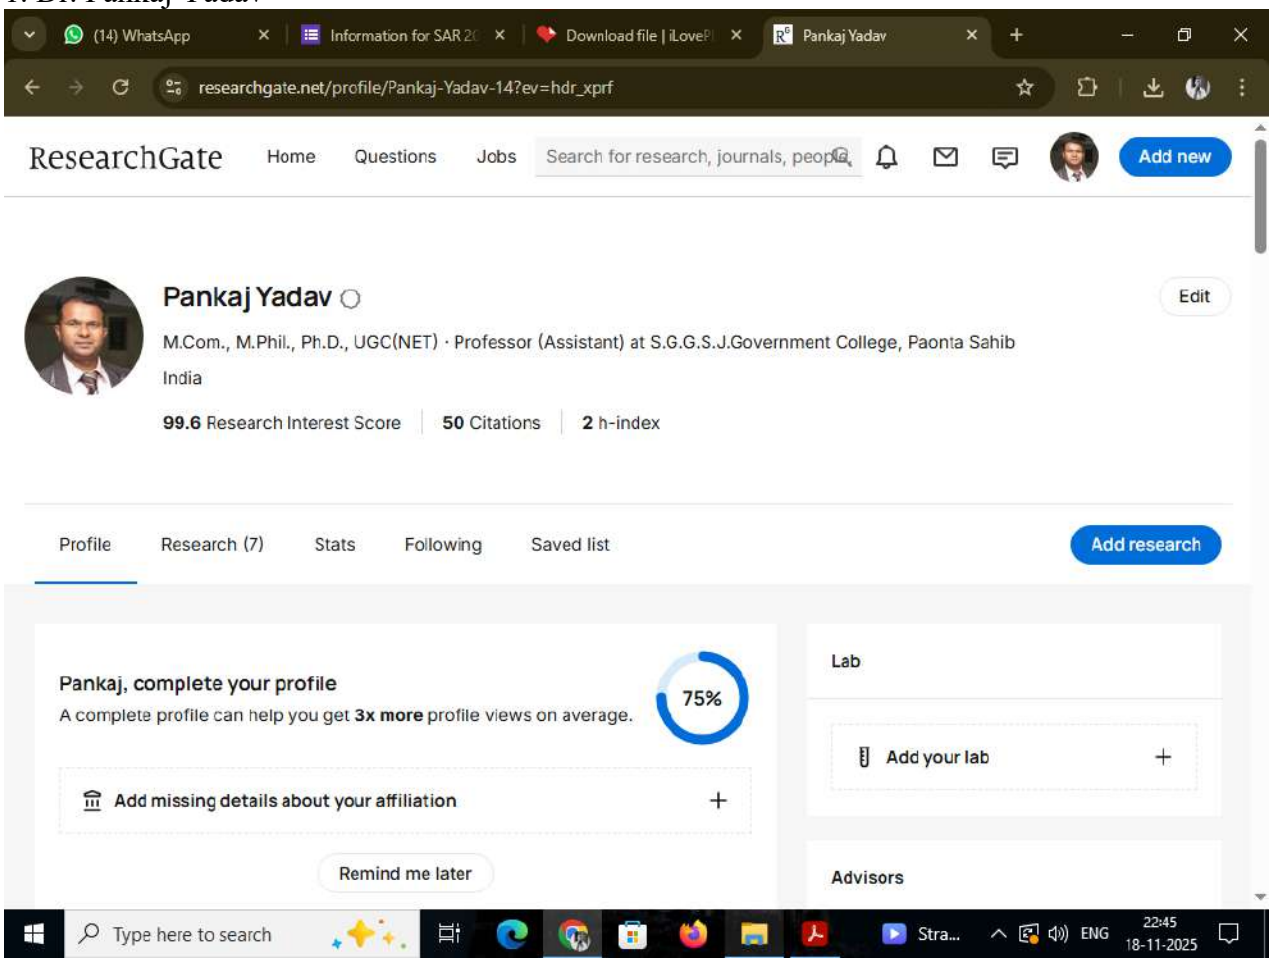

High citations enhance reputation, attracting grants, faculty, and students focused on impactful research. They signal leadership in knowledge dissemination, bolstering global standing. Institutions excelling here demonstrate sustained scholarly excellence and real-world applicability.

"Chemigreen Club" – An Initiative by Professor Amita Joshi, Department of Chemistry, A step towards Environmental Sustainability

In an innovative step towards promoting environmentally conscious practices in chemical education, Professor Amita Joshi, in the 2024-25 academic session, launched the "Chemigreen Club" in the Department of Chemistry. This initiative aims to foster awareness among students of B.Sc. and M.Sc. Chemistry about the importance of eco-friendly methods in chemical experiments. The club's motto, "Chemically Eco-Friendly", reflects its core vision of encouraging students to adopt greener and more sustainable laboratory practices. The Club also has a logo depicting the green methodology that must be used to carry out the chemical reactions.

Introductory Session 1

The Chemigreen Club provides students with a platform to enhance their personalities and skills by organizing and participating in various activities such as Chemistry Week, Ozone Day, and National Science Day celebrations. These events offer students the opportunity to engage with contemporary environmental issues and showcase their commitment to greener chemistry.

One of the club's unique features is its executive body, which offers leadership roles to outstanding students. Each year, based on their performance, students are appointed to key positions such as President, Vice President, General Secretary, and Joint Secretary. Additionally, several specialized squads have been created, such as the Technical Squad, Library Squad, Plantation Squad, Discipline Squad, and Cultural Squad. Each squad is led by a student squad leader, supported by other members. Reconstitution of the club is an annual process, ensuring that deserving students, based on their dedication and contributions, are given opportunities to lead and further their skills. The Chemigreen Club, with its innovative structure and green chemistry mission, is not only helping students develop academically but also grooming them into responsible, environmentally sensitive scientists. This initiative by Professor Joshi is a significant contribution towards merging scientific education with environmental stewardship.

New Book

सिटी रिपोर्टर | चंडीगढ़

सृजन सरोकार की ओर से शनिवार को सेक्टर-17 की टीएस सेंट्रल स्टेट लाइब्रेरी में उम्मीद कार्यक्रम हुआ। एक भाग में डॉ. जयचन्द शर्मा की किताब- "किसानी संवेदना का कवि कुमार कृष्ण' रिलीज हुई और दूसरे भाग में कविता पाठ हुआ। अपनी आलोचनात्मक किताब के बारे में डॉ. जयचन्द बताते हैं - लिखता मैं पहले से हूं लेकिन यह किताब पहली है, जो प्रकाशित हुई। कवि कुमार कृष्ण की अब तक कई किताबें छप चुकी हैं। लेकिन मैंने अपनी किताब में बात की है उनकी कविताओं पर आधारित किताब का। इसके लिए उनकी 9 किताबों को पढ़ा और समझा। इनमें डरी हुई जमीन, पहाड़ पर बदलता मौसम, खुरों की तकलीफ, मेरी कविताएं, घमर आदि शामिल हैं। पाठकों को मेरी किताब में कवि कुमार कृष्ण की कविताओं का निचोड़ मिलेगा। इन पर ही किताब लिखने का ख्याल क्यों आया? जवाब में डॉ. जयचन्द बोले - इनकी लेखनी में संस्कृति, ग्रामीण संवेदना, किसानों आदि का जिक्र है। जिसने मुझे भी प्रभावित किया। इसके बाद से ही इन पर लिखने के बारे में सोचा। 5 साल की मेहनत की बाद इस किताब को लेकर आया हूं।

काव्य पाठ हुआ...

दूसरे भाग में कविता पाठ हुआ। इनमें गणेश गनी, गुरमीत बेदी, कुमार कृष्ण, शशि कुमार, राजवंती मान, ब्रह्मानंद देवरानी, प्रियंका भारद्वाज, डॉ. पान सिंह, विजय कपूर, सतीश अंजुम, अमरजीत अमर, मनमोहन सिंह, नीना बहल, डॉ. संतोष शर्मा, सीमा गुप्ता, डॉ. जयपाल ठाकुर, सत्यनारायण स्नेही, प्रो. नवीन गुप्ता, डॉ. वीरेन्द्र राय, अनुरानी शुर्मा, नीरू मित्तल, निर्मल सूद,विमला गुगलानी और सुरेन्द्र कुमार शामिल थे। रतन चंद रत्नेश ने सुनाया - कभी बर्फ भी जला करती थी, जैसे जलता है जंगल आजकल पहाड़ों में, बर्फ के जलने से डरने लगे थे लोग, उसकी रोज-रोज की नई- नई रहस्यमयी कहानियों से। राजवंती मान ने सुनाया- कितनी कविताएं है जो लौट गई बिना बोले, बिना कुछ कहे।

ललित कलाओं के विकास में महिलाओं की भूमिका

डॉ0 उषा जोशी शर्मा
प्रवक्ता (संस्कृत)
जिला सिरमौर (हिमाचल प्रदेश)

लालित्य एवं सौन्दर्य के भाव से व्यक्त होने वाली कला को ललित कला कहा जाता है अर्थात वह कला, जिसकी अभिव्यक्ति सुकुमारता, सहृदयता और सौन्दर्य की अपेक्षा हो वह ललित कला कहलाती है। नैसर्गिक रूप से सुंदर, सुकोमल, लावण्यम और ममतामयी होने के कारण नारी का संबंध ललित कलाओं से स्वाभाविक रूप से रहा है।

इतिहासकारों के अनुसार ललित कलाएं मात्र चित्रकला, मूर्तिकला, वास्तुकला एवं छापने की विधि तक ही सीमित थी परन्तु अब के संदर्भ में ललित कला का क्षेत्र विस्तृत हो गया है। अब चित्रकला, मूर्तिकला, लेखन कला, संगीत, नृत्य, नाट्य, वास्तुकला, मूर्तिकला, लेखन कला की विविध शैलियों को ललित कला से जोड़कर देखा जाता है।

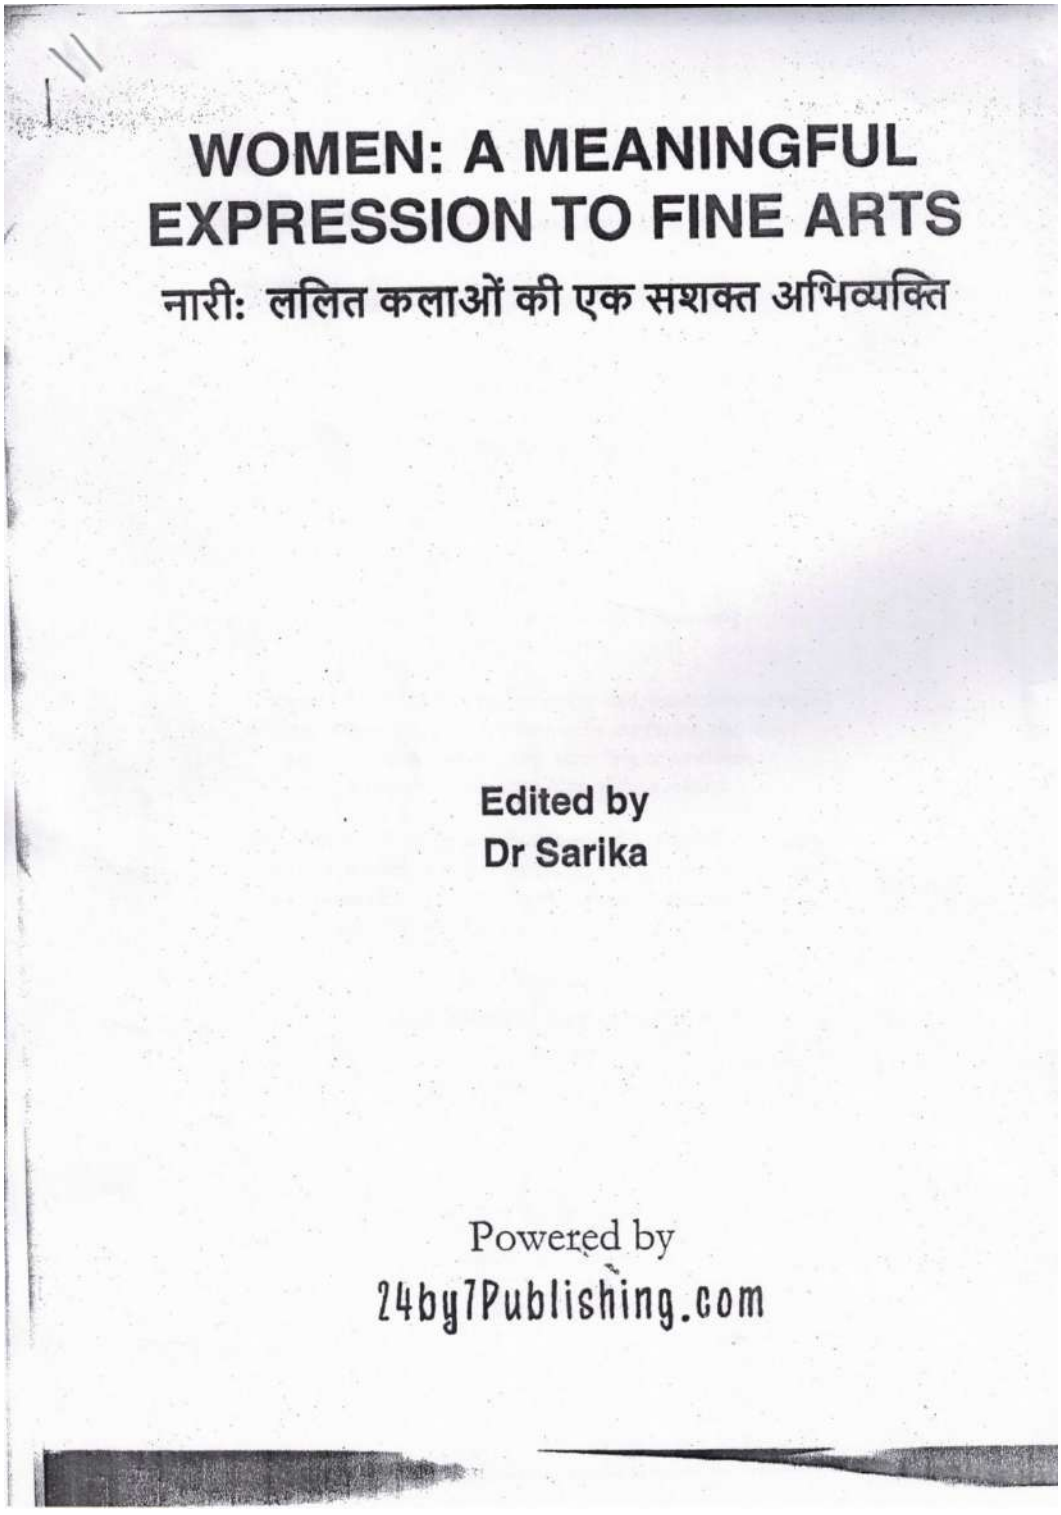

आज महिलाओं ने जिस प्रकार शिक्षा, स्वास्थ्य, राजनीति आदि विभिन्न क्षेत्रों में अपना स्थान बनाया है, उसी प्रकार ललित कलाओं में भी नयी ऊंचाइयों को छुआ है। मानव सभ्यता के आरंभ से लेकर आज तक के इतिहास को देखा जाय तो महिलाओं का कला प्रेम अनेक रूपों मे दिखाई पड़ता है। तब से आज तक महिलाओं के कला प्रेम की यह यात्रा निरंतर चल रही है तथा उत्तरोत्तर उन्नत होती जा रही है।

प्रागैतिहासिक काल में महिलाओं को अपने बच्चों के पालन- पोषण के दायित्व के फलस्वरूप रचनात्मक एवं सृजनात्मक भूमिका निभानी पड़ी। उस समय महिलाओं का बच्चों के मनबहलाव के लिए गीत गुनगुनाना, अपने आसपास के वातावरण, पेड़-पौधे, पशु-पक्षी इत्यादि की आकृतियों को दीवारों पर या फर्श पर उकेरना- यह सब उनके कला प्रेम को ही दर्शाता है। सिंधु सभ्यता के काल में भी महिलाएं घर द्वार की सजावट हेतु रंगोली बनाती थी, जिसमें वे पेड़-पौधे, पशु-पक्षियों और देवी देवताओं के चित्र बनाती थीं। यह परंपरा आज भी भारत के बहुत से गाँवों मे देखने को मिल जाती है। भारत के सभी प्रान्तों की महिलाओं ने अपने सहज सुलभ संसाधनों से लोक कलाओं को जीवित रखा है। भोजपुरी भाषाई क्षेत्रों तथा भारत के अन्य कई क्षेत्रों में महिलाओं की कला कई रूपों मे प्रचलित रही है, जैसे- चित्रकला, मिट्टी की मूर्ति बनाने की कला, अल्पना, थापे, गोदना, मेहँदी, महावर इत्यादि।

वैदिक साहित्य का अवलोकन करें तो उसमें अनेक ऐसे उल्लेख मिलते हैं, जिनसे ज्ञात होता है कि गृहस्थी के कार्यों के अतिरिक्त महिलाओं को संस्कृति के अन्य उपांगों की भी शिक्षा दी जाती थी। इनमें साहित्य, संगीत एवं नृत्य प्रमुख थे। सर्वप्रथम साहित्य रचना की बात करें तो प्राचीन काल से लेकर अब तक साहित्य रचना में महिलाओं की महत्वपूर्ण भूमिका रही है। ऋग्वेद में अनेक ऋषिकाओं का उल्लेख मिलता है, जिन्होंने साहित्य रचना मे अपना योगदान दिया है। इन्द्रदेव की पत्नी इंद्राणी ने ऋग्वेद के दशम मंडल के एक सूक्त की रचना की थी। ब्रह्मवादिनी घोषा ने ऋग्वेद के दशम मण्डल के 39वें और 40वें सूक्त का साक्षात्कार किया था। कक्षीवान की पुत्री घोषा ने अपनी तपस्या से ऋग्वेद के दो सूक्तों के दर्शन किए थे। अपने पति अगस्त ऋषि के साथ लोपमुद्रा ने 179वें सूक्त का दर्शन किया था। इनके अतिरिक्त श्रद्धा, कामायनी, शची, यमी तथा सावित्री आदि के नामों का उल्लेख भी वैदिक साहित्य के क्षेत्र मे लिया जाता है।१ उत्तरवर्ती साहित्य में भी महिलाओं की भागीदारी सदैव रही है जिनमें दक्षिण भारत की आंडाल, कश्मीर की लल्लेश्वरी, राजस्थान की मीरा बाई, महाराष्ट्र की सावित्री बाई फुल्ले तथा तारा बाई शिंदे आदि के नाम प्रमुख हैं। अन्य साहित्य लेखिकाओं में महादेवी वर्मा, मृणाल पांडे, आशापूर्णा देवी, झुम्पा लाहिड़ी, शोभा डे आदि अनेकानेक लेखिकाओं ने साहित्य की विभिन्न विधाओं मे काव्य लेखन किया है।

ऋग्वेद२ में गाती हुई स्त्रियों का वर्णन मिलता है तथा इसी प्रकार विदथ(सभा) एकत्र महिलाओं को भी ऋक-गान करते हुए कहा है।२ ऋग्वेद में कुछ स्थानों पर नृत्य में कुशल स्त्रियों का उल्लेख भी मिलता है।३ ऋग्वेद में ही एक अन्य स्थान पर देवी उषा को कुशल नर्तकी के रूप में चित्रित किया गया है।४ शतपथ ब्राह्मण५ में वर्णन मिलता है कि स्त्रियाँ साम गान करती थीं तथा उनके मंत्रों के शुद्ध उच्चारण तथा स्वरों के उचित आरोह व अवरोह की सामर्थ्य होती थी। इस प्रकार हम देखते हैं कि वैदिक काल में महिलाएँ ललित कलाओं मे निपुण थीं।

Green Audit

SGGSJ Government College, Paonta Sahib, recognizes the importance of sustainability and environmental responsibility in higher education. As part of its commitment to creating a green and eco-friendly campus, the college conducts regular Green Audits. These audits are essential for assessing the institution's environmental impact and identifying opportunities for improvement in various areas, including waste management, energy conservation, water usage, and biodiversity.

The Green Audit involves a thorough review of the college's infrastructure and practices. It aims to ensure that resources are used efficiently, and that the college adheres to environmental guidelines. Key areas of focus include minimizing the use of non-renewable energy, reducing carbon emissions, promoting green spaces, and adopting sustainable practices like rainwater harvesting and waste recycling. Academic Audit

Academic audits are essential for maintaining and improving the quality of education in institutions, and Government College Paonta Sahib has implemented a structured process for regular academic audits. These audits are a comprehensive evaluation of the teaching, learning, and administrative processes in the institution, ensuring they meet set academic standards and goals.

The primary objective of the academic audit at Government College Paonta Sahib is to assess the effectiveness of academic practices, curricular implementation, faculty performance, student progression, and institutional infrastructure. Through periodic reviews, the audit aims to identify areas that require improvement, streamline processes, and ensure that students receive a high-quality education aligned with the latest educational trends and guidelines set by governing bodies like the Directorate of Higher Education (DHE).

Key components of the audit include a review of lesson plans, teaching methodologies, student attendance, assessment procedures, and feedback mechanisms. Committee Constituted by the Directorate of Higher Education for Evaluation of Self-Assessment Report for College Ranking in Himachal Pradesh

Introduction

To promote quality assurance and academic excellence among higher education institutions in Himachal Pradesh, a comprehensive evaluation exercise was undertaken. The process aimed to assess the performance of government colleges across the state based on their Self-Assessment Reports (SARs). The initiative provided a systematic mechanism to analyze institutional strengths and ensure comparability across various categories of colleges.

Objectives

The primary objectives of the evaluation process were:

- To assess and validate the claims made by colleges in their Self-Assessment Reports through a transparent and standardized process.
- To promote accountability, continuous improvement, and quality enhancement in academic and administrative functioning.
- To categorize institutions into appropriate tiers based on their student strength and infrastructural capacity for fair comparison.
- To develop a ranking framework at the state level reflecting institutional performance across multiple parameters.

Methodology

The evaluation process was conducted in a three-tier committee structure to ensure fairness, uniformity, and accuracy of assessment:

- Cluster-Level Committee: Initial scrutiny of the Self-Assessment Reports was conducted at the cluster level, where basic verification of data and supporting documents was done.
- Zonal-Level Committee: The zonal teams further analyzed the verified reports, carrying out moderate-level validations and identifying key performance indicators across different functional domains.
- State-Level Committee: The final stage involved a detailed evaluation by the State-Level Committee, which validated scores based on objective evidence and submitted its recommendations to the Directorate of Higher Education.

A total of 1100 marks were allocated for the assessment, distributed among key dimensions such as academic performance, infrastructure, student outcomes, governance, innovation, and extension activities. The college initially claimed 1004 marks, and after detailed evaluation and document verification, the final awarded score was 1000 marks.

Final Results and Ranking

Based on the cumulative evaluation outcomes, the college secured an overall 5th rank in Himachal Pradesh across all three tiers. The classification of colleges into three tiers was based on institutional strength as follows:

Tier I: Colleges with large enrollment and extensive infrastructure.

Tier III: Small institutions with emerging developmental potential.

Analysis and Key Takeaways

The close alignment between the claimed (1004) and awarded (1000) marks highlights the reliability and transparency of the college's self-assessment process. The high ranking demonstrates the institution's consistent focus on quality parameters, stakeholder engagement, and adherence to academic standards. This recognition reflects the collective efforts of faculty, administration, and students toward holistic institutional development.

DEPARTMENT OF BOTANY
REPORT ON GUEST LECTURE ON "CAREER OPTIONS IN HORTICULTURE"

A guest lecture on the topic "Career Options in Horticulture" was organized by Department of Botany in collaboration with career counseling and placement cell of the college on 5th October 2024. Horticulture is the science and art of growing and cultivating plants, including fruits, vegetables, nuts, seeds, herbs, sprouts, mushrooms, algae, and non-food crops such as grass and flowers. It blends biology, ecology, and technology, offering diverse career paths across various industries, from farming to landscape design to environmental conservation. As global awareness of sustainability and food security rises, horticulture is becoming an increasingly vital and dynamic field. Shri Chander Mohan Sharma, the former director Horticulture research unit Shimla was the resource person of the session. He gave a detailed information was on various career options in the field of horticulture. He firstly explained the following roles and duties of horticulturist

- Breeding and selecting plant varieties with higher yield or better resistance to pests and diseases
- Managing irrigation, fertilization, and soil health
- Researching ways to reduce environmental impacts of farming, including reducing pesticide use
- Implementing sustainable farming practices
- Collaborating with farmers to enhance crop productivity and quality

He further talked about his contribution in the field of horticulture. He had given a detailed account of latest varieties of Apple which he impored from itly, Geneva and many other countries and multiplied their root stocks in his own nurseries. He also talked about the various fruit plants which can be grown in and around Paonta Sahib such as Mango and Strawberry. He highlighted that the wild fruit plant species such as Fig, red ber can be cultivated as latest horticulture options in areas like Paonta Sahib. He also emphasised that various natural methods and practices used for agriculture, horticulture and animal husbandry in our country are more better than those used in other countries because they are natural and do not harm the soil health. He highlighted that horticulture can be adopted as a career option but requires much patience and hardwork with less investment of money. The demand for skilled professionals in horticulture is growing due to increasing interest in sustainability, environmental conservation, and local food production. As urbanization continues and global challenges like climate change, food security, and biodiversity loss take center stage, horticulture-related careers will become even more crucial. By combining a deep understanding of plant science with innovation and sustainability, horticulture professionals can play a pivotal role in shaping a more sustainable and environmentally friendly future. He himself had taken about 16 years for establishing himself in the field of horticulture. The lecture was followed by the discussion session. He solved the querries of students. Prof. Dhanmanti Kandasi , Dr. Jahid Ali Malik from Deprtment of Botany, Prof. Deepa Chauhan from career counseling and placement cell and Dr. Ritu Pant from Department of Zoology were present during the programme. About 100 students attended the lecture.

The Department of Zoology at SGGSI Govt. College Paonta Sahib organized an enriching educational tour for B.Sc. 3rd-year students to enhance their practical understanding of fish farming. The tour was conducted in two phases: a physical visit and a virtual session.

In the first phase, 15 students accompanied by Dr. Ritu Pant and Ms. Sulakshana Sharma visited the Fish Farm at Badripurr, Paonta Sahib on 6th September 2024. This farm, spread across 24 acres, is managed by the Department of Fish and Fisheries and cultivates species such as Common Carp, Silver Carp, Grass Carp, Rohu, and Mrigal. Students observed breeding techniques using specialized hapas and learned about farm management practices.

The second phase involved a virtual tour of the Trout Fish Farm at Nohardhar, conducted via Google Meet with Ms. Samapi, a fish culturist. This farm, located in a cold-water region, specializes in trout fish culture, offering insights into temperature-specific aquaculture.

The tour provided students with hands-on exposure to fish breeding, species diversity, and aquaculture techniques. It successfully bridged theoretical learning with field experience, fostering entrepreneurial interest and deeper understanding of fish culture. Overall, the initiative proved highly informative and beneficial for aspiring zoologists.
